From the Editor's Desk

Our long winter is finally over, but spring has been late arriving - I saw snow on the ground west of Saint John on May 15.

As announced in the last issue, electronic download of Generations is now available as an option to getting a paper copy. We've also decided to put all back issues of Generations on our web site, in the members only section, at the following link:

<http://www.nbgs.ca/cpage.php?pt=196>

The complete Table of Contents for Generations from 1979 to 2015 is also on the website (in the public section):

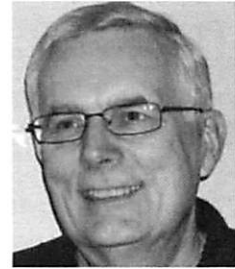

<http://www.nbgs.ca/cpage.php?pt=197>

Last issue included the passenger list for the "Dorcas Savage" from Portaferry to St. Andrews in 1818. As I was working on updating the index I discovered that it had been previously published back in the Winter 2005 issue...I will be more diligent in future to make sure I don't accidentally reprint articles.

NBGS Saint John Branch is planning a Genealogy Fair for Saturday, Sep 19, 2015 at Market Square, Saint John. This will be our first fair since 2011.

I hope the summer will provide you with lots of ideas for articles for Generations - the well is completely dry for the next issue and I'm requesting lots of submissions. Our deadline for the next issue is Aug 8.

Pilot Boat Tragedy - 1957

contributed by Barb Pearson

My great uncle, George Franklin Oram is the fellow on the left in the picture. He was usually the cook on the ill fated Pilot Boat that was struck by the Fort Avalon in the Saint John Harbour on January 14th 1957. However, he was sick that day and another fellow took his place.

The tragedy was written up in the Telegraph Journal in January, 58 years later. This past January there was a ceremony at St. John the Baptist Church on Broad Street to remember the seven men who were on board that day. I was in Gr. 11 at Saint John High School in 1957 and I remember that day. The fog was so thick in the harbour that morning as we walked to school along Prince William Street and it was so cold. It wasn't too long before we were told in class about the Pilot Boat sinking and the loss of the men on board. I remember my mother telling me that her Uncle George Oram would have been on duty that day but he had called in sick. The crew of the Pilot Boat #1 on January 14th 1957 were: pilot William J. Murray; pilot John V. Cunningham; pilot William P. Traynor; apprentice Ward Poole; seaman Frank Coughlan; cook Blanchard Cosman; chief engineer Ronald Johnson. Some of these men could be in my picture but can't identify.

Four years later on 16 June 1961, George Oram was chief engineer but passed away at age 57 with heart disease.

George Franklin Oram was the 9th child born to Oberlin Livingston Oram and Louisa Abigail Brawn 29 Dec 1903 at 58 Sheriff Street, Saint John, N.B.; delivered at home by Miss Cook, nurse. His father Oberlin, was born in Argyle, Yarmouth Co., N.S. and his mother Louisa was born in Clarendon, Charlotte Co., N.B. Louisa came to Saint John to enroll in a Millinery course. Oberlin's family had returned to Saint John in 1871 from N.S. He had a great singing voice and performed at Church and at concerts in Saint John. We think they may have met at Church. Oberlin was working at Rolling Mills, Straight Shore as a laborer in 1908 when he became ill with Typhoid and passed away on the 24th of October. George was only 5 years old and his mother was left with a young family to support. Louisa took on the job of cook for a wealthy family on Orange Street and later operated a boarding house on Queen Street in Saint John, N.B. George Franklin Oram married Pearl Amelia McAleer 17 October 1927 and raised a family of seven.

The 1904 Fire that almost Destroyed McAdam Junction

David Blair, contributed by Don Doherty

Fire is a two edged sword. On one hand an agent of progress and on the other an agent of destruction. The Insurance Industry is calling water the new fire. Lately we have witnessed how New Orleans, Calgary and New York have suffered from unexpected floods. Likewise cities in the past were not prepared for the devastating effects of fire.

In the 1800s cities in North America were made of wood, transport slow and fire services deficient. Some large fires of this era were: St. John 1877 (destroying 1600 buildings), Portland ME (destroying 10,000 homes), Miramichi Fire in 1825 (burned 20% of N.B. including 33% of homes in Fredericton).¹

In the early days McAdam was surrounded by woods, with travel only by rail. There were no roads in or out of the community. The New York Daily Tribune of June 22, 1880 tells that the village was under threat from raging forest fires. The station master asked for a train to stand by to evacuate the residents if necessary. The woods between Magaguadavic and McAdam Junction were on fire. The direction of the wind would decide the fate of the village.² McAdam was spared from this fire, however the wind and the flames acted differently on April 21, 1904.

