Editors comments:

Thank you, members of the New Brunswick Genealogical Society for supplying the most interesting and valuable information in this - issue # 4 - newsletter. It is your contributions that keep the society growing, and the Newsletter going out to you.

The next issue should be out some time around late August or early September. I'd like to have your contributions some time in July or early August at the latest.

A few ideas were tossed around at a recent meeting with regards to the newsletter and other proposed publications. One idea that was mentioned was a complete and up-to-date membership directory being published once a year which would be available to all members of the Society for a yet to be decided fee. Such a list would be valuable in that it would provide not only the names and addresses of each of the members, but the families they are researching.

I mentioned in issue No. 3 the idea of certifying genealogists in N. B. and the idea - from letters I have received - was well received. I personally feel this idea should be carried further. Perhaps someone could bring it up at the next monthly meeting.

Once again, many thanks. Keep those contributions coming in, and if I happen to overlook a mistake or two, please forgive me. I am always looking for suggestions and comments with regards to the Newsletter.

CHARLES BOYER, LOYALIST
Victoria Corner, Carleton County, N.B.

- by Geo. Hayward

In Issue No. 2, September 1979, in the Victoria Corner Cemetery Records, a grave stone inscription is shown for Charles Boyer, his wife Elizabeth Kenney, and Mary Sims, wife of John Boyer. Mary Sims was Charles Boyer's mother and the most remote ancestor in N.B. of the Carleton County Boyers.

In his narrative on Israel Kinney (Kenny or Kenney), 1944, Edwin W. Bell tells us the Boyer family came in 1783 from New York with the Loyalists. This is substantiated by Esther Clark Wright in her "Loyalists of New Brunswick". She lists Charles Boyer, and indicates he settled first at Grand Lake and later in Carleton County.

Cadastral Map No. 101 at the Department of Natural Resources in Fredericton shows that Lot 26 at Victoria in the Parish of Wakefield, Carleton County, 205 acres, was granted to Charles Boyer. His name also appears in the 1851 census for the Parish of Wakefield where he is shown as having been born in N.Y., and as having entered N.B. in May 1783.

Family tradition has it that his father, John Boyer, died and was buried in New York, whether before or after he, his mother and his brother left for St. John not being clear. John Boyer, it is believed, was born about 1730. He married, probably at New York, Mary Sims (or Simms) who was born about 1734 and died in 1811 at the age of 77 years. It is said that Mary came in 1783 to St. John with two boys, James and Charles Boyer. It is also said that James, the eldest son, was sent from St. John to New York on an errand while still a young man, that he was lost at sea on the journey, and that he probably left no descendants.

Esther Clark Wright lists, in addition to Charles, Samuel Boyer, Yeoman, who settled on the Belleisle in Kings County, N.B., and William Boyer, Mariner, who settled at St. John. It is not known if Samuel and William were related to Charles Boyer, or to each other. It seems quite clear, however, that all Carleton County Boyers are descended from Charles.

Charles Boyer was born at New York about 1768 and died at Victoria Corner Feb. 4, 1861, aged 93 years. On the 26th of Feb., 1796, he married at Mauderville, N.B., Elizabeth, daughter of Israel and Susannah (Hood) Kinney of Oromocto, N.B. She was born in October 1780, probably at Oromocto, and died at Victoria Corner Apr. 13, 1864, at the age of 84 years.

Bell tells us that a grandson, Shepherd Boyer, stated in 1914 that young Charles, when they were preparing to leave New York, watched his parents "pack up the most valuable things that they could take away such as silver spoons, etc."

The children of Charles and Elizabeth (Kinney) Boyer were:

THE THOMAS ALEXANDER FAMILY IN AMERICA - - - (contributed)

Thomas Alexander, founder of the family in America, son of Joseph Alexander and Sarah (Gillespie) Alexander, was born in 1776 on the homestead farm of his parents near Five-mile-town, Girlaw Township, County Tyrone, Ireland.

