Was Bringham Young A Descendant of New Brunswick U.E.L Loyalist ?

By Daniel Johnson

[From The Daily Telegraph, St. John, Thursday, April 6, 1911 page 6]

This Question Dealt With in Interesting Paper by D.R. Jack Before Loyalist Society - An Article Which Appeared in Toronto Mail - A Story of Hardships.

At the regular meeting of the Loyalist Society, Tuesday evening, D.R. Jack read the following interesting paper:

Recently the writer discovered among the literary remains of a former resident of Fredericton, a portion of an old scrapbook, the contents of which consisted principally of domestic receipts of various sorts, but containing at the same time a curious newspaper 'story' published at St. John thirty-five years ago. The copy under review is printed in ordinary news type, and has neither the name of the publication from which it was clipped, nor the name of the writer, two very important features in judging of the credibility of an alleged genealogical article. This article is republished from the 'Toronto Mail' and is so credited, and is dated 'St. John' (N.B.) Jan. 10, 1876. The title is as follows: Bringham Young's Birth and Early Years in New Brunswick.

The article in question opens with the statement that its writer had been informed that the great Bringham Young had been born in Queens County, New Brunswick, and that he having determined to trace this rumor to its source, spent two weeks in driving over a snowy country, in the course of which he covered a distance of over 150 miles. Several old persons who were then surviving had been interviewed; some of them neighbors of the father of the alleged Bringham Young; chief among them being Captain John Maclean, the son of Archibald Maclean, U.E. Loyalist, the oldest justice of the peace in Queens county, and who was stated to have been the maternal uncle of Bringham Young.

From the style of the article, from certain other internal evidences, as well as from the following facts, we would appear to be justified in the conclusion that the writer of this sensational article was none other than the late Dr. E. Stone Wiggins, whose name needs no introduction to the reading public of Canada.

About the year 1876, the 'Watchman' was first issued, being published at St. John (N.B.). This paper only lasted a few months, and it contained little of permanent value, if we except a series of articles entitled 'History of Queens County, New Brunswick. Prize Essay for The Watchman by E. Stone Wiggins, L.L.D. After devoting a short amount of space to an historical introduction, this series of articles consisted of brief genealogical sketches of many Queens county families, most of them of Loyalist origin, arranged and printed in alphabetical order. The collection of facts set forth in this series of papers took place prior to November, 1876 and the article with which this paper chiefly deals was dated Jan. 10, 1876. It is not all improbable that Dr. Wiggins while making an active search in Queens county for data for his prize essay, gathering the material for the article under review.

It is no secret that the biographical sketches of Dr. Wiggins are not entirely reliable by reason of carelessness in the verification of statements put forward, and the possibly too ready acceptance of unconfirmed family tradition for historical facts. His writings also show defects due to careless proof reading, which make it necessary to use with caution any historical data which he has left to us. The Bringham Young story displays precisely the faults complained of, as will be disclosed later. It nevertheless, contains not a little historical data which the writer has been able to verify, in part by means of the church records kept by Rev. Richard Clark and other rectors of Gagetown, by the aid of records of provincial grants and from other undisputed sources. That Peter Young was a Loyalist who settled near the Grand Lake, that he had several children, most of them born after the arrival of the family in this province, that early in the nineteenth century the name ceases to appear in the church records of Gagetown, that he was connected with the Maclean, Ferris and Sypher families, there is no doubt.

The following is the first portion of the historical narrative contained in the article from the 'Toronto Mail'.

* Young's Cove, an arm of the Grand Lake, Queens county, New Brunswick, received its name from Peter Young, a blacksmith, a Dutchman and U.E. Loyalist, who in the year 1876 (1786? D.R. Jack) settled on the farm later owned and occupied by Mr. Isaac Snodgrass. Mr. Young was six feet three inches in height, of a powerful frame, sharp features and greatly disfigured by small pox. He had but one child, Abraham, who though not so tall as his father, was a person of great bodily strength, good-looking, with rosy cheeks and smooth skin. To give an idea of his strong arm, it may be mentioned that his father, unable to provide him with a hay fork of sufficient strength, made one with his own hand, the tines of which were steel an inch in diameter, the handle being of iron. The fork passed into the possession of Benjamin Ellsworth, and in turn became the property of Mr. Robert Snodgrass who purchased Mr. Ellsworth's farm.

Abraham Young married Miss Catherine Maclean, daughter of Archibald Maclean, a U.E. Loyalist who settled on Cumberland Bay, also an arm of the Grand Lake, in the year 1785. Miss Catherine who was the only child of that family born before the advent of the Loyalists, was sister to Captain John Maclean, who was the father-in-law of John Ferris, M.P., then sitting member for Queens (1876) and was, as aforesaid, the maternal uncle of Brigham Young. The character of Catharine appears to have greatly reflected the coarseness of the times in which she lived. Indeed, it was said of her by her own family that she was never known to shed a tear, a disposition which, however extraordinary in a woman, seemed happily fitted for the society of one of the most unsympathetic and brutal of husbands, who was as great a stranger to the higher sensations of human nature as he was to the alphabet of his own language. Having learned, though imperfectly, his father's trade, Mr. Abraham Young settled on the farm later owned by Gilbert Wiggins, J.P., whose grandfather purchased it from Mr. Young when he left New Brunswick. This farm is one of the most picturesque in the country; its high rocky front and lofty crowning landscape being the most attractive object that meets the eye on leaving the St. John and entering that fine sheet of water, the Grand Lake.

It was here that his son Brigham, the notorious, Brigham Young was born, March 24, 1801, the very night on which his grandfather, Archibald Maclean, died. Brigham, with his father and two brothers was baptized at the residence of Ludovic Syphers, in the parish of Canning, by Rev. Richard Clark, rector of Gagetown, on March 3, 1806. Here also were born his brothers Peter, Martin, George, Archibald and Henry. His sister Rhoda also born here, died in infancy. His four sisters who were born after the family left the country, settled in different parts of the United States. Peter became a cripple and died at the age of three years; Archibald died on the journey up the St. John; Henry was drowned in the Alleghany river in (New) York state in 1864 and Martin and George are in the United States (1876) having frequently corresponded with their uncle, John Maclean.

The father, Abraham Young, moved to Canada in August, 1808. He took his journey via the St. John, going up that river in a bark canoe, in which frail craft he carried his moveables and four flaxen haired children. His little wife - for she was a small woman - accompanied him with three horses, she riding one and leading another, while Bringham, her son, sat upon a third. It was when about ten miles below Fredericton and Captain Maclean met his brother-in-law, and seeing the four little white heads in the canoe, he called to Mr. Young to stop, as he wished to speak to the children, but he gruffly exclaimed, applying more muscle to his pole, 'I have a great ways to go, and no money to spend.' and pursued his journey against the stream. A few rods further down he met his sister, Mrs. Young, she having dismounted to arrange her baggage. Riding up at this moment, she requested him to aid her in remounting, which he did, but before he could say adieu, she and little Bringham galloped off and were soon unceremoniously out of sight. But the third day after Mr. Young met with an accident that served greatly to darken, not only his present hopes, but his future history; for struggling up a rapid, his canoe was overturned, and everything that it contained thrown into the water. The brave man seized his four children, and with the greatest difficulty succeeded in bearing them, though greatly exhausted, to the bank. One of them, Archibald, took cold and died. He had on board a churn filled with axes, manufactured and ground by himself, which he intended for sale on his arrival in Canada, where these implements were worth two pounds each. This churn also contained all his money to the amount of thirty pounds, which was in silver, for there was no paper money in those days, and this with the axes went to the bottom and neither was ever recovered.

