EDITORIAL

Some of us are mere novices. Others have done much research thus discovering wonderful stories of the past. Our lead article " From New England to New France in 1704 " by Mr. Donald Read is the result of one man's search. I'm sure many of our members have interesting stories in their families. Do let us share them.

Work is going apace on the our list of the location of cemetery grave lists. 330 have already been recorded and copies should be available in the new year. They will be supplied in alphabetic order by Name, and by County and by Name.

Good luck in your research. Have a happy holiday and return in the New Year with your hands full of the treasures of the past.

From New England to New France in 1704

by Donald E. Read

In the town of Deerfield, Massachusetts, on November 24, 1683, Edward Allyn (1663-1740) married Mercy Painter, daughter of Shubael Painter and the late Mercy Lamberton.(1) Coincidentally, this date was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage at Ipswich of his parents, Edward Allyn (1638-1696), weaver, and Sarah Kimball (c.1640-1696). In 1686, young Edward had a 40-acre grant on the Green River; later he became a notary of Deerfield. In fact, he was quite a prominent man in the town affairs, town clerk 1704-1712, and for many years clerk of the market. Edward and Mercy had nine children, two of whom did not survive infancy. Their fourth child was a daughter born on May 1, 1692, and named Sarah after her paternal grandmother.(2) Before her twelfth birthday, young Sarah Allyn's lifestyle would be suddenly and dramatically altered.

Since the early 1600s the Indian people of northeastern North America had become enmeshed in the competing fur trade empires of the French, Dutch and English, and eventually in the wars of England and France and their colonies. Tribal warfare, once on the small scale of vendettas and dangerous sport, now assumed the all-out ferocity of their European mentors. The Abenakis, an Algonquin people, became feared warriors, allies of the French; as did the Mohawk-Iroquois, who fought for the English. At this perilous time the General Court at Boston was offering forty pounds for every Indian scalp brought in.

Some time in the month of May in the year 1703, Lord Cornbury, governor of New York, a cousin of Queen Anne, was advised of an army of French and Indians intending to make a descent upon Deerfield in Massachusetts. The intelligence was brought to Albany by some christianized Mohawks who had been to visit their kindred at Cagnawaga in Canada. Formerly they had belonged to the same village about sixty-five kilometres from Albany.

Before a year had passed, the threatened blow was struck upon Deerfield. This was the most remote settlement upon the Connecticut River, except for a few families at Northfield adjoining it. Deerfield, being easiest of access of any place upon the river, had often suffered from small parties. In 1697, an attempt was made upon it, but failed to succeed through the vigilance and bravery of the inhabitants led by their minister, Rev. John Williams. This year notice was given seasonable enough to put the people on their guard. Rev. Williams warned his people of the danger in his sermons, but too many made light of the intelligence, and of the impressions which naturally followed. The government, upon his application, ordered twenty soldiers as a guard. (3)

In the vicinity of Trois-Rivières on the shore of the St. Lawrence River in New France, far to the north, lived the Hertel family. On January 28, 1690, François Hertel, with three of his sons and two nephews, had led about fifty men, of whom twenty-five were Abenakis warriors, southward along the route of Ktine to attack the outposts of New England. On March 27th they assailed Salmon Falls in the neighbourhood of Old Orchard. (4)

One would not contemplate without shivering such an expedition launched in mid-winter into virgin forest, without shelter, without decent food, without assurance of victory, without hope of returning, towards an objective located over 600 kilometres away. Yet, in 1704, Jean-Baptiste Hertel de Rouville, aged thirty four, son of the noted Partisan, headed a similar expedition. Three of his younger brothers accompanied him, as did Gaultier de la Verendrye, then aged 18 years, and Jean Crevier, seigneur de Pierreville. The 140 Indians of the war-party came from the mission of Sault Saint Louis, La Montagne, Saint François-du-Lac and Lorette. Combined with 200 Frenchmen, they left from the village of Saint François-du-Lac on February 3rd. Travel was easy across the frozen Lake Saint François and through the Grandes Fourches, the detachment proceeded southward down the valley of the Connecticut River. At the mouth of the West River they left the dogs and sleds with a small guard and pushed onward, now half-starved. Their food was exhausted and they relied upon the game of the Indian hunters. (5)

At two a.m. on the night of February 28/29th the expedition arrived, amidst a snowstorm, at "fort Guerfil" (as "Deerfield" was often so written in Canadian records). In the fore part of the night, and until about two hours before daybreak, the watch kept the streets; and, then, unfortunately all went to sleep. The enemy, who had kept continually reconnoitring from a hill northwest of the village, perceived all to be quiet and attacked.