The McAdam fire of 1904 although of lesser magnitude than other fires mentioned, was equally painful for the people involved. The tall houses of the Village were clustered around tracks, making it easy for high winds to spread the fire that burned most of the Village.

Flames were first observed at 4:30 pm in the roof of the post office ran by James Green. At the same time, flames were also seen on the roof of the Junction House Hotel. The Fire was believed to have started in the Hotel and spread to the nearby Post Office based on the wind direction.³

An 1980s interview with Earl Hay and Percy Tracy suggests the fire started in the post office as a chimney fire and then a huge mass of smoke and flames were seen in the roof of the Junction House. A story circulated that someone must have seen the fire in the post office and thought it would be a good time to set the Junction House aflame. There was a tavern in the Junction House, a hangout for railway men. The village women did not approve of their husbands spending time in the Tavern. One theory was the disgruntled wives who worked at the Junction House may have started the fire.⁴

The fire travelled East and then North as far as the house of Tom Caughey. Maud Hertherington (Niece of Tom Caughey) tells that the fire fighters saved her uncle's home by directing a water hose on the building. Her mother's blankets were soaked with water and placed on the roof. The Caughey house was a store, residence and boarding house.⁵

The 1904 Fire that almost Destroyed McAdam Junction

Next the fire moved east and south toward the C.P.R. shops. The C.P.R. fire brigade saved the shops and the Royal Hotel, stopping the fire at the residence of the C.P.R. Policeman James Gardiner (known as the Tom Evans House). Rowena Robinson lived near or with James Gardiner in 1904, Rowena's uncle. She saw Masonic Aprons that were drying on the clothesline burn one by one, as the fire passed their house.⁶

Photo #2 : Thomas Caughey's Store /dwelling, where the fire was checked in the northern direction. The fire stopped at Gardiner's House in the southern direction.

The blaze continued eastward burning every building in its path, high winds and choking smoke hampered the firemen's efforts. When the fire was over as many as 17 families were displaced⁵, several businesses and institutional buildings were destroyed.

Following is a list of buildings burned, from the St. Croix Courier April 28, 1904.

The financial loss was estimated at $25,000. Insurances were listed as:

Many of the burned buildings were rebuilt or replaced by other building, soon after the fire. I recall a story about an old woman who had supposedly put a curse on the area near the tunnel. Over the years buildings in this area have been built and burned several times, lending some to believe in the curse.

George Baskin-Charles Moffatt store was erected in 1890, burned in 1904, rebuilt in 1905. The building changed ownership to burned again in 1942, finally rebuilt by Hollie Lister in 1943. Today this store is called McAdam Home and Building Centre.

The 1904 Fire that almost Destroyed McAdam Junction

The Junction House was near the European North American Station and like it was built about 1870, both were burned in 1876 and rebuilt in 1877. These two buildings were finally destroyed in the 1904 fire. William H. Meredith had just become owner of the Junction House when it burned in the spring of 1904. By Christmas he had a big celebration in his new Hotel east of the Junction House, called the City Camp Hotel.⁷ (north of McAdam Home and Building).

This new Hotel experienced a massive gas explosion April 1908 that blew out all the windows and caused extensive damage to the dining room⁸. A fire in 1912 brought an end to the City Camp

Hotel. William H. Meredith is said to have died of hiccups July 18, 1908 in Moore's Mills N.B., caused by excessive drinking.⁴

The two room C.P.R. Station (originally the European North American Station) was erected about 1869, burned in 1876, rebuilt the same year in the same place only to burn again in 1904. In

The 1904 Fire that almost Destroyed McAdam Junction

1904 this Station served as a warming shack for Brakemen⁴, it was replaced as a working Station by the stone C.P.R. Station built in 1900.

St. John's Roman Catholic Church was erected in 1888. It burned 1904 and was rebuilt the same year, renamed St Clements 1910.

The Foresters Hall was built in 1891¹¹, with a capacity of 250 people¹¹, was never rebuilt. Parts of the cement foundation were still visible in the 1980s, west of the storage units currently owned by McAdam Home and Building Centre.

