Editor's Note

This year we are celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Genealogical Association of Nova Scotia. It is a time to reflect on past accomplishments and look ahead to future directions. We have achieved some of our goals, but not all, and perhaps it's time to review and revise some of those goals. We need to hear from you, our members, to find out what services you would like us to provide and what direction you feel we should follow.

New features in this issue include a section on contributors' guidelines, which we plan to include in every issue in order to assist future contributors to the NSG. We have also added a list of genealogical researchers available for hire; all of these individuals have been certified as such by the Genealogical Institute of the Maritimes.

Remember our new mailing address!!! Suite 222, 3045 Robie St. Halifax NS B3K 4P6 Canada

Our selected publication half price sale continues; new prices are marked in the publications list near the end of the NSG.

In this volume of the NSG we'd like to highlight a three part series on vital statistics from the Antigonish Casket for the year 1898, contributed by Anna MacDonald. This very valuable resource includes many references to people from all over eastern Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island, as well as other areas. We are very pleased as this three part article addresses geographic areas that have been underrepresented in past issues.

In keeping with that goal, there is also a small article on lots surveyed in Victoria County in the year 1861. The source for this article often contains valuable information for genealogical researchers, the Journals of the House of Assembly for Nova Scotia.

And lastly, we would like to extend a huge thank you to Leland Harvie, who has stepped down as Series Editor. His contributions to GANS have been, and continue to be, innumerable and invaluable. He will continue to manage our website and co-ordinate the Antigonish Diocese Parish Records Indexing Project, so we haven't lost him completely!

Happy Hunting,
Janice Fralic-Brown

McLoughlin Family Bible

-submitted by Janice Fralic-Brown, Halifax, NS

Another stray bible has come into GANS' possession. A McLoughlin family bible was anonymously donated to the Halifax Regional Libraries recently. Joanne McCarthy, reference librarian at the Spring Garden Road branch, felt that the genealogical information contained within might be of interest to our readers and so passed it along for inclusion in the NSG.

At first I thought that I would simply transcribe the information and wait for our readers to provide the context, and, hopefully, the rightful home for this very interesting family bible. But the lure of an unsolved mystery proved too much and I had to investigate. Was this a Nova Scotian family? If so, where did they live? What did they do? If not Nova Scotia, where did they belong? Some were of the opinion that this might be a New Brunswick family. I had to find out.

Fortunately, there were some good clues provided in the list of births, marriages and deaths. Names, dates, places and other events therein helped to identify exactly which McLoughlin family owned this bible. For me, the best clues were the names that weren't McLoughlin. While McLoughlin was a name that could be found in many Nova Scotia counties I recognized Loveless, Bishop and Dewolf as Kings County names, and checked the GANS publication In Which County? Nova Scotia Surnames from Birth Registers; 1864-1877 just to confirm my hunch. Bishop appears 86 times in Kings County, out of 160 total provincial occurrences, Dewolf appears 5 times in Kings County out of 48 total occurrences, and Loveless (Lovelace) appears 12 times in Kings County out of 16 total occurrences. Kings County was where I would start.

Since the dates in the bible are so early I knew that it was very unlikely the family would appear on the 1861 and later censuses so I checked the indexes to the 1838 and 1851 censuses of Kings County. This McLoughlin family was not listed. Not about to give up, I thought that Eaton's History of Kings County might mention one of these McLoughlins, even if only to confirm that the women married into the Bishop or Lovelace families. Checking the index to the book, I noted two entries for a Matthew McLoughlin. On page 27, Eaton wrote "Mr. Matthew McLoughlin became the S.P.G.'s school master in Cornwallis in 1797, replacing Mr. Cornelius Fox, making him the second S.P.G. schoolmaster in Kings County." On page 335, Eaton states that Fox left in 1798, and McLoughlin arrived the same year, with a salary of 10£ per year. So hallelujah! There was a McLoughlin in Kings County at the right time to be the Matthew McLoughlin of the family bible. But more confirmation was needed. Since he was a schoolmaster hired by the S.P.G. (Society for the Propagation of the Gospel) it was very likely that McLoughlin's religious denomination was Church of England. Fortunately, the St. John's Anglican Church of Cornwallis records are available at NSARM and include the years noted in the family bible information. I checked the church records and finally confirmed that this was the family who owned the bible.

Below you will find a transcription of the family records found in the bible, followed by the entries from the church registers.