In the meantime the canoe had passed swiftly down with the tide, and it was not until he had torn nearly all the clothes from his back, plunging through the brambles on the river's bank, the Mr. Young succeeded in overtaking and securing it. But in spite of opposing difficulties, being now stripped of everything, even bread for his children, his powerful arms swept his little household onward, and in a few weeks he reached his destination. Here by dint of perseverance and by the assistance of Bringham and Henry, both of whom were remarkable for their industry, he hewed out for himself a home in the wilderness, having received a land grant from the Canadian government."

We now reach a portion of the narrative which must be received with even greater caution than that which preceded it, and which is as follows.

"His season of prosperity, however, was brief, for having used a powerful remedy to remove an innocent disease with which he had been annoyed, he took cold and lost the use of his legs, so that he was unable ever afterwards to support his family. After residing in Canada a number of years he resolved to dispose of his farm, and here we witness the early cropping out of that selfishness and want of affection which characterizes Brigham Young as the most remarkable man that ever saw Christendom. The farm was disposed of to a certain acquaintance, an Irishman, who lived a few miles distant, for three hundred and twenty-five pounds, and on a certain day Brigham was sent to bear the deed and receive the money, but instead of taking the price of the farm to his father, which was all that he possessed in the world, he put the money into his pocket and fled to the United States. Mr. Young and his family believed their son to have been robbed and murdered. Accordingly they had the purchaser brought before the grand jury, but he being twice acquitted they became so disgusted with British justice that they removed to the United States, where they died in innocence of the cool perfidy of their son. In the meantime Brigham employed his cash in storing his mind with useful instruction, and at length joined Joe Smith in the establishment of that religion which has for its object the social and moral captivity of women. "

In the foregoing statement, it will be observed that the specific statement is made that Brinham or Brigham Young was born upon the farm of Abraham Young, his grandfather being Peter Young, Loyalist on 'March the 24th, 1801, the very night on which his grandfather, Archibald Maclean, died' and further that Brimham with his father and two brothers was baptized at the residence of Ludovic Syphers, in the parish of Canning, by Rev. Richard Clark, rector of Gagetown on the 3rd of March, 1806". This paragraph is entirely erroneous. The writer has before him at the present time, a complete transcript of the records of the parish of Gagetown, from the commencement for the period of nearly fifty years and upon examining said record no such name as that of Brimham or Brigham Young is to be found at any date. We further find that on the date named Mr. Clark was at Hampstead where he performed a marriage ceremony, but that on the 8th of March 1806, he was at the Grand Lake, where he baptized 29 persons, including "Archabald, son of Abram and Catherine Young". As there are one or more very glaring typographical errors, such as the year 1876 for 1786, in the reprint of the 'Toronto Mail's article, it is possible that the date 3rd March, 1806, should read 8th March, 1806, but the name of the child of Abraham and Catherine Young is distinctly stated to be "Archabald" and not Brimham or Bringham. This would not be conclusive evidence that this child who was christened 'Archabald' might not have been known under a different name at a later date. Against this, however, we have the statement of the writer of the account quoted from, that after the incident of the overturning of the canoe, previously alluded to, one of the four little children who were thus thrown into the water, "Archibald took cold and died."

Much of the minor incident that has been interwoven which such facts as have been verified might be accepted as highly probably family tradition, but care and discrimination must be exercised in accepting even such family traditions.

Another serious inaccuracy is the statement that Archibald Maclean, father of Catherine (Maclean) Young was a U.E. Loyalist. No such name is to be found in the government record of grantees of Queens county, nor does the name appear in any reliable annals of Queens county that have thus far been discovered, but the name of Alexander Maclean is to be found in the essay on Queens County by Dr. Wiggins by Dr. Wiggins previously alluded to, and he is therein stated to have been the father of Catherine who married Abraham Young.

An Archibald Maclean is mentioned by Sabine (Vol. 2 p.70) as having been a captain in the New York Volunteers, and as having died at Nashwaak in 1830, aged seventy-six, but he could not have been the individual connected by marriage with the Young family.

For the present, the only conclusion that we are justified in making is in the words of the favorite Scotch verdict 'Not proven' and we must trust to some later discovery of more conclusive evidence to either confirm or entirely annul this interesting story.

The 26th(N.B.) Battalion's Return to Canada

By Harry M. Heckbert

Following their active participation in many battles including Mont Sorrel, Hill 70, Somme, Ypres, Fleurs-Courcellette, Passchendaele, Vimy, Amiens, Arras, Cambrai and many others, the Battalion participated in the triumphal march through Bonn in Germany before they started to wend their way back home through Belgium, then France and England before they sailed for Canada from Southampton in May 1919 aboard the S.S. Olympic.

They arrived in Halifax on 27th May and then came home to Saint John by train on the following day. Again, thousands turned out to cheer their return to the City where it all began. Their beloved 26th Battalion was home - at least the survivors of the originals and the many brave reinforcement members.

Sad to relate, they had left behind 886 Officers and Other Ranks who had been killed or had died of wounds or sickness. More than two thousand others of the originals and reinforcements had been wounded or evacuated because of sickness.

As ranks became depleted, reinforcements would arrive from Canada. In fact, about 8,000 men served in the Battalion from its inception until it arrived home in 1919. It follows then that there were many more soldiers who served with distinction in the "Fighting 26th" than those listed on these nominal rolls.

They served with great distinction - nine times Officers were awarded the Distinguished Service Order (DSO) - there were 43 Military Cross (MC) awards to Officers.

The NCOs and men were certainly not found wanting when it came to bravery. 27 Distinguished Conduct Medals (DCM) and no fewer than 210 Military Medal (MM) awards went to the Other Ranks. 35 others of all rank received foreign awards or were Mentioned In Despatches.

The following list of those coming home in May 1919 includes only 113 of the 1,193 who left Saint John in June 1915.

MAINE GENEALOGY--A BIBLIOGRAPHICAL GUIDE

When John E. Frost Ph. D. of Eliot, Me., retired in 1982 from the librarianship of New York University, he soon revised, for the Maine Historical Society his popular monograph "Maine Genealogy-A Bibliographical Guide" (2nd. ed. 1985).

About that time he undertook the massive project of abstracting and indexing all personal names appearing in the records of the York County (Me.) Probate Court for the full colonial period. Having now completed his task, Dr. Frost has recently given copies of this outstanding work in microform to several libraries, including those of the Maine Historical Society, the New Hampshire Historical Society and the New England Historic Genealogical Society as well as to the Maine State Library, Augusta, Me., and the Family History Library, Salt Lake City.

Ten fiche are sufficient to present all probate records of the years 1687 to 1800 for this, a county that once included all of Maine. It is likely that this new resource may prove to be of primary importance to all who, in the future, may be researching the histories of northern New England families.

POLICY, PRICE CHANGE FOR VITAL STATISTICS CERTIFICATES

Good news came from the New Brunswick Department of Health and Community Services with the announcement of a change in policy and pricing in respect to birth, marriage and death certificates issued by the Vital Statistics Branch of the Department. A news release from the Minister, Hon. J. Raymond Frenette, said, in part:

"The government has repealed the $25 fee charged by Vital Statistics for genealogical research and has set a standard fee of $15 for new, long form birth, death or marriage certificates," the minister said. "The certificates will be of particular interest to people who are trying to trace their families' histories."

Mr. Frenette said the statements will contain more information than current birth, marriage and death certificate. "The information will help link people in a family during various generations and is most valuable to both amateur and professional genealogists," he said.

For example, a genealogical statement of particulars about a birth would give the birth dates of the parents, their occupations, and the name of the attending physician at the birth.