One of the building in the list above was originally called the Western Hotel (owned by James Gardiner in 1904 , built in city camp days. Located south of McAdam Home and Building Centre, it served as a 3 family residence in 1904; Shea Rush-ton, Bill Harris and Fred Dow were the tenants⁴. The Western Hotel was leased from John Falconer in 1872 by a carpenter from Boston. No pains were spared in renovations and it is was reported in the St. Croix Courier ,that accommodations are of the first order.¹²

I have no information on the other buildings, in terms of locations or if they were rebuilt by the owners after the 1904 fire.

McAdam was a railroad boom town in 1904. The C.P.R. had moved into the Village in 1889, building a C.P.R. Hotel (later called the Royal Hotel), Stone Station and many Employee Houses.

Confidence in the future was high, which may have encouraged the rebuilding that took place after the fire.

Photo#8 ; C.P.R. Hotel built 1889, re-named Royal Hotel by 1904 (was on west side of the tracts near current engine 29 shed), saved from the fire of 1904 by the C.P.R. Fire Brigade. View from tracks.

The 1904 Fire that almost Destroyed McAdam Junction

McAdam experienced the threat of extinction by fire in 1904. Alick Andrews, a Sociologist who studied our village in 1967 suggests it is possible that living through this baptism by fire McAdam in effect took the first step toward creating a community spirit.¹³

Loyalist Baggage Check

by Stephen Davidson, contributed by Marianne Donovan

Along with Irish and Scottish ancestors, Stephen Davidson has more than a dozen loyalist couples in his family tree. His e-book, The Burdens of Loyalty, recounts the true-life adventures of one set of refugee ancestors. He is a regular contributor to the free weekly online newsletter, Loyalist Trails. To receive it, contact editor Doug Grant at loyalist.trails@uelac.org. This article originally appeared in "Loyalist Trails" UELAC Newsletter Apr. 26, 2009

What would you take with you if you were fleeing a dangerous situation and leaving behind your family, friends, and home? Just ask the loyalists. They were the largest group of refugees in North American history and must have known how to package up their valuables.

However, although there are long lists of the possessions that the loyalists left behind in the United States, we have very few references to what they actually carried with them. Thankfully, a handful of diaries, memoirs, and accounts of the day provide a brief glimpse into what the refugees of the eastern seaboard brought with them on their 1783 voyages to the mouth of the St. John River.

When 82 year-old Mary Raymond fled Norwalk, Connecticut on foot with her daughter-in-law and four grandchildren, she stashed two homemade linen sheets under her skirts and carried a pillow case filled with the family's silverware and jewelry. Despite an interrogation by soldiers, the Raymonds safely made their way to the coast, sailed across Long Island Sound, and spent the rest of the revolution in a refugee camp near Fort Franklin. Unless the family was forced to sell what Mary Raymond carried away from Norwalk, the silverware and jewelry would have travelled with the family on their voyage to the mouth of the St. John River in April of 1783. The Raymonds' first log cabin in the New Brunswick woods would have contained these small mementos of a better life in Connecticut.

Sarah Frost was a 29 year-old mother from Stamford, Connecticut who found shelter at the same refugee camp as the Raymond family. Pregnant with their third child, Sarah travelled north to the St. John River in June, 1783. Her husband William, an eight year-old son and a daughter were the only members of her immediate family that accompanied her into exile. Her father, mother, and siblings were all patriots.

Thanks to Sarah's diary which she wrote while sailing on the Two Sisters, we have the only surviving account of what it was like to be aboard a loyalist evacuation ship. She first put pen to paper on May 25th when her family went aboard their ship. However, the Two Sisters did not sail for the St. John River until June 16th. Three weeks cooped up in a cabin shared with strangers would be trying at the best of times.

On June 9th Sarah noted " ...there is a great confusion in the cabin. We bear with it pretty well through the day, but as it grows towards the night, one child cries in one place and one in another, whilst we are getting them to bed. I think sometimes I will be crazy."

Four days later a diary entry reveals how Sarah helped to while away some of the long, tedious hours aboard ship. She wrote about playing cribbage with her husband and another couple. So, in addition to a diary that she could carry in a small bag, Sarah Frost also had a cribbage board and cards among her "carry-on luggage".