Thomas married Jane Little, an educated gentlewoman, daughter of prosperous neighbors, John and Mary (Stuart) Little. From their marriage until the year 1822 they lived on the home place of his father. There six sons were born to them and a daughter who died in infancy. Meanwhile his father had died and hers also on the day of his father's funeral, both aged about 70.

Great economic and social changes followed the close of the Napoleonic Wars. In 1822, Thomas and his wife, having in mind the limited opportunities for their children in Ireland, decided to sell the farm and go to America. They crossed the Atlantic in a sailing vessel that took six weeks to make the voyage, and brought with them their eldest son, John; their second son, Charles; and Baby William. Joseph, Guy and Thomas were left with relatives until the parents should return or establish a home in America.

For some years, the family lived in Saint John. Thomas became interested in lumbering, then active on the Saint John River and its tributaries.

From Saint John the family moved up the Oromocto River, and lived on a farm a short distance below Hartt's Mills on the North Branch Oromocto - the Meagher Farm, so-called. There in 1827, their youngest child, Mary Jane, was born.

In 1828 John returned to Ireland for his three younger brothers and brought them to N. B. to join the rest of the family.

The re-united family soon moved to the Pollett Grant on the road between Hartt's Mills and Tracy's Mills on the south side of the river.

Their next undertaking was to purchase from Daniel Smith a large tract of land known as the Gore from its wedge shape. Daniel Smith had obtained this land by grant dated June 11, 1790 and described as follows: "a tract of land situate, lying and being on the Southwesterly side of the Northwest branch of the River Oromocto, Partly within the Parish of Burton and partly within the Parish of Lincoln in the County of Sunbury, and abutted and bounded as follows, to-wit:

"Beginning on the Southwesterly line of a tract of land granted to Ambrose Sherman, where the Northerly line of Lot Number 14, allotted to David Mercereau, meets the said Southwesterly line, the said Northely line running parallel to the Northerly line of Lot 13, granted to Nathaniel Hubbard in the grant to John Mercereau and others, sixty poles distant therefrom; thence or from the above-described point of intersection or junction of the aforesaid lines, running by the Magnetic Needle along the above-described Northerly line of the said Lot Number 14, West one hundred and thirty-one chains of four poles each, or until it meets the prolongation of the line bounding the aforesaid grant to the said Mercereau and others, to the rear Westerly; thence along the prolongation of the said Westerly line of the said grant, North one hundred and thirty-three chains or until it meets the prolongation of the said Southwesterly line, and along the said South-Westerly line of the said Sherman's grant South forty-five degrees east, until it meets the bounds first-mentioned.

"Containing in the whole seven hundred and eighty-seven acres, more or less, with the usual allowance of ten per cent for roads and waste, being all wilderness land, and hath such shape, form and marks as appear by the actual survey thereof made under the direction of our Surveyor-General of our said Province ..."

At the time Thomas Alexander bought this land, the date is not available, there was a small house and some cleared farm land, but there was a general cover of spruce and hemlock timber. The purchase proved a profitable venture, furnishing a home for the family and employment for Thomas and his sons cutting the timber and hauling the logs by oxen to the mills or to the river to be rafted and floated to Saint John. The land being suitable for agriculture, it was divided to give each son a large tract.

The storey and one-half wooden house where the family lived was situated on what came to be called the "Gore Road", on high ground south of Gullison Brook (later called "Nason Brook"). It was still standing after the close of the century though not used as a dwelling. T. E. Nason, son of Wesley Nason, a later owner, remembers cooking feed for the hogs in the old house where there was a fire place and chimney. Mr. Nason was born Dec 25, 1888. A never-failing spring near the house furnished an ample supply of pure water.