In the darkness before dawn on Tuesday, February 29th, in the leap year of 1704, the villagers of Deerfield slept. There were 291 inhabitants, among them the twenty soldiers assigned to protect this outpost of colonial New England (127 armed men in all). The settlers had been fearful of Indian attack throughout the summer and fall. Indians had, in fact, captured two men near the village in October. A new stockade had been built to protect the core of the settlement. However, as the winter wore on, their fears had decreased. More than 300 kilometres of deep snow separated them from the Canadian frontier, from their French and Indian enemies.

The snow was their undoing. The invaders climbed the deep drifts that lay against the palisade walls and dropped noiselessly inside. They first surprised the principal garrison house and then were into the houses while the inhabitants still slept. (6)

After a battle which lasted four hours, 44 colonists and 5 soldiers lay dead. Nine inhabitants had been slain in the meadow outside the town and three members of one family had been burned to death in a cellar. Seventeen of their forty-three homes within and without the stockade wall, along with numerous barns, were burned.

As for the invaders, Hertel was wounded, as were 22 others, among whom were three officers and one of his brothers, who was serving as adjutant. Only one scalp of their Indian allies was taken. (5)

In the confusion and noise of the fighting, fire and death, little Sarah Allyn, not yet twelve years old, became separated from her family and was captured by the enemy. Her parents and five siblings escaped. Her eldest brother, Edward, was not in Deerfield on that fateful day.

That same morning 109 men, women and children were carried off by the invaders on a forced march northward to the foreign land of New France. Only 61 of the captives ever returned to Deerfield, one of whom was the Rev. John Williams, spiritual leader of the community. (His book, The Redeemed Captive, provides a vivid eye-witness account of the murder, brutality and savage destruction of the Deerfield Massacre.) (7)

The prisoners were first taken over the river to the foot of the mountain. After snowshoes had been distributed among the grief-stricken captives, they climbed the hill and the journey began. That night, as they camped in the meadows ten kilometres from the smouldering town, a captive escaped. The minister was ordered to tell his people that if another ran away the rest would be burned. After rounding Bald Mountain the group took to the ice of the Connecticut River. Beyond the West River they travelled more rapidly for the dogs carried the packs and drew some of the children upon sleds. The Abenakis also drew upon sleighs some of the children. At other times they carried them in their arms or upon their backs.

The exhausting pace of about 60 kilometres per day took its toll. Eighteen prisoners gave out and were killed for loitering. The enemy was quite fearful of pursuit. No pursuit by the English, however, was made because of the depth of the snow and the fear that the captives would be slain. (5)

A fearful and lonesome Sarah Allyn was befriended by a fellow-captive, Elizabeth Stevens, a young woman whose husband, Andrew, a Mohawk Indian, had been killed during his defence of Deerfield. Elizabeth had been born at Northampton, Massachusetts, on August 23, 1683, to Robert Price and Sarah Webb. Hence, the name "Sarah" was another bond between the girls.

On the ninth day, at the junction of the White and Connecticut Rivers, the group separated into several parties. Each took a different route, and the captives were never again all to be together. Hertel's party with its captives, among whom were Sarah and Elizabeth, reached Chambly on the twenty-fifth day.

M. de Vaudreuil, governor of New France, treated all the prisoners with humanity. And although the Indians had been encouraged, by premiums upon prisoners and scalps, to lay waste the English outposts, the captives were received kindly by the French Habitants.

A year after her arrival in New France, Elizabeth Stevens adopted the Roman Catholic faith and was baptised on April 25, 1705, at Montreal. The following February 3rd she married Jean Fournau, aged twenty-six.

As Sarah Allyn grew through adolescence in Montreal, she too, adopted the French language and culture. With her baptism into the Church of Rome her first name, Sarah, was replaced with Marie Magdelaine. She and Elizabeth always remained close friends. In fact, Elizabeth and Jean named their third child Marie Madeleine in 1709. The couple had seven children before Elizabeth died of complications due to childbirth early in November, 1716, at the age of thirty-three.

Many, if not all, of the twenty-nine captives who remained in New France were assimilated into the French society. Some, like Elizabeth, married into French families. (Their descendants still reside in the Montreal-Sherbrooke region of Quebec.)

Magdelaine Allyn became a naturalized citizen of New France by swearing allegiance to the king of France early in 1710. (8)

Four days before her eighteenth birthday Marie Madeleine Allyn married Guillaume de la Londe, also of Montreal. The marriage took place in the church of Sainte-Anne-du-Bout-de-l'Île on April 27, 1710. Among the principal guests were Elizabeth and Jean Fournau.

From the marriage contract:

"Marie Magdelaine Allyn fille d'Edouard Allyn No.re (Notaire) de Dirfit en la Nouvelle Angleterre et de Mery Painter sa femme....."