After the November 24 1805 entry in the St. John's baptismal records, I could find no further reference to the McLoughlins in Kings County. However, the bible records show that Phebe Ann and Sarah Sophia were baptized at John Chapman, Esq.['s] in Dorchester in 1814. I did a search on the internet for "John Chapman" and "Dorchester" and found, on the Westmorland (New Brunswick) Genweb site, a John Chapman listed on an 1820 census for Dorchester. A little further up the same list is a "Moistic McLocklan" with one man, one woman and five children in the household. Those could correspond with the children of Matthew and Sarah, as Margaret had died in May of 1820 and if we assume that no other children had been born or died since Isac [?] in 1815. Looking for further confirmation that this was the family of the McLoughlin bible, and knowing that Matthew had been a schoolmaster in Kings County, I checked the Index to Petitions for Teachers' Licences & Payment 1812-1882 (RS655), a Government Records database on the Provincial Archives of New Brunswick's website. There are three entries for a Matthew McLauchlan in Westmorland County, one for 1816, one for 1818 and the last for 1823. Given those dates, and allowing for spelling variations, it seems very probable this is the same Matthew McLoughlin family that had been living in Kings County, NS a few years earlier.

Of course there are many questions still to be answered, besides definitively verifying the connection between the McLoughlins of Cornwallis, Nova Scotia and the McLauchlans of Dorchester, New Brunswick. What happened to Matthew and Sarah McLoughlin in later years, before their deaths? Which Bishop and Loveless did their daughters marry? From those marriages, it appears that they kept up relationships with families from Kings County after leaving for New Brunswick. I'm sure someone out there knows the answers to these questions and many more.

A few words on the bible itself. It is leatherbound, with a sewn binding. The front cover has become detached, and many pages are loose but none appear to be missing. The title page reads "The HOLY BIBLE, containing the Old Testament and THE NEW : Translated out of the ORIGINAL TONGUES, and with the FORMER TRANSLATIONS Diligently Compared and Revised, by His MAJESTY's Special Command. APPOINTED TO BE READ IN CHURCHES. OXFORD: Printed at the Clarendon Press, By W. Jackson and A. Hamilton, Printers to the University; And sold by W. Dawson, at the Oxford Bible Warehouse, Paternoster-Row, London. MDCCXCI. [1791] Cum Privilegio." The bible is accompanied by a Psalmody of the Freewill Baptist General Conference, published at Dover, New Hampshire, in the year 1853. The name "J. B. Taylor, Rockland, N.B." has been stamped twice on the title page. There is also a bookmark in the Psalmody, which carries the heading, "The International S.S. Lessons for 1898."

In 1861 Dougald McNab was commissioned by the Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia to go to Cape Breton Island to survey lots whose residents did not have clear title. This was in accordance with the Act passed by the Legislature in 1859, "An Act to facilitate the perfecting of Titles in the Island of Cape Breton," Chapter 66 of the Local Acts. Appendix 28 of the 1862 Journal was McNab's report on his, and his employees', activities while fulfilling his commission over the previous year. Surveys were conducted in each county on the island, and the others will be published in future issues of the NSG.

GANS' Spring Lectures

Tuesday, March 27, 7:30 p.m.
Akins Room, NSARM, Public Archives site, University Ave., Halifax

Speaker: Dr. Allan Marble
Topic: Have You Ever Thought About Publishing Your Family Tree?

Part 1: Dr. Marble will describe and illustrate how to prepare a genealogy for publication. This will be based on the New England Register Method of presentation and will include a detailed discussion of how to cite sources.

Part 2: Dr. Marble will identify at least three approaches to publishing a genealogy, all three of which he has pursued successfully in the past.

Saturday, May 12, 1:00 p.m.
Akins Room, NSARM, Public Archives site, University Ave., Halifax
GANS Annual General Meeting

Speaker: Dr. Terrence Punch
Topic: The Genealogy of the Genealogical Association of Nova Scotia

Come celebrate 25 years with us!

We will hold our business meeting at 1:00 p.m. and Dr. Punch will begin his talk after a short break.

Vital Statistics from the Antigonish Casket, 1898 : Part I

- submitted by Anna MacDonald, Halifax, NS

(Editor's note: Due to the length of this submission, it has been divided into three parts, one for each issue of this volume of the NSG.)