Hannah Ingraham was just eleven years old when her loyalist family made preparations to leave New York in September of 1783. Her father had been away from home fighting for the king for seven years. For four of those years, Hannah's mother did not know if her husband was dead or alive. Correspondence was dangerous. Anyone found delivering letters to Mrs. Ingraham could be hanged.

After Benjamin Ingraham left his farm, rebels confiscated his ploughs and tools, selling them to the neighbours. Except for one heifer and four sheep, all of the Ingraham livestock was seized. Hannah's uncle quietly took back to his farm the sheep he had given her, keeping it safe from rebel hands.

Little John Ingraham had been given a pet lamb before his father joined the British army. When the rebels were about to take it from the loyalist farm, the little four year-old piped up "Won't you let me have my lamb?" John's pet was one of the few possessions the family was allowed to keep.

Hannah could later recount what family possessions they took with them to their evacuation ship in New York City. Her kindly uncle thrashed the wheat in the family's field. This gave them 20 bushels to pour into bags Mrs. Ingraham had made. The family packed a tub of butter, a tub of pickles and a good store of potatoes. Benjamin Ingraham killed the family's remaining cow to sell its meat. A neighbour added beeswax to the tallow from the cow's carcass and made the loyalist family "a good parcel of candles" that were "hard and good".

These few items are all that Hannah could recall by name when she shared her refugee experiences eight decades later. Without elaborating any further, she also remembered that her family took five wagon-loads of goods with them as they sailed down the Hudson River for New York. The size of the wagons -- and their contents -- remain a mystery to this day. If this was in any way typical of what loyalists were allowed to take with them, their evacuation ships must have had very full cargo holds.

The Ingrahams arrived in New Brunswick in the fall and had to live in a canvas tent supplied by the British. In addition to the food they brought from New York, the Ingrahams also received rations from the government. The snow came early that year. Hannah remembered that her mother "got so chilled with rheumatism that she was never very well afterwards." While the foodstuffs from home were probably eaten up rather quickly, it would be fascinating to know just how long the Ingrahams' homemade candles lasted during their first days of settlement.

Playing cards, silverware, and candles -- these were only a few of the commonplace items the loyalists brought to New Brunswick in 1783. It is sad that almost all such luggage has been lost over time.

Important Bulletin - "Thanks Dan" Campaign

Graeme F. Somerville

Recently the Greater Saint John Community Foundation notified the Saint John Branch that, for their year ended October 3, 2014, the earnings on the Daniel F. Johnson Scholarships in History fund was sufficient to award the very first $800.00 scholarship.

This is extremely good news and arrived more than a year earlier than expected.

The Foundation will advise the University of this and the University will make the selection of the deserving student.

To be eligible the student must be majoring in history, be enrolled in either the 3rd or 4th undergraduate year, or enrolled as a candidate in the Masters Programme, and attending the Saint John Campus of the University of New Brunswick.

For its part the University has confirmed the Province of New Brunswick will be enhancing the scholarship by 50% so that, upon successful completion of that academic year the deserving student will have $1,200.00 credited to her, or his, account with the University.

On October 31, 2014 the amount on hand at the Foundation was $20,970. As of May 11, 2015 the total raised stands at $35,635. The $50,000 target is getting much closer.

This achievement would not have been possible without the support, and financial contributions, of many members of the New Brunswick Genealogical Society as well as the endorsement by our three Patrons, David A. Ganong O.C., BA, MBA, Marion Beyea and Dr. Gregory Marquis BA, MA, PhD.

Which brings us to the point of mentioning that there are many on-line users of Dan's Vital Stats who may not be aware of the opportunity to show their appreciation of this great body of research material by contributing to the Thanks, Dan campaign.

Roelof Jansen and Anneke Jans of Norway and New Amsterdam

John O. Evjen, contributed by Harry MacDonald

This is an excerpt from "Scandinavian Immigrants in New York 1630-1674" written by John O. Evjen, published in 1916. It was retrieved from <https://archive.org/stream/scandinavianimmi02evje#page/n13/mode/2up>. The excerpt on Roelof Jansen starts on p. 89, the one on Anneke Jans starts on p. 91. The one on Sara Roelofs (whose first husband was Hans Kierstede) starts on p. 105, and Tryn Jonas on p. 108.