From the parish register:

Madeleine Helene fille de Hidade Helene et Marie Hepeint de Deerfield, Nouvelle Angleterre....."

From Tanguay's Dictionnaire: (9)

"Madeleine Edeline et Guillaume Lalonde"

Note:	Hidade	=	Edouard	=	Edward
	Helene	=	Edeline	=	Allyn
	Mery	=	Marie	=	Mercy
	Hepeint	=	He paint	=	Painter
	Dirfit	=	Deerfield

Guillaume de la Londe was born on August 21, 1684 at Lachine, one of four children of Jean-Baptiste de la Londe (1640-1687) and Marie Baban (1639-). Guillaume's father was a soldier in the Carignan regiment and in the course of a skirmish was killed by the Iroquois in September of 1687. The Lalonde family came from Havre-de-Grace, Rouen, France.

Madeleine and Guillaume were blessed with thirteen children. En 1712 their firstborn was named Edouard, after her father, and in 1734 their last child was named Jean-Baptiste, after Guillaume's father. Just as Sarah had been named after her grandmother, Sarah (Kimball) Allyn, in the Puritan faith of New England, a daughter of Edouard, in 1744, was baptised Marie Madeleine, after her grandmother, in the Catholic faith of New France.

Another granddaughter, a child of Marie Josephte Lalonde (1724) and her husband, Thomas Ouattier, was also christened Marie Magdeleine shortly before her grandmother's death. It is through this child that one can trace descent through eight generations to the writer's own children. (10)

Marie Madeleine Lalonde, formerly Sarah Allyn, died in 1764 and was buried at Soulanges, Quebec, on December 26th.

"CONNECTIONS" WHERE ARE YOU?

The staff of "Connections" does a fine job of getting "Connections" distributed to the members, but we are all human. Occasionally a copy does not reach a member. If this should happen to you please let us know as soon as possible so that we can find the reason and put things to right.

NOTES ON SOURCES

From the Roffendale Society for Family History, Lancashire 1981-82 we read the following Notes on Sources. For further information consult the above periodical.

6 returns of emigrating indented servants

It may be of interest to those members who are trying to trace emigrant forebears to learn that there is a lesser known body of records at the Public Record Office which deals with 'indented servants'. By an Act of 1717 provision was made for those over 15 but under 21 years of age (who could not legally make contracts) to enter into an Indenture for a term not exceeding 8 years, in return for a passage to the Plantations. These 'Bound Servants' went mainly to three colonies, Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. Later, in the 1770s Government fears were aroused at what was believed to be excessive emigration, and returns were ordered to be made through the Customs Officers of persons leaving the country, so that for 1774 and part of 1775 something approaching emigration statistics for English ports resulted. They are in some cases incomplete, but those for the Port of London do appear to be complete. For example, in 1774 the numbers of 'indented servants' etc., sailing from London are 1,124 for Maryland, 548 for Virginia, 456 for Philadelphia, 35 for Georgia, 23 for Carolina, and 8 for Jamaica. In 1773 the numbers would almost certainly have been higher. The costs of a passage at about this period were around £9.

But for genealogists the most important feature of these particular records will be that they give names, ages, occupations, and former place of residence. People of all ages from 15 to 50 are listed, but the majority are in their 20s. Most handicraft trades occur, including many Spitalfields weavers, some are clerks, book-keepers, schoolmasters, surgeons, labourers and servants. There are few women, almost no family parties, and married couples are rare. The usual terms of service are 4, 5, 6, or 7 years. Many are Londoners but there are also substantial numbers of emigrants from elsewhere in England, Scotland and Ireland.

These records are now kept at the Public Record Office under "Treasury Papers 47-49, 10, and 11".

THANKS TO MEMBERS

The Quebec Family History Society wishes to offer thanks to Bill Overy and his wife for the donation of the map of Great Britain and the A.A. Members Handbooks 1978-1979. These will prove very useful to the members in their searches.

Bill has also donated several issues of the Folkstone (Kent, England) Family History Society Journal 1978-1984. This is another useful set of journals that the members can use to help them in their research.

Many thanks to Bill and his wife for these and their many other gifts of time and help. We shall all have very pleasant memories of your time with us. All the best in the future.

Our grateful thanks to Marion Hykle for her donation of Cornwall, England, "Cornwall Family History Society Journals" 1980-1984 and other journals. These should prove very useful.

FINDING AIDS

Tom Hillman of the P.A.C., Ottawa spoke on Saturday, October 26th. He is and has been working on the preparation of the finding aids for the 1891 census and is sending a preliminary copy of the finding aid book to our library. There are 138 reels which will be available on December 1st, 1985. There will be a list of contents for each reel. The 1901 census will not be available until 1993. (The Privacy Act stipulates that the records must be 92 years old before being made public.) They will be available for $21.00 per reel or through I.L.L. or at the P.A.C. The staff is being cut from 47 to 15 in the central microfilm office in Ottawa. If you feel that this cut is unduly harsh you might like to write your M.P.