The following transcriptions were taken from The Casket, published in Antigonish, Nova Scotia. Any reference in the text to "of this County" or "of this Town" usually means Antigonish. While a number of entries pertain to Antigonish County, there are also a large number of entries for Cape Breton and some scattered references to other parts of Nova Scotia as well as the United States where many had gone to work. Although many names are now spelled "Mac", The Casket (in 1898) almost exclusively used "Mc". The abbreviations used in my transcriptions are:

b.	born
bur.	buried
d.	died
d/o/d	date of death
f/o	formerly of
inst.	instant (meaning this month)
k.	killed
n/o	native of
sur.	survived
ult.	ultimo (meaning the previous month)
unm.	unmarried

In addition, Marlene (MacDonald) Hubley has indexed a number of the earlier years of The Casket (1852-1892) and posted the information to the Internet at the following site: http://www.rootsweb.com/~nsantigo/thecasket.html

Amyrs, John - in his 96th year; b. in north of England; was an acquaintance of Sir Walter Scott; emigrated to NS after 1848; d. 31 Mar 1898 at Heatherton; subject of a sketch in the 9 Dec 1897 issue of The Casket (21 Apr 1898, p. 8, col. 3).

Book Review

F. Clarke Fraser, Your Genealogy Affects Your Health; Know Your Family Tree. Lincoln, NE: iUniverse, 2006 (ISBN 13: 978-0-595-39686-3), xii + 100 pp. $12.95 (US), but $20/22.50 (Can).

A retired geneticist from McGill University, Dr. Fraser lives in his native Nova Scotia. He wrote this book with the intention of informing people about 'the significance of finding someone in the family with a familial disease.' He does this with a brief lesson on genetics, shows us how to draw a chart, then discusses family resemblances, physical and behavioural traits.

Genealogy and genetics may be converging roads in the quest for ancestral identity. Areas of talent and aptitude appear to have links to inherited or genetic factors. Some have been fairly well established, but much remains to be investigated and given scientific approval.

Heredity affects us when our genetic make-up predisposes us to any of several diseases, conditions or disabilities. Some families have "bad hearts," "weak kidneys," or seem to "run to twins." If we know that about our grandparents, parents, self and siblings, aunts and uncles, we may discern a pattern.

Most societies and religions frown on, or hold taboo, the marriage of close relatives. Apart from Egyptian pharaohs, sibling marriage has been exceptional. Royalty and others with an interest in controlling land (power) married cousins. A few dynasties paid the price of in-breeding, but overall the results were not as dreadful as we might expect. In fact, intermarriage with close kin can and does increase the possibility of having offspring with recessive traits found in both parents' genes.

Genealogists possess the records of who is related to whom. It is often possible to gather information about causes of death of family members. With the help of good literature we can make sense out of some of the bizarre causes of death found in older records. A family historian can draw up a chart showing people in a tree to which they have added the person's age at death and the age of those still alive. Patterns may be observable. The greater the number for whom data are found, the more valid the results.

Dr. Fraser writes with a deep understanding of his field, and combines that knowledge with a clear writing style that opens the door for the lay person to grasp the essential points, This is neither a textbook nor a superficial glimpse. It provides a genealogist with an incentive to re-examine his or her research from a better informed perspective. This book is, in my opinion, required reading for anyone interested in the health patterns of the people in their family trees.

Bulletin Board

Chinese-Canadian Genealogy Website

This new website, developed by the Vancouver Public Library with support from Library and Archives Canada, offers tools, tips and links to a large range of resources for researching your personal connection to Chinese-Canadian history and heritage. Major sections include an introduction to the principles, strategies and tools commonly used by genealogists; an exploration of the characteristics of Chinese names and their implication for genealogical research; an overview of milestones in Chinese-Canadian history, pioneer stories, and current heritage projects; tips for interviewing family members, sample questions, and information about documenting family heirlooms and treasures; an overview of sources of family history information, including immigration documents, civil registration records, newspaper announcements, directories, military and cemetery records; and information on genealogy in China and finding your ancestral home. There is detailed information about the head tax records maintained by the federal government, and information about other records which may be of assistance in finding information on the head tax records. To view the site, go to www.vpl.ca/ccg/.