A marriage statement would give the names of the parents of the bride and groom, their dates and places of birth, plus the occupations, the birth places and birth dates of the couple, and the name of the person who married them.

A genealogical statement of particulars about a death may provide information about parents and occupation of the deceased, the name of the funeral director and the place of interment. In all instances, the information is only available if it is on the original record.

A committee of the N.B. Genealogical Society has been working with officials of the Vital Statistics Branch for some time, attempting to work out the new system.

New forms have been drawn up which should greatly assist genealogists and others in obtaining information from the Vital Stats Branch.

Birth Certificates-

The new birth certificate form will provide the registered name, place and date of birth and sex of the person being registered, as well as the names, residence, occupation, date and place of birth of each parent. The maiden name of the mother will also be provided along with the name and address of the attending physician or nurse. The registration date and number will also be included.

Marriage Certificates-

These will show the date and place of the marriage, along with the officiant at the ceremony, and the religious denominations of the couple, if applicable. Besides the names and ages of the bride and groom, the certificate will provide their residence, occupations, date and place of birth. Also included will be the names of the parents of the bride and groom and the place of birth of each parent.

Death Certificate-

In the case of a death certificate, the name, age, place and date of death will be shown as well as the deceased's occupation and the spouse's name. Also included will be the names and birthplaces of both parents of the deceased, the name and address of the attending physician or coroner, the place of deposition and the name and address of the funeral director. The name, address and relationship of the person providing the information will be included.

All certificates will be issued over the name of the Registrar-General, Vital Statistics Branch, N.B. Department of Health and Community Services.

Application Form-

A new "Application for Genealogical Research" form has been introduced for obtaining birth, marriage and death information from the records available in the Vital Statistics Branch.

(Some months ago, the Vital Statistics Committee of the New Brunswick Genealogical Society presented a brief to the Minister of Health and Community Services. This brief stated the Society's position on the various matters at issue and came about as the result of a number of meetings between the committee and officials of the Vital Statistics Branch. A copy of the brief is reproduced on the next four pages of this issue of GENERATIONS).

Brief Presented to
The Minister of Health and Community Services
The Honorable Ray Frenette on matters concerning Vital Statistics

1. The New Brunswick Genealogical Society (N.B.G.S.) was established in 1978 with the following objectives:
 - (a) To promote the study of genealogy and genealogical research in the Province of New Brunswick
 - (b) To encourage the establishment of Branches which will further the objectives of the Society.
 - (c) To encourage accuracy and thoroughness in research
 - (d) To encourage and instruct members in the ethical principles, scientific methods and effective techniques of genealogical research through publications and workshops
 - (e) To assemble a library of genealogical guides, handbooks, reference sources, family and local histories and other books and materials which may assist the members, all of which will be available to the members.
 - (f) To establish friendly relations with other genealogical societies for exchange of ideas and information and the promotion of common interest
2. The New Brunswick Genealogical Society is presently composed of branches in Fredericton, Moncton, Saint John, Grand Manan, Hartland, Dalhousie, Boiestown and Saint Andrews. The membership currently stands at about 800.
3. The Executive of the New Brunswick Genealogical Society is composed of two representatives from each of the branches in New Brunswick.
4. The Vital Statistics Committee, N.B.G.S. is composed of:

Mrs. Dawn Kinnie, Moncton
Daniel F. Johnson, Saint John
Gerald O'Brien, Fredericton

5. CONCERNS

Commencing in 1979, our members became acutely aware of three major concerns relating to the Vital Statistics Records in the Province of New Brunswick.

- (a) A dual fee structure for obtaining copies of registrations of Birth, Death and Marriage
- (b) The degree of inaccessibility of Vital Statistics Records held by the Vital Statistics Office
- (c) The adverse impact which the two preceding items have on tourists visiting New Brunswick for genealogical purposes.

6. DUAL FEE STRUCTURE

During the period of the previous administration, the Vital Statistics Division implemented a policy of charging $ 7 to $ 10 for issuing a copy of registration of Birth, Death or Marriage for legal or other purposes. However, a fee of $ 25 is charged for the same service (whether or not the certificate is issued) if the purpose of its use is for genealogical or historical research.

In the view of membership of the New Brunswick Genealogical Society, the dual fee structure, which practice is unique in the Province of New Brunswick :

- (a) Contravenes the basic policy of universal fee structure ie. cost recovery should be borne equally by all users
- (b) Discriminates against users in that the charge levied is not based upon the service provided. Rather, the fee is applied on a subjective basis. ie. Genealogical research is 'less important' than legal documentation, therefore, the fee is higher. Providing a service to Genealogists and other researchers is described as a 'secondary objective' of the Department. An objective fee structure would apply to the service in providing the records rather than impose judgmental evaluation of their use after the service has been provided.

7. INACCESSIBILITY OF VITAL RECORDS

(a) The preoccupation of the Vital Statistics Division with respect to confidentiality has rendered the entire record collection virtually inaccessible. Sensitive information is the exception rather than the rule with respect to most of the Vital Statistics records. This reasoning resulted in the implementation of a high fee which is beyond the financial resources of the majority of users.

(b) We are informed by officials of the Vital Statistics Office that the Vital Records are poorly indexed and require considerable expenditure to sort and index properly. This was the case ten years ago, but no attempt has been made to amend this situation. We sense a lack of resolve among department officials to take any action. Researchers would relieve considerable staff time by scanning the indexes themselves, but this is not permitted. The result is that staff time must be applied and under the discriminatory practice of cost recovery, the higher fee is charged.

8. IMPACT ON TOURISM

Many provinces in Canada including Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Nova Scotia have recognized the significant impact of visiting genealogists on the tourist industry. New Brunswick has benefited from the tens of thousands of researchers who come to the Province each year to visit the Provincial Archives, local churches, cemeteries and family reunions. Over the past two centuries, many have left the province to seek their fortune in the Canadian West, the United States and Australia. Their descendants are coming to visit their ancestral home. They are seeking information unique to New Brunswick. It is important that all Provincial Government Departments work together to capture the full potential of this market.

In other Canadian Provinces and American states, records are accessible for a nominal fee. Visitors naturally seek information from Vital Records by correspondence before travelling a trip to New Brunswick. The response they receive does effect their decision to come. Regretfully, the difficulties encountered by those corresponding with Vital Statistics has discouraged many.

Other provinces in Canada have taken the lead with regard to their Vital Records. The public has access to Newfoundland records from their earliest records to the present date. P.E.I. has qualified accessability to the middle of the century. In the neighboring New England States, such as Massachusetts, vital records are fully and freely open to the public.

VITAL RECORDS AS A SOURCE OF REVENUE

Vital Records have a monetary value. A nominal fee, over time, will recover costs incurred in indexing and cataloguing. If indexes are made available to researchers in a 'self serve' environment, considerable staff time would be saved.

RELEASE OF VITAL RECORDS

The Provincial Archives of New Brunswick provides an expertise in the management and conservation of documents. Marriage records could be released for public access at that institution. As these records contain no information of a sensitive nature, they could be released in their entirety to that institution.