Mr. Hillman was speaking at the first regional meeting of the O.G.S. in Brockville. The O.G.S. has divided itself into 11 regions. Kingston, Leeds & Grenville, Ottawa, Perth, Lanark, Cornwall are in one region. This 1st meeting was well attended and promises to be advantageous to members and Society alike.

MEETING NOTICE

Meeting: Quebec Family History Society
 Date: Tuesday, December 10, 1985
 Time: 7.30 P.M.
 Place: La Maison du Brasseur,
 2901 St. Joseph,
 Lachine, P.Q.
 Speaker: Dr. Robert Van Vliet Nicholls
 Topic: Pioneer Families of Lacolle & The Diary of Traver
 Van Vliet.

Dr. Robert Nicholls, now retired following many years as Professor of Chemistry at McGill University, is well known to many of us with historical interests in Southwestern Quebec and the Eastern Townships. He graduated from schools in Halifax, the High School of Montreal and McGill University in 1936 with a Ph.D. in organic chemistry. Dr. Nicholls has always been interested in history, particularly of family as well as science and technology. His mother was the daughter of William Henry Van Vliet and Sarah Ruth Hoyle and his wife descends from the Miner family of Granby, all well known pioneer families. He will include readings from the fascinating diary of Traver Van Vliet from school days to middle age.

In 1932 Dr. Nicholls helped found the Canadian Railroad Historical Association and is archivist & librarian of the Canadian Railway Museum at Delson. He was active in the formation of the Canadian Society for the History and Philosophy of Science as well as the James McGill Society.

The Public is welcome. Information from Mary Rose -- 488-7798

COMING EXCURSIONS PLANNED BY THE SOCIETY

Once again excursions will be planned for the National Archives in Montreal and the Public Archives in Ottawa. It is hoped that our visit to the Archives in Montreal can be planned for early December and a trip to the Public Archives in Ottawa for January, 1986. Sufficient numbers in each case are required before authorities will arrange to have a staff member on hand to guide and answer any questions we might have, so it is important that we have the numbers before a firm and definite date can be arrived at. If you have not signed up for any excursion as yet, please do so at the General Meetings or give me a call at 697-3416 and let me know you would like to come along.

Further details for our Annual June excursion will be in the March issue of Connections. If sufficient interest is shown, a trip to the Archives in Quebec City for April 1986 can also be arranged. An overnight trip has been suggested to allow more time. Your comments or suggestions on any of the above will be appreciated.

Don Martin,
Excursions Chairman

LIBRARY FACILITIES NOW SHARED WITH THE U.E.L.

The United Empire Loyalist Association also has a library at Glenaladale. We have agreed to share our libraries between our members. Books may be borrowed from the U.E.L. library by Q.F.H.S. members through the Q.F.H.S. librarian.

ADVERTISING

for Family Associations, and Researchers.

Our office gets many requests to publicize family associations and genealogical researchers . The Q.F.H.S. is pleased to know about you because this may be of value to our members. Unfortunately there are too many for us to afford to publicize them freely.

We keep a file of family association notices and a second file of genealogical researchers names and addresses at our office. For $8.00, we will publish a business card like advertisement half a page wide and six lines deep. Unfortunately we have had unfulfilled promises to pay so we only accept items paid for in advance.

In the library is a microfiche copy of the INTERNATIONAL GENEALOGICAL INDEX of the Jesus Christ Church of the Latter Day Saints (the Mormons). This includes Parish records and Vital Statistics from 90 countries.

Access to the Index is limited to members and is by appointment. Please call the library to ensure that a microfilm reader is available when you want it during regular library hours , Monday and Thursday. There is a per hour charge for use of the microfilm readers and any copies of the pages.

Out-of-town members may obtain information from the I.G.I. by using the I.G.I. Request Form in past issues of Connections. In future it will be in the September issue only. Or request a form from the office with an SASE.

There is a $3.00 fee for the search of a family name IN ANY ONE Province, State or County. The fee includes the reproduction of up to 5 pages of surname listings, handling and postage. A charge of only $1.00 will be made if the name requested is not found at the location specified. If it is more than 5 pages, (rare) you will be charged for the extra pages.

Please specify the Province, County or State for Canada , England and the U.S.A. because the I.G.I. is indexed this way. For Ireland, Scotland, Wales and all other countries, the names are listed alphabetically.

PLEASE INDICATE " I.G.I. SEARCH " ON THE OUTSIDE OF THE ENVELOPE.