In the allotment of farms, Charles was given the homestead. Continuing southward along the Gore Road were located successively the farms of John, William, Joseph and Guy, lying side by side, each with its own set of farm buildings. Thomas' farm comprised the eastern end of the triangle, with buildings located on the River, or Oromocto, Road. Mary Jane became the second wife of Aaron Hartt, son of the founder of Hartt's Mills, and his farm joined that of Thomas and extended between the North and South Branches and to the forks of the Oromocto River.

All these farms with the exception of that of Thomas have now passed from Alexander possession.

Jane died in 1858 and Thomas in 1868. Both are buried in Gladstone Cemetery at Fredericton Junction.

John Alexander (1804-1893) married on March 13, 1839, Sarah Jane Lindsay (1819-1888). They lived on John's farm where were born to them nine children, eight of whom lived to maturity.

On August 30, 1855, the farm house was destroyed by fire, the only possessions being saved were; the clock, the Bible, and the gun. The gun and Bible remained for many years at the homestead and the Bible is still in possession of one of John's descendants as is the clock. The gun has long since disappeared. At once work was started on a larger house on the same site, and this house still stands, being now the home of the Lloyd McCracken family.

By deed dated October 17, 1878, John Alexander transferred ownership of his property to his eldest son, Thomas Little Alexander, who was born June 17, 1840, and had married Sept. 30, 1874, Lorena Olive Robertson, of Petitcodiac, N. B. Thomas L. and Lorena cared for him until his death and raised a family of nine, eight of whom lived to maturity.

John Alexander had sold twenty acres, more or less, to Thomas Hartt. This land lying next to the Hartt holdings was deeded January 29, 1870. Thomas L. deeded to Wesley Nason some thirty acres lying between the "road leading from Robinson's Mill past Joseph Scribner's" and the European and North American Railroad, the deed being dated October 28, 1878.

The remainder of the farm stayed intact during Thomas L's possession and on his death, by his will, title passed jointly to his sons Arthur and Harry, who farmed it until Harry's death in 1938. Arthur then bought out Harry's widow's share and took possession. By Arthur's will in 1951 title passed to his widow, Margaret, and in turn by Margaret's will to her daughter, Katherine, in 1953. The same year Katherine sold to Lloyd McCracken, the present owner.

William Alexander (1822-1854) married Elizabeth Hoyt of Patterson Settlement. The Census of 1851 shows William and Mary living with William's brother Joseph and his wife Elizabeth. Therefore, it seems that William's house must have been built after 1851 and, certainly, before 1854. William died of cholera in Saint John where he had taken a raft of lumber, leaving Mary a widow with two small children.

Mary (Hoyt) Alexander sold the property to Daniel Davis, a man who had served in the British Navy, and returned to the home of her parents. She subsequently married George Kirkpatrick and raised a family of several children.

Daniel Davis had two sons, George, and Elijah, who in time required homes of thier own. Accordingly, the farm was divided with George and his family taking over the northerly section with the house built for the Alexanders and Elijah taking the southerly section where a house was built for him. This latter farm passed through a series of hands and the house has been demolished within recent years.

The George Davis farm remained his through his lifetime (he died in 1934) and his widow retained ownership for several years, selling to Stanley McCracken during the War Years as he wanted to cut the lumber on it, being at that time in the lumbering business. He had no use for the house and farm and ownership passed to his nephew, Lloyd McCracken, who moved into the house when he returned after the close of the war. He married Joyce Perkins and they and their children lived on the place until 1953 when they sold to Timothy Donovan, whose son, James Donovan presently resides there.

Joseph Alexander married Elizabeth Shirley of Burton, N.B. The date of marriage is not known, but their eldest child was born in 1849 so the marriage probably took place in the late 1840's. Elizabeth died in 1864 and is buried in Gladstone Cemetery. In 1871 Joseph with his family, excepting the eldest daughter, moved to Blaine, Maine, where he died in 1895.