New Book from the Ontario Genealogical Society

The Beginner's Guide to Genealogy, by Fraser Dunford, 2006. 32 p. ISBN: 0-7779-2157-X, $5.00. This book contains guidance on the very basics of genealogy, such as a glossary of terms, how to begin, the basic records to search, the importance of dates, recording your data, and proving your information, the locations of many essential sources, and how to pull it together. It does not include using computer programs, numbering systems, copyright issues and other more advanced concerns, but does enumerate these next steps you will need to understand. For more information go to www.ogs.on.ca/publications. Available from the Ontario Genealogical Society, 40 Orchard View Blvd., Suite 102, Toronto, ON, Canada, M4R 1B9.

Ontario Genealogical Society Seminar 2007

The Ontario Genealogical Society Seminar 2007 will be held at the Algonquin College, Ottawa, ON, June 1 - 3 2007. Ottawa Branch OGS will be the hosts for this annual event. It will be held at Algonquin College in the west end of Ottawa. We will have many of your favourite speakers plus a number of local genealogists. With the assistance of the other groups in Region VIII, there will be activities such as the Wall of Ancestors and genealogical competitions; check this website regularly for details. The British Isles Family History Society of Greater Ottawa will be handling the computer research room.

Algonquin College is located at 1385 Woodroffe Ave, just south of Baseline Road. Exit Hwy 417 at Woodroffe Ave (Exit 127) and follow Woodroffe Ave south, cross Baseline Road and drive two blocks south to 1385 Woodroffe Ave. The main access to Seminar will be through Building D, which is closest to the Residence and Parking Lot 8. Parking is free in lots 8, 9, 12 after 5 pm on weekdays and all day on weekends, as well as for those staying in Residence.

There will be seven lectures available to everyone, with five streams plus one plenary on Saturday morning. We'll start on Friday with the extra tours and workshops. Friday evening will see the Opening Ceremonies and the Houston Lecture. Early on Saturday will be a Plenary Session followed by the OGS Annual General Meeting, and the first four lecture sessions. The OGS Banquet will be held on Saturday evening. Sunday concludes the weekend with the last three lecture sessions and the Closing Ceremonies. As well as the lectures, the Seminar will include many vendors of genealogical and historical reference materials, CDs, maps, etc. NOTE: The vendors' Marketplace will be open to both registrants and non-registrants. The meals will be provided by Algonquin's professional catering staff. Accommodation at the college is very similar to that at Durham College in 2006: spacious suites with two private bedrooms, a kitchenette and a three-piece bath. The Woodroffe campus in Ottawa has a total of 525 suites, 24-hour security services, controlled-access entry and laundry facilities.

The Genealogical Association of Nova Scotia, successor to the Genealogical Committee of the Royal Nova Scotia Historical Society, was formed in June 1982. Membership is open to all who are interested in genealogical and historical research and support the objects of the Association: to collect and preserve genealogical material, promote the study of genealogy and family history in Nova Scotia, further ethical practices, promote scientific and effective techniques of genealogical research, publish and distribute genealogical materials, and acquire real and personal property as may be necessary or desirable. GANS is a member of the Genealogical Institute of the Maritimes, the Nova Scotia Genealogy Network Association, the Council of Nova Scotia Archives and the Federation of Nova Scotia Heritage. The Association does not have a library or staff to do research. The primary focus is its publications, workshops and liaison. Exchange publications are held at the Spring Garden Road Memorial Public Library.

Newsletter

The Nova Scotia Genealogist, ISSN 0714-3672, is published three times a year. The NSG contains short articles, book reviews, queries, sources for research, family bible extracts, etc. and goes to the printer on the 28th of February, 30th of June and the 31st of October. Material for publication must be received at least three weeks in advance.

Membership Dues

Annual membership is $25.00 payable to the Association by the 31st of December for the next calendar year. Membership includes receipt of issues of The Nova Scotia Genealogist, as well as reduction on queries and workshop admission. New members joining before the 1st of November are enrolled for the current year and sent its issues unless otherwise requested. Life memberships are available for $625.

Meetings and Workshops

The Association holds lectures, workshops and an annual general meeting. Dates are announced in advance through the NSG and on our website.

Honorary Life Members

The following persons, each of whom has made an exceptional contribution to the development and progress of genealogy in Nova Scotia, have been designated Honorary Life Members of the Association.