9. CONCLUSION

The New Brunswick Genealogical Society therefore respectfully recommends the Minister of Health and Community Services favorably consider:

- (a) Adopting a single fee schedule for obtaining
 - i. certificates
 - ii. copies of originals
 - iii. transcriptions omitting sensitive data
- (b) Work in unison with the Department of Historical and Cultural Services and the New Brunswick Genealogical Society in cataloguing and indexing Vital Records
- (c) Enable Vital Records up to the current date to be fully and freely accessible to the public,
- (d) Recognize the tourist potential of Family History and Genealogical research in New Brunswick

INDEX TO THE 1871 CENSUS FOR ST. JOHN COUNTY, NEW BRUNSWICK, CANADA

The St. John County Census Records from 1851 to 1891 have presented difficulties for researchers, given the changes in names of wards and parishes over that time period. Further Ward division numbers appearing in local Atlases do not correspond with census divisions for certain years which add to the confusion. To assist the researcher, the introduction to the 1871 Census For St. John County, New Brunswick, Canada the changes in ward names are identified 1871 to 1891. In addition, a general finding aid by street name is provided. For example, if the City directory for 1891 indicates your ancestor was living on Elgin Street, Saint John. Then your ancestor should appear in Lorne Parish, St. John County for that year. Since Lorne Ward was not erected until after 1881, you would check Portland Parish prior to that date.

The 1871 Census is a project of the Saint John Branch, N.B.G.S. Regrettably, Portland Divisions 3, 4, and 5 (including Indiantown) are missing for 1871 as well as one division for Kings Ward. The remainder of the Census, however, is intact. The Index includes about 37,000 to 40,000 names. Each family unit has been left intact and families have been sorted by the name of the head of the household. A code precedes each family indicating name of ward or parish, division of ward or parish, and page number family may be found on microfilm.

VITAL STATISTICS FROM NEW BRUNSWICK NEWSPAPERS 1784 to 1872

Since 1980, 32 volumes of Vital Statistics From New Brunswick (Canada) Newspapers have been published. The basis for extraction of entries from Newspapers includes births, marriages, deaths, migration, education or military experience where individual natives of the Maritime Provinces have been identified. Most areas of the Province of New Brunswick are covered given the regional nature of the newspapers of the day. Eighty-eight years of obituaries, murders, marriages, and other data has been compressed into this 32 volume series saving thousands of hours scanning microfilms and waiting for inter-library loans. Volumes may be purchased individually. Earlier volumes may be purchased a few at a time while researchers take advantage of discounts with each new volume as it is published. Vols 1-3 (cons.) $ 25.00; Vols. 4 to 9 are $ 15.00; Vols 10 to 32 (double sized) are $ 25.00. For a single shipment orders please allow $ 2 for first book plus $ 1 for each additional book.

Ulster Historical/Genealogical Resources

An insight into northern Ireland genealogical research facilities was provided by Dr. Brian Trainor during his recent visit to Fredericton. Dr. Trainor is director of the Ulster Historical Foundation, a non-profit organization based at 68 Balmoral Ave., Belfast, Northern Ireland, BT9 6NY.

The Foundation is a genealogical research agency and publishing house. It has published 40 books of genealogical and historical interest and has conducted more than 6,500 family history searches since its establishment in 1956.

Dr. Trainor demonstrated a broad knowledge of Irish research resources. Following his opening remarks, he detailed various research opportunities in the counties of Ireland and the current efforts underway to assemble and index these holdings.

His visit to Fredericton was part of a North American tour and was sponsored jointly by the Provincial Archives of New Brunswick, the New Brunswick Genealogical Society and the Fredericton Chapter of the Irish Canadian Cultural Association. Dr. Thomas Power of the University of New Brunswick was co-ordinator for the visit.

A SKELETON IN MY CLOSET

by Robert H. Pallen

When I started tracing my family history I was excited to find that my lineage went back to a Doctor John Pallen. Like many others, I had been told that the Pallen origins in North America began with the Mayflower, and there was folklore about a Doctor in the family. To discover that part of this was a fact left a nice warm feeling about my heritage. I wanted to learn more about this esteemed ancestor.

My searches led to some newspaper notices in the Chatham Gleaner, 1835:

"Card- Mr John Pallen, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, begs to intimate to the Public, that he has commenced practicing the various branches of the Medical Profession, in the Town of Bathurst".

A similar notice indicated that in 1837 he had moved to the Town of Chatham and set up practice. A much later notice in the Miramichi Advance announced Dr. John's death, 4 August 1895, noting that he was a native of London, England, and a Member of The Royal College of Surgeons, England. He had retired from active practice several years before his death, but had continued to treat a few old patients.

When I discovered the book "Medicine in New Brunswick" by Dr. W. Brenton Stewart, I was anxious to learn more about this ancestor of mine. What I read about Dr. John Pallen suggested that he was something of an impostor. I list some of the statements that made me wonder about the character of this man.

"Dr. John Pallen who claimed to have a Master of The Royal College of Surgeons of London.....".

"He practiced in New Brunswick about 60 years but probably wasn't a graduate doctor, just a drug seller".

"He graduated from famous St. Bartholomews and became a member of The Royal College of Surgeons of London".

"He practiced his profession for about sixty years and there is a very real suspicion he was not a graduate doctor at all".

These statements created a confusion; on one hand he is reputed to be a graduate of famous St. Bartholomew's and a member of The Royal College of Surgeons, and on the other hand there is "real suspicion" that he was not a graduate doctor. The gauntlet had been thrown, and the challenge accepted: I was determined to learn the truth ! After all, he was my relative ! Either he was qualified to practice medicine or he was a charlatan.

St. Bartholomew's Hospital replied that "many Medical College records were destroyed during the 1939-46 war and there are no records of students prior to 1842...." The Royal College of Surgeons of England noted that "John Pallen gained membership of this College on 10 April 1835, giving his address as New Brunswick, British America. He appears on the list of members of the College from 1835-1840 with New Brunswick as his address". None of this helped to settle the question. Hoping for conclusive information I then asked for the regulations governing membership at the time that John Pallen had become a member. The reply included a copy of the regulations dated 15 August 1843, which according to J.M. Aspden of the R.C.S.E. "would have changed very little, if at all, since 1835".

"Regulations of the Council respecting the professional education for the diploma.

I. Candidates will be required, in addition to a certificate being not less than twenty-one years of age, to bring proof,

1. Of having been engaged in the acquirement of professional knowledge for not less than four years, during which period they must have studied practical pharmacy for six months and have attended one year on the practice of physic, and three years on the practice of surgery at a recognised hospital in the United Kingdom....

2. Of having studied anatomy and physiology, by the attendance on lectures and demonstrations, and by dissections, during three winter sessions, of not less than six months each.

3. Of having attended at least two courses of lectures on the principles and practice of surgery, delivered in two distinct periods or seasons and one course on each of the following subjects - viz., the practice of physic, chemistry, materia medica, and midwifery with practical instruction."

The rest of the Regulations deal with variations that depend on where the candidate studied. The above are the basic requirements.

There can be little question that the requirements for membership in the R.C.S.E. were explicit and rigorous. It would appear that John Pallen, being a member of the R.C.S.E., must have undergone the prescribed educational process. In other words, John Pallen was a qualified physician, surgeon, medical practitioner or whatever the term was for a "doctor" in those days. Certainly, in England, the physician was not called a doctor, whereas in North America our medical practitioners were bestowed with the degree "Medical Doctor or M.D.", and known as doctors.

What prompted the question about John Pallen's qualifications to practice medicine ? Dr. W.B. Stewart directed me to a microfilm in the Provincial Archives of New Brunswick which contains notes compiled by K. Williston about "Doctors of the Miramichi". It would appear that this was the first mention of John Pallen's qualifications. In her notes she writes:

"It was commonly thought Dr. Pallen was not a graduate Doctor. Dr. McGrath, said he did not think he was a doctor. At any rate he practiced that profession for upwards of sixty years".

At the beginning of her notes, K. Williston presents a qualifier or explanatory statement regarding the information that she includes in her survey:

"Gossip etc., about the Doctors of Miramichi has been included for my own benefit, and because they seem more alive when I know odds and ends about their lives. It is noted down, not in malice, or to see the light of day, but merely for interest, to myself".