It seems likely that Joseph's house was built in the late 1840's and that he sold it in 1871. This house was different from those of his brothers in that it was placed with the end towards the Gore Road while the otherhouses fronted on the Gore Road. The next owners of the farm were believed to be the Mott family. (Fleda Johnson's grandmother was one of the Mott daughters). After the Mott family moved, the farm passed through several hands. For a time Major MacIntosh and his wife and family lived there for a considerable number of years. Laurie and Arthur McCracken were the next owners, and Laurie and his wife still live in the same house, the one built for Joseph Alexander.

Guy Alexander, son of Thomas and Jane (Little) Alexander was born in Ireland in 1816. He spent the years 1822-1828 with relatives in Ireland until his parents could establish a home in New Brunswick and came out to that Province with his brothers Joseph and Thomas when their eldest brother John, who had come to New Brunswick with his parents in 1822, returned to Ireland to bring the younger boys to join the family. When Guy grew up for his portion of land his father had obtained from Daniel Smith he got the southernmost farm bounded on the south by what later became the Gladstone-Blissville parish line.

Guy married Mary Kimball of Oromocto, N.B. They are shown in the Census of 1851 as having no children but having Thomas and Jane (Guy's parents) living with them. Since Guy and Mary lived for a time on the farm a-lotted him and built a house there before taking over the homestead where Charles had been living, and the care of their parents, Guy's house must have been built in the late 1840's at the latest. Whether by 1851 Charles had moved to the Diamond Square and turned over the homestead to Guy and Guy held both places is not known. Guy sold his farm on the southern section to George Scott, who had married Phoebe DeWitt, but since George Scott and his wife had twelve children over the period 1860 to 1883, the oldest being born in 1860, it is doubtful if he would have bought out Guy before the very late 1850's. George Scott died in 1897 after being an invalid for several years. Phoebe continued to work the farm with the aid of her family who one by one grew up and branched out on their own with the exception of the youngest child, Elizabeth who married Stanley McCracken. The McCrackens cared for Phoebe until her death in 1912 and were the next owners of the farm. Dirk VanOs bought out the McCracken family and for several years carried on mixed farming with particular attention to the restoration of the apple orchards. He in turn sold to John Hall, the present owner.

Guy Alexander sold the homestead about 1870 to David Smith and it passed later to his daughter Caroline and her husband, Wesley Nason. It still remains in the Nason family with the exception of several building lots recently sold. Guy Alexander and his family moved to Blaine, Maine, where he died in 1891 and Mary in 1918. They are buried in Pine Grove Cemetery, West Bangor, Maine.

Charles Alexander married in 1839 Mary Boone of Tracey, N.B. She died in 1840, leaving one son, Thomas William. Charles later married Chloe Nevers and they made their home on the Diamond Square which, at one time, was sufficiently large a settlement to warrant having a school of its own. A picture of Charles's house on the Diamond Square shows it to be of the same general pattern as those of his brothers. This house has long since been destroyed.

Thomas Alexander, son of Thomas and Jane (Little) Alexander acquired the land at the easternmost tip of the triangular tract called "The Gore", his farm adjoined those of his brothers and his brother-in-law, Aaron Hartt. Thomas was a farmer and lumberman. He married Frances Louise Shirley (a half-sister to the wife of his brother, Joseph). Thomas and Frances' oldest child was born in 1853, so Thomas's house was probably built about 1851. Thomas and Frances had a family of eight. She died in 1873. Subsequently, Thomas married Mary Merrithew of Keswick, N.B. and had one son, Stirling L. Thomas died in 1907 and Mary in 1916. Thomas and his wives are buried in Gladstone Cemetery. Thomas's farm passed to his son Stirling, who with his wife, Amanda (Miller) and their family lived on it until about 1930 when Stirling's son, Frank, took over the farm and his parents moved to the Village of Fredericton Jct. This is the only farm of the original Alexander ones that still remains in the family name.

The five houses built for the Alexander brothers that remain have been altered by additions of ells, dormer windows, etc., but the basic pattern in each can still be seen to be the same. All are in good repair and serving their present occupants well.

THE UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS" ASSOCIATION OF CANADA