Mrs. Ruth Burgess	Mr. James McCormick	Dr. Terrence Punch
Mr. Leland Harvie	Mrs. Shirley McCormick	Mrs. Eleanor Smith
Mrs. Mildred Howard	Ms. Karen McKay	Mrs. Gwen Trask
Dr. Allan Marble	Mrs. Hattie Perry

Development Fund

GANS has received certification as a charitable organization and will provide official Canadian income tax receipts for donations to its Development Fund. Cards will be sent for memorial donations.

Contributors' Guidelines for the NSG

The following guidelines are intended to assist contributors regarding deadlines for contributions, length and type of articles submitted, documentation required, and acceptable format of material. The spirit of the guidelines is to promote high quality and suitable standardization of submissions for the benefit of our readers.

1. Each item sent for publication must contain the submitter's name and full contact information, including their mailing address.

2. Contributors are encouraged to send their submissions as Word, WordPerfect, or rich text (.rtf) documents by email attachment to the Editor at gans@chebucto.ns.ca. Written or typed submissions are also accepted and can be mailed to the NSG Editor, c/o GANS, 3045 Robie St., Suite 222, Halifax, NS B3K 4P6, Canada.

3. Submission deadlines are the 1st of February, the 1st of June and the 1st of November. Material received too late for one issue will be considered for inclusion in a later issue, if appropriate.

4. Articles should be adequately researched and documented. The use of endnotes and/or a bibliography is strongly encouraged. For guidance in the use and construction of endnotes and bibliographic references, preferred resources would be Elizabeth Shown Mills' Evidence! Citation & Analysis for the Family Historian and/or the latest edition of the Chicago Manual of Style. For citing online sources, Mills' Quick Sheet: Citing Online Historical Sources is highly recommended. The Editor will provide assistance regarding documentation to contributors who do not have access to these publications.

5. Submissions concerning Family Bibles, census records, family articles, sources of research and the like will be published subject to consideration of length, space, suitability and probability of reader interest. The Editor reserves the right to accept or reject submissions, without right of appeal, based on the accuracy of the information, adequacy of documentation, or any other factor affecting suitability for publication. Preference will normally be given to articles covering underrepresented counties or subjects.

6. Genealogies, as such, cannot be accepted for inclusion in the NSG, but may be submitted to the Nova Scotia Historical Review for consideration. A very short (up to three generations) family tree, composed in either the New England Register or Burke Peerage method, included as part of a more substantive article is acceptable. A computer generated genealogy may be accepted if it reasonably conforms to either of the above methods.

7. Normally, a submission, e.g. a list of names, must not exceed four pages in length, except in instances where such a list (for instance, the census of a particular area) would be unacceptably incomplete. The Editor may decide to split a long submission between two or more issues if the material is deemed to be of sufficient interest to our readers.

8. The Editor must obtain written permission from the submitter to reduce by more than five lines the length of an article or item otherwise acceptable for publication.

9. Advertisements pertaining to genealogy are eligible for inclusion in the Bulletin Board section of the NSG. We cannot, however, solicit or accept paid advertisements.

10. Editors of non-profit family history publications may publish material derived from the NSG, provided that the material has not been copyrighted and that the NSG is acknowledged in print as the source.

Genealogical Societies and Institutions in Nova Scotia

The societies and institutions listed here are members of GANS and offer research services to individuals both onsite and from a distance. Please contact them individually to determine the level of service they will provide. If any other society or institution in Nova Scotia with a genealogical component would like to be included here, please complete our membership form and we would be happy to provide your contact information for the benefit of all our members.

Certified Genealogists CG(C) and Genealogical Record Searchers GRS(C)

An individual holding a GRS(C) designation has a working knowledge of genealogical principles. They know, understand and are able to work with genealogical records, manuscript, typescript or printed and are able to prepare abstracts of common documentation.

An individual holding a CG(C) designation has, in addition to the above, the ability to analyze evidence, to evaluate and if necessary to verify information from secondary sources, to solve problems and to prepare an adequate family history to accepted publication format. He or she knows thoroughly the bibliography, historiography and terminology of his or her particular area of genealogical research.

The people listed below have been tested and certified by the Genealogical Institute of the Maritimes. The designations Certified Genealogist (Canada) [CG(C)] and Genealogical Record Searcher (Canada) [GRS(C)], confirm their professional qualifications. All researchers listed are members in good standing of the Institute; and have authorized the publication of their contact information. These individuals work for an hourly or contract fee; GANS assumes no responsibility for their work.