Dr. W.B. Stewart in a letter to me suggested that:

"Some of her information may be gossip and tainted possibly by professional or other forms of jealousy as she notes".

I was even more determined to have conclusive proof, not merely circumstantial evidence. My genealogical searches had put me in touch with a cousin, a physician who had studied in London, England. When I explained my interest in elucidating John Pallen's qualifications, our letters were filled with comparisons of the British and the North American medical education systems. One day Dr. H.S. Morton was in town, and, although he had no time to meet with me, he left some "items" at a friend's house for me.

When I saw the "items" I could barely contain my excitement, I now possessed the original documents from John Pallen's years at St. Bartholomew's Hospital! These were the cards to admit him to the lectures on Botany, Chemistry, Midwifery, the Practice of Medicine, Surgery and Anatomy !! There was a card for the admittance to the examinations and certificates attesting that he had attended these courses. There was a letter of testimony of John Pallen's "diligence with which he has pursued his studies at St Bartholomew's Hospital", by Edward Stanley, one of the well known medical teachers at that institution. One of the documents is a form of a diploma.

At last, here was the evidence that John Pallen was indeed qualified to practice medicine. All that remained was to have the "authorities" confirm these findings. I sent copies of the documents to The Royal College of Surgeons of England, and the reply was most satisfying. Ruth A.M. Pearce, the Library Secretary wrote:

"In answer to your letter of this month I can confirm that these documents are in themselves evidence of the training that John Pallen underwent - (the courses he attended) - which he needed to be allowed to take the exam to become a Member of the Royal college of Surgeons.

He was thus qualified as a surgeon - and at this time these qualifications were quite normal for someone who was a medical practitioner.... There was no separate examination to be a medical practitioner - which was, and still is, a term used to describe a medical man, or perhaps someone who is part of a medical practice".

(dated 18 February 1987)

At this stage of the research I felt that I had shown that John Pallen was a "graduate doctor", qualified in every sense to practice his profession. Whatever the basis for the questions that had been raised about his credentials they were totally unfounded.

The motives of K. Williston, when she collected the information about the Doctors of Miramichi, are clear. She noted that gossip was included, and indeed, mixed with fact. However, she did not distinguish the two. Fact and gossip were then confused when her notes were used by others as source material, without verifying the origins. What began as a project to learn the truth, also assumed a mission of vindication, not to mention the pleasure of a genealogical search.

Our Society is indebted to the Genealogical Publishing Co. Inc. of Baltimore, Md. for a gift of a quantity of books and booklets dealing with genealogical resources overseas.

We acknowledge this gift with our deepest thanks.

A 450-page volume entitled "The Norman People" deals with the composition and character of the British people with special emphasis on their Norman ancestry. The work also includes an alphabetical list of current Norman names and families. An index of 5,000 Norman names adds greatly to the usefulness of the work.

Two other volumes: "A List of Emigrants from England to America 1689-1692" and a second volume under the same title for the period 1718-1759 were transcribed from microfilms of original records at the Guildhall in London under the title "Agreements to Serve in America".

This was a means whereby individuals wishing to, but unable, to emigrate to the colonies could receive "free" passage provided they, in effect, sold themselves into bondage for a period following their arrival overseas.

The agent received land grants for each servant brought in, and the servant, upon completion of his indentureship, was granted land, tools, etc. The names are listed alphabetically and numbered consecutively and an index of place names is also included.

The gift collection also contains eight booklets by Jeremy Gibson. These are entitled:

Record Offices and How to Find Them (4th ed.)
Local Newspapers 1750-1920 (for England, Wales, Isle of Man, Channel Is.)
Marriage, census and other Records (3rd. ed.)
Bishops' Transcripts and other Marriage
Licenses (2nd. ed.)
Probate Jurisdictions (3rd. ed.)
Unpublished Personal Name Indexes in Record
Offices and Libraries (2nd. ed.)
Quarter Sessions Records (2nd. ed.)
Census Returns 1841-1881, on microfilm (for Great Britain, Channel Is. and Isle of Man

FAMILY TREES OF SOME NEW BRUNSWICK NEWSPAPERS

by

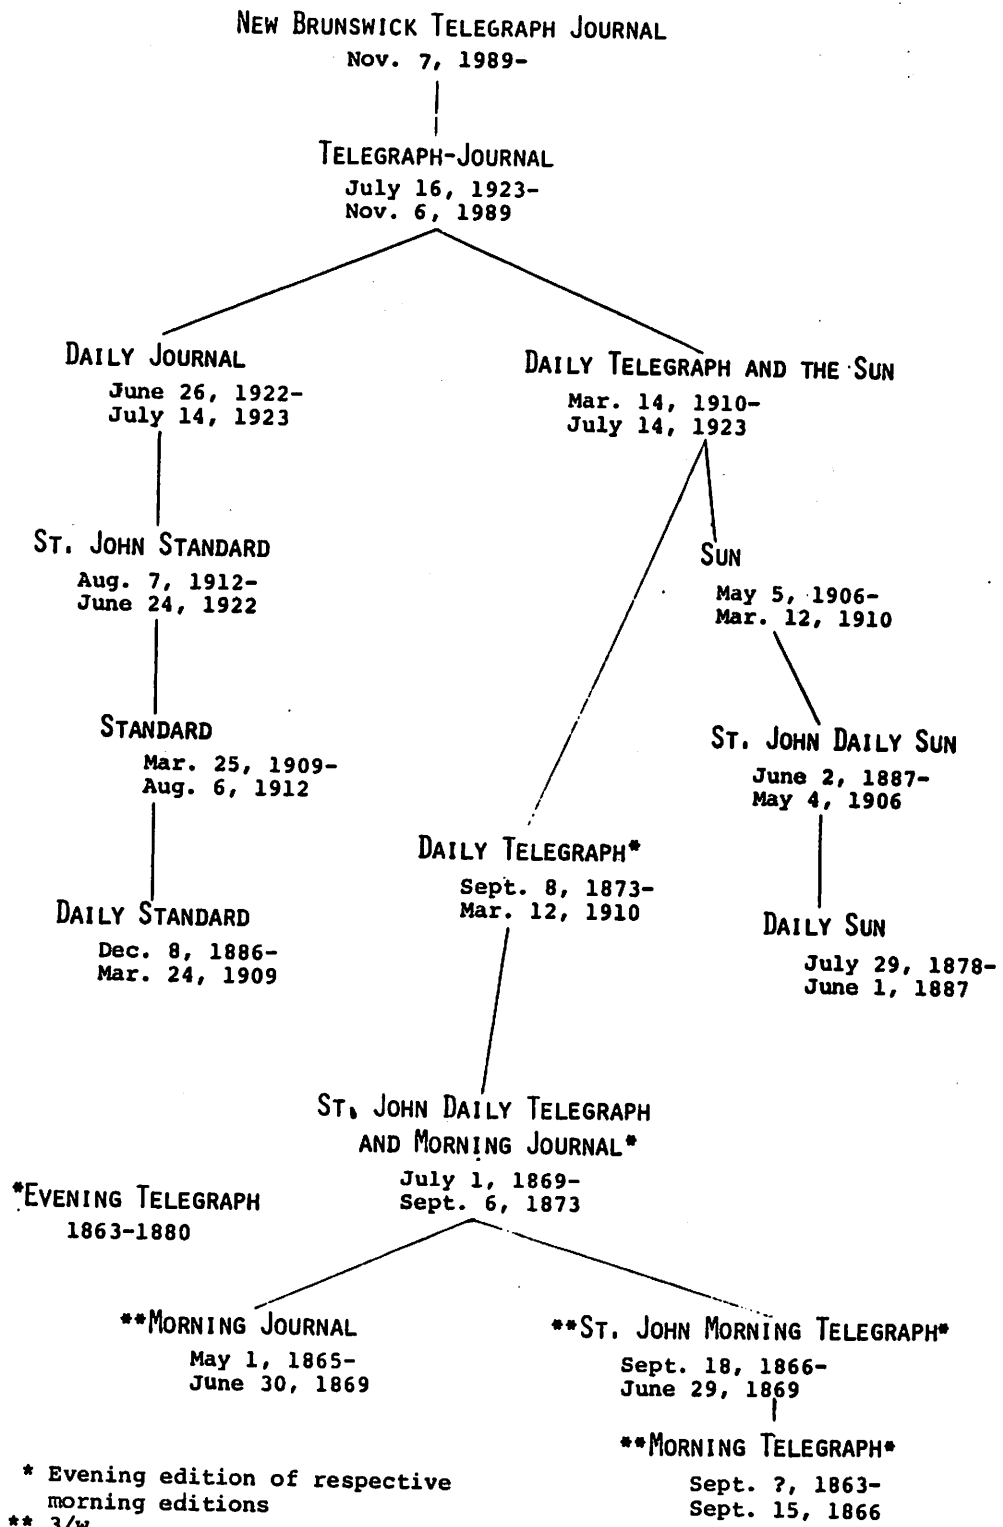

Helen C. Craig

With the arrival of the November 7, 1989 issue of The New Brunswick Telegraph Journal, yet another title change had occurred to frustrate researchers and librarians alike. The reason for the change in title was to reflect the province-wide news coverage. The Telegraph-Journal as it has been known since 1923, can trace its beginnings to 1863 with the commencement of publication of the tri-weekly, Morning Telegraph. In the intervening 123 years, the mastheads have undergone many changes as well as frequency and time of day. For a while there were both morning and evening editions and until the 1920's, weekly editions mailed to rural subscribers.

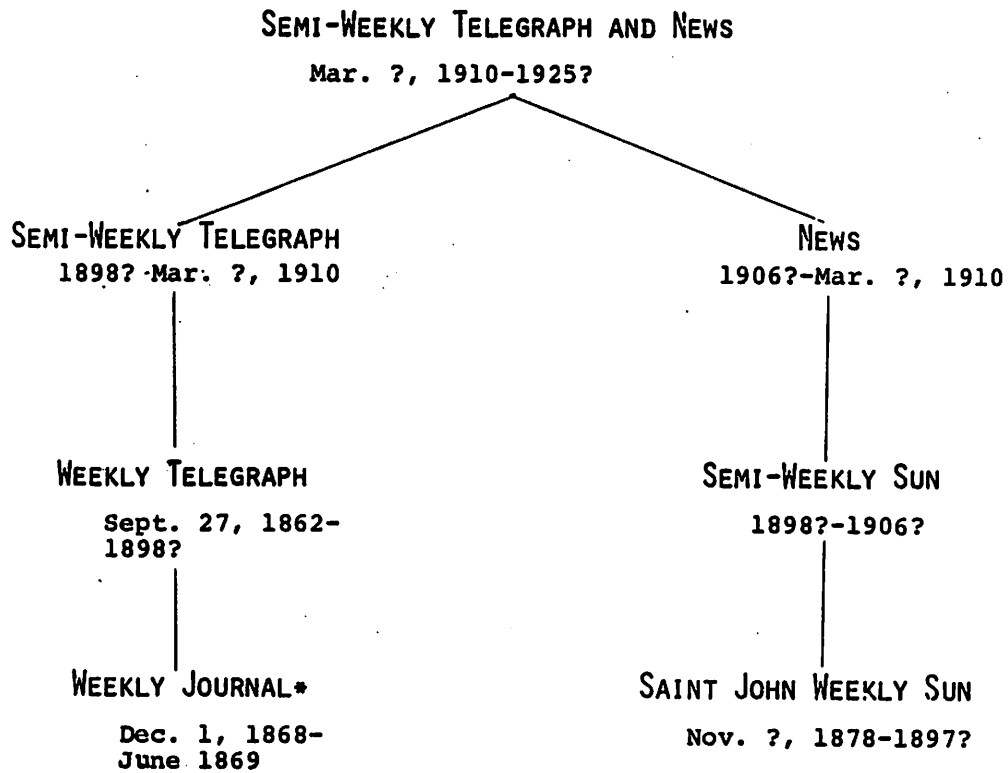

Newspapers have undergone title changes for many reasons. Some of the more apparent are: change of ownership, editors or coverage, merger of two or more businesses, absorptions where the competitor was purchased, edition such as morning, evening, daily, weekly, semi- or tri-weekly, Saturday or the addition or deletion of a place-name.

This has created a cataloger's nightmare especially when the 'latest title' rule with notes and connecting references attempted to keep chaos from taking over completely. The present use of the actual title appearing on the masthead at the time of publication is somewhat less confusing most of the time. There are several titles that have undergone many changes in addition to The New Brunswick Telegraph Journal (Saint John) and its predecessors. They are: The Evening Times-Globe (Saint John), The Times-Transcript (Moncton) and The Sackville Tribune-Post.

Graphic illustrations of their respective publications have been included to assist the researcher who is trying to find the appropriate title for a particular place and date. An examination of the earlier titles shows how the present title has evolved. Relatively complete files in print or microfilm have been preserved in provincial repositories although there are some gaps, particularly in the earlier years and for the weekly editions.

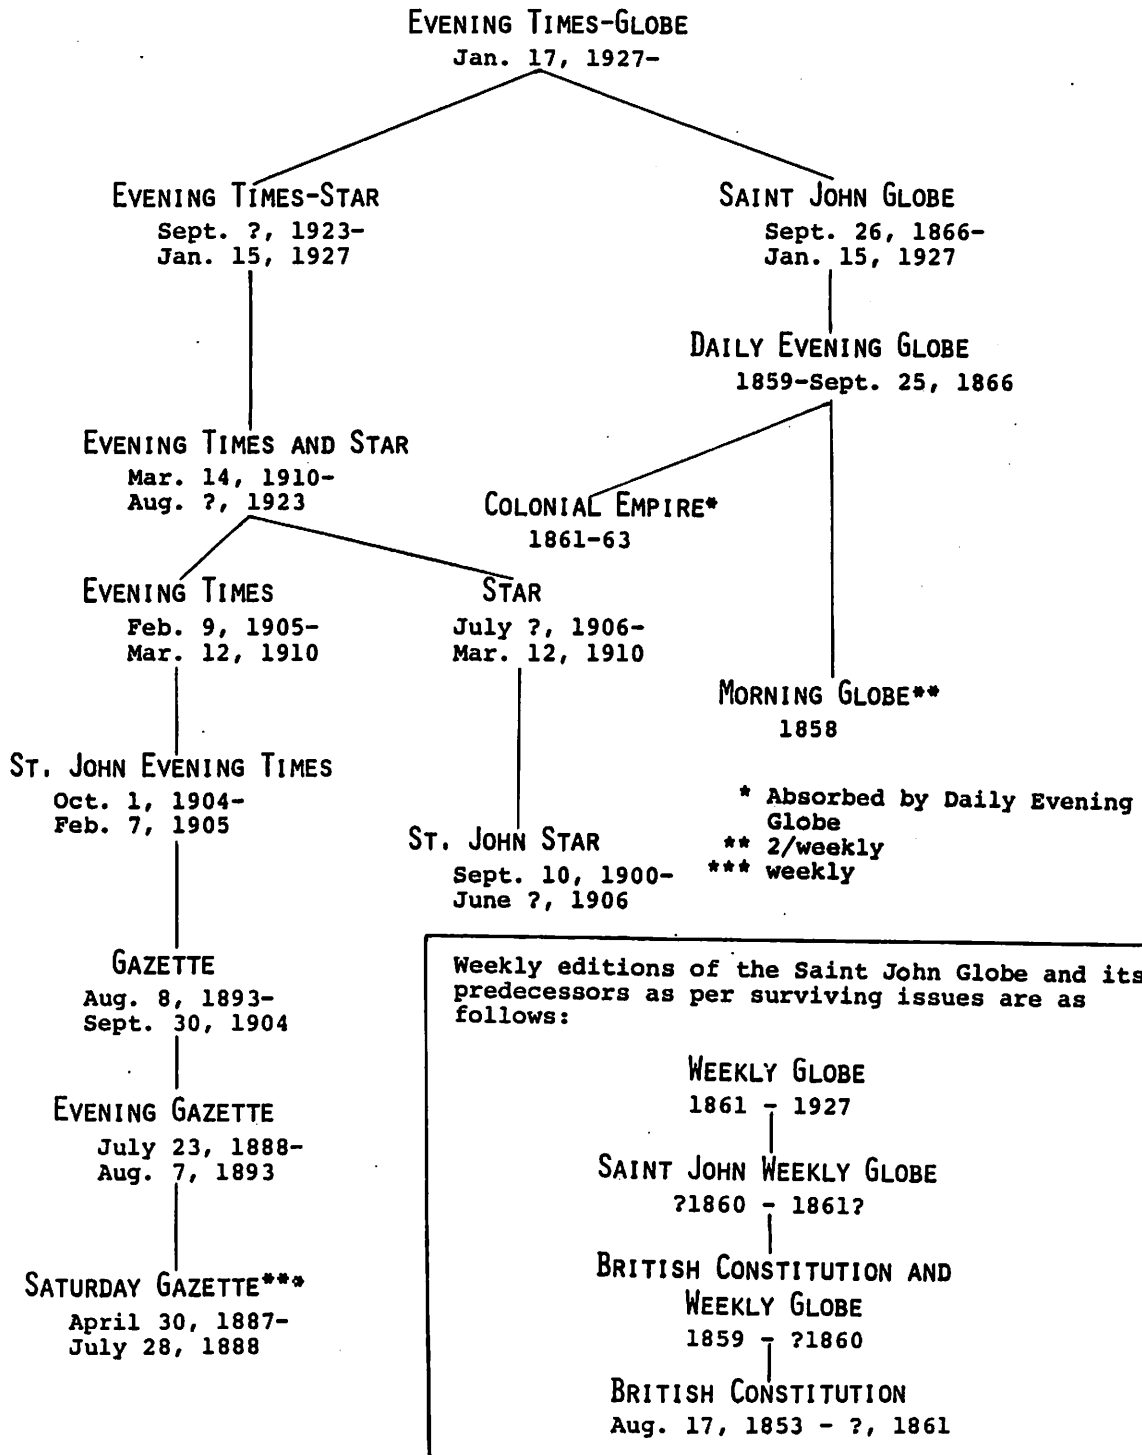

Weekly editions of the respective daily newspapers that eventually became The New Brunswick Telegraph Journal.

240 pps., includes photos, line drawings, fully indexed, cerlox bound - $ 27.00 (postpaid)

Available from: Daniel F. Johnson, Box 2387, Saint John, N.B., Canada E2L 3V6

In 1899, New Brunswick volunteers joined the First Contingent of Canadians to go to South Africa to battle the Boers. They had come from all parts of New Brunswick seeking the excitement of what was to become the last of the romanticized wars in defence of the British empire. Rather than a history of Boer War, this book contains biographies of the 680 men who participated in the struggle including their rank, number, company, previous military experience, medals and other awards and post war life. Where possible, also included are the names of their parents, brothers, sisters, sons and daughters.

Included are brief histories of the South African Regiments in which New Brunswick natives served including Royal Canadian Regiment, Royal Canadian Field Artillery, Royal Canadian Dragoons, South African Constabulary, Second Canadian Mounted Rifles and others.

Also included are brief histories of the New Brunswick Militia including the 8th Princess Louise Hussars, 10th (Woodstock) Field Battery, C.A., 12th (Newcastle) Field Battery, C.A., 3rd 'New Brunswick' Regiment, 62nd St. John Fusiliers, 67th Regt. 'The Carleton Light Infantry', 71st York Regt., 73rd Northumberland Regt., 74th New Brunswick Rangers and other militia units.

1991 NATIONAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY CONFERENCE SCHEDULED

Portland, Oregon, will be the site of the 1991 annual conference of the National Genealogical Society. Begun in 1981 in Atlanta, Ga., the annual conferences in the States have attracted thousands of genealogists and family history enthusiasts. The large conference was held in 1985 in Salt Lake City. Recent conferences were held in Biloxi, Mississippi in 1988 and in St. Paul, Minn., in 1989. The 1990 NGS conference will be in Arlington, VA., 6-9 June 1990, with the theme 'A Capital Conference'.

Dates for the 1991 conference in Portland will be 29 May through 1 June. Local host for the four-day event is the Genealogical Forum of Oregon, Inc. with library and headquarters located in downtown Portland. The Forum has over 1,000 members, a library with over 10,000 volumes, a well-known quarterly Bulletin and other publications, cemetery and indexing projects, and sponsors conferences, workshops and other genealogical activities.

Known as the City of Roses, Portland is the largest city in Oregon. With the Portland International Airport, it is easy to travel to the city, and Portland has convenient transportation in the city with the MAX light rail system.

The conference has the theme 'Come to the End of the Oregon Trail'. For more information on the conference, write the National Genealogical Society, 4527 Seventeenth St., North, Arlington, VA. 22207-2399. The address of the Genealogical Forum of Oregon is 1410 S.W. Morrison St., Suite 812, Portland, OR. 97205.

OBITUARY

It is with profound sorrow that we record the death of one of our most valued members, SOMEBODY ELSE.

SOMEBODY ELSE's passing creates a vacancy that will be hard to fill. A member for many years, he has always seemed to do more than a normal person's share of the work. Whenever there was a job to do, a committee to be chaired, a meeting to attend, or a working bee, one name was on everyone's lips - let SOMEBODY ELSE do it.

It was common knowledge that SOMEBODY ELSE was one of the greatest contributors of his time to the Society. Whenever there was a need for volunteers, everyone knew that SOMEBODY ELSE would offer.

SOMEBODY ELSE was certainly a wonderful person, almost a superman, but one person can only do so much. If the truth was told, we perhaps expected too much of SOMEBODY ELSE. Now he has gone, what are we going to do?

SOMEBODY ELSE left a wonderful example to follow, but it is not clear who is going to do all the things that SOMEBODY ELSE used to do. If you should be asked to help, remember it is no longer possible to depend on SOMEBODY ELSE.

TOGETHER IN EXILE

Saint John genealogist Peter Murphy is now accepting pre-publication orders for his history of chain migration from County Louth, Ireland to Saint John's Lower Cove.

The fruit of eleven years' research in Canada, the U.S. and Ireland, Together in Exile includes extensive genealogies of the immigrant families: Boyle, Brown, Campbell, Carroll, Cassely, Collins, Cregan, Doyle, Elmore, Feran, Finigan, Flanagan, Hanlon, Hanratty, Hoy, Johnston, Kelly, Killen, Kirk, Lowe, Magee, Markey, May, McCrink, McGuiggan, McGuire, Mills, Murphy, Oakes, Quinn, Rice, Riley, Rourke, Sharkey, Small, Thompson, Tole, Traynor and Woods, with notes on hundreds of other Saint John families.

Three hundred pages (8 1/2" x 11") with numerous illustrations: Together in Exile will be released during St. Patrick's Week Celebrations, March 1990.

TO GUARANTEE AVAILABILITY order your autographed copy now by sending $29.95 (cheque or money order) to Peter D. Murphy, 19 York Street, Saint John, N.B. E2J 3G1. Telephone: 696-2891

GIFT CERTIFICATES are now available for Christmas and other gift orders. (Please include name and address of recipient.)

GENEALOGICAL RESOURCES IN THE NEW YORK AREA

Genealogists with roots in the New York City area now have a reference guide to the more than 100 facilities which hold information of interest to family historians. Titled "Genealogical Resources in the New York Metropolitan Area", the 416-page book includes descriptions of 52 government agencies and courts, 32 libraries and 20 archives. The book is the result of a three-year effort by the Jewish Genealogical Society, its publisher.

Basic information about each resource center includes name, address, telephone number, travel directions and hours of operation. It also shows for each repository the holdings, geographic scope and time span of records, finding aids, access and copying facilities. Readers can use the book's indexes to determine the types of material held by each resource center.

In addition to New York City, the book's geographic coverage includes surrounding areas of Long Island, Westchester, northern New Jersey and the state capitals, Albany and Trenton.

The volume is priced at $24.95, plus $3.50 for postage and handling. Cheques should be made payable to the Jewish Genealogical Society and sent to P.O. Box 6398, New York, N.Y. 10128.

Notes

The Bible also contains data of later members of the family as late as 1970. Some of the information is written on blank pages on the backs of illustrations and is difficult to locate.

For more information on the descendants of Jonathan and Mary (Cliff) Brown see "The Descendants of Edmund and Jane (Webb)" Price by M. Frederick Amos, Gerald Keith and Myrtle K. Perry.

Jonathan Brown of Queensbury and Mary Cliff, also of Queensbury, were married on 30 October 1815 (York county marriage registers).

Jonathan Brown, aged 38, died on 3 March 1834 in Queensbury as the result of a fall out of a tree (from The New Brunswick Royal Gazette newspaper).

Of the daughters of Jonathan and Mary (Cliff) Brown, Phoebe married Charles Lounsbury and Mary married James VanWart. It is possible that Deborah was identical to Deborah M. Ross, aged 28, listed in the 1851 of Queensbury, York county as the wife of George Ross.

"The Descendants of Edmund and Jane (Webb) Price" seems to confuse Benjamin R. Brown, son of Jonathan and Mary (Cliff) Brown with another Benjamin R. Brown who was the son of his brother, Abraham J. Brown.

The Jonathan Brown who came to New Brunswick with the United Empire Loyalists in 1783 recieved a grant of land in Queensbury. Members of the family still reside on this farm.

Jonathan Brown (The one who married Mary Cliff) purchased this farm from Abraham Brown in 1815.

This Abraham Brown was undoubtedly a relative of Jonathan Brown. But, was he the father (or perhaps the uncle) of Jonathan Brown? Abraham Brown was married to Ruth Fisk Estey, daughter of Zebulon and Mary (Brown) Estey.

Abraham Brown died at Andover on 15 June 1853, aged 81. In his will he left all his property to John Z. Brown and David H. Brown. Also mentioned were George A. Brown, Phoebe Bryant, Deborah Cliff and Mary Smith.

Deborah Brown of Queensbury married William Cliff also of Queensbury on 31 October 1815 (York county marriage registers). William Cliff was a brother of Mary Cliff who married Jonathan Brown on the previous day. After William Cliff's death in 1825 Deborah married his brother, Benjamin Rex Cliff.

Captain Ebenezer Brown, the father of Abraham Brown, also had sons, Jonathan and Sylvanus Brown. I do not know if Jonathan or Sylvanus Brown had any children. I also do not know when or where they died.

I have some data on an Ebenezer Brown of Grenwich, Connecticut who might be identical to the Ebenezer Brown who came to New Brunswick in 1783. I have yet to prove the connection.

The Cedar Hill Extension Cemetery is situated on Manawagonish Road, Saint John overlooking the marshes and Bay of Fundy. Though a non-denominational cemetery, most of those buried were of the Protestant faith. They include descendants of many of the old West Side (Carleton) families. A significant number came down the Saint John River from Queens and Kings County to find employment in Saint John. It is believed that the first burials in the Extension Cemetery took place in the 1930's.

A small sampling of the a few surnames which appear on gravestones include Adams, Akerley, Allan, Alward, Anderson, Andrews, Appleby, Arbo, Armstrong, Arthurs, Bailey, Baker, Bannister, Barton, Baxter, Beatteay, Belyea, Blizzard, Bonnell, Boone, Brittain, Brooks, Brown, Buckley, Byers, Cameron, Campbell, Clark, Cobham, Coleman, Cook, Craft, Daley, Day, Dunham, Dykeman, Earle, Estey, Evans, Ferris, Foster, Fox, Friars, Golding, Graham, Grant, Green, Hamilton, Henderson, Hughes, Humphrey, Johns(t)on, Jones, Kierstead, Lawson, Lee, Lingley, London, Long, MacDonald, Maxwell, McCavour, McIntyre, McLeod, Miller, Mitchell, Moore, Murphy, Nelson, Northrup, Parks, Patterson, Phillips, Quinn, Reid, Ring, Robertson, Robinson, Ross, Saunders, Scott, Shaw, Shephard, Smith, Snodgrass, Spragg, Stackhouse, Stevens, Taylor, Theall, Thom(p)son, Thorne, Titus, Toole, Watters, Weaver, Webb, Whittaker, Williams, Wilson, Wood, Worden, Wright, Young.

Wanted

The Newfoundland and Labrador Genealogical Society is seeking the services of someone in New Brunswick to clip Newfoundland obituaries from New Brunswick newspapers. Anyone interested should contact Elsa Hockwald, CG(C), The Newfoundland and Labrador Genealogical Society, Colonial Building, Military Road, St. John's, Nfld A1C 2C9

EditorialWELCOME NEWS

The recent announcement of a new policy and cost schedule by the Vital Statistics Branch of the N.B. Department of Health and Community Services is a most welcome one. The past policy of the Branch in regard to providing birth, marriage and death certificates to genealogists has long been a sore point. Especially vexing was the two-layer cost system which made New Brunswick vital statistics certificates among the highest-priced in Canada.

For the past few years, a committee of the New Brunswick Genealogical Society has been working with top personnel of the Vital Statistics Branch in an effort to make more genealogical information available to family history researchers--and at less cost.

The spirit of co-operation exemplified by both parties in these discussions has, we feel, played a large part in the adoption of the new policy and pricing system. Our president, Wilmot Ross, has expressed on behalf of the general membership of N.B.G.S. a sincere 'Thank You' to the committee members. At the same time he has voiced his appreciation to Marianne Wiezel, immediate past director of the Vital Stats Branch, and others in the Department for their open-minded approach and attitude in resolving the issue.

From the outset, Branch officials expressed the wish that a continuing dialogue could be carried on with the Genealogical Society so that problems that might arise between the two bodies might be discussed and, hopefully, resolved at an early stage. N.B.G.S. certainly subscribes to this notion and sees it as a means of monitoring the operation of the new policy, among other things.

We look forward to meeting and working with the new Vital Statistics Branch director.