Roelof Jansen

Roelof Jansen arrived at New Amsterdam by "de Eendracht," May 24, 1630.²¹⁸ The ship sailed from the Texel, March 21, 1630. He was to work in the colony of Rensselaerswyck for $72 a year.²¹⁹ He was accompanied by his wife Anneke (Anetje) Jans, his daughters Sarah, (Katrina) and Fytje.²²⁰ Until quite recently it has been believed that Roelof Jansen and his family were Dutch. In the "Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts," (p. 56f. note) it is shown by A. T. F. van Laer, Archivist of New York State, that they were not from "Maasterland," but from "Masterland" or "Maesterland," meaning Marstrand, which is on a small island off the coast of Sweden, near Göteborg (Gothenburg). The editor and translator of "Bowier Manuscripts" concludes therefore that Jansen's family probably were Swedes. But why not Norwegians? Marstrand belonged to Norway prior to 1658, and it is significant that Claes Claesen and Jacob Goyversen, both from Flekkerø, Norway, sailed with Roelof and worked with him on "de Laets Burg." There were on July 20, 1632, only three men on this farm : Jansen, Claesen, Goyversen, three Norwegians.²²¹

²²¹ Ibid., pp. 805, 222. Masterlandt is explained as Marstrand in a letter of the year 1644, in "Bijdragen en Mededeelingen van het Historisch Genootschap (Gevestigd te Utrecht). Negen en twintigste deel," Amsterdam, 1908, p. 279. The first writer who made the claim that the family of Roelof Jansen was Norwegian, was Mr. Torstein Jahr, in "Symra" (Decorah, Iowa), Vol. IX., Part 1, p. 8f: "Nordmenn i Ny Nederland. Anneke Jans

On July 1, 1632, Roelof Jansen was appointed schepens. The oath of the schepens, administered by the Schout to Jansen, and Other schepens, among whom was Laurens Laurensen, another Norwegian, was as follows:

"This you swear, that you will be good schepens, that you will be loyal and feal to my gracious lord and support and strengthen him in his affairs as much as is in your power; that you will pass honest judgment between the lord and the farmer, the farmer and the lord, and in the proceedings between two farmers, and that you will not fail to do this on any consideration whatsoever.

"So help you God."

As schepen, Roelof Jansen got a "black hat, with silver bands."²²²

As to Roelof's farming, but little can be said. Van Rensselaer, always exacting in his demands, complained in a letter written July 20, 1632, to Wolfert Gerritz, that it showed "bad management that Roeloff Jansen could not get any winter seed. I hope that he has sown the more summer seed."²²³

Likewise in a letter of April 23, 1634, to Director Wouter van Twiller, the Patroon said : "I see that Roeloff Janssen has grossly run up my account in drawing the provisions, yes, practically the full allowance [even] when there was [enough in] stock. I think that his wife, mother, and sister and others must have given things away, which can not be allowed. He complains that your honor has dismissed him from the farm, and your honor writes me that he wanted to leave it."²²⁴ it would thus appear that Jansen left the colony of Rensselaerswyck in 1634.

Roelof Jansen moved with his family to New Amsterdam about 1634 or a little later. In 1636 he received a groundbrief of thirty-one morgens of land lying along East River.²²⁵ "It formed a sort of peninsula between the river and the swamps which then covered the sites of Canal Street and West Broadway." Here Jansen "probably erected a small farmhouse upon a low hill near the river shore at about the present Jay Street; but he had hardly made a beginning in the work of getting his bouwery under cultivation when he died, leaving his widow the arduous task of caring for a family of five children in a colony hardly settled as yet."²²⁶ Of Jansen's children, Sarah, Katrina and Sofia married in New Netherland (See the articles following). Annetje died as a child. Jan (Roelofsen) settled in Schenectady and was killed by the Indians in the massacre of 1690.

Jansen's widow married again. The Dutch Reformed preacher in New Amsterdam Everardus Bogardus took her for his wife in 1638. See the article "Anneke Jans." Of all Scandinavian immigrants in early New York she is probably the best known.

Anneke Jans

Anneke Jans arrived with her husband and three children at New Amsterdam May 24, 1630. As we have seen in the foregoing sketch, she came from Marstrand, Norway. She was with her husband at Fort Orange until 1634 or 1635 when the family moved down to New Amsterdam and settled on sixty-two acres of land, which Jansen received in 1636. He died shortly afterward.

Anneke was left with five children, though she, no doubt received some aid from her mother, Tryn Jonas, midwife, and from her sister, Marritje, both of whom were in New Amsterdam. Kiliaen van Rensselaer released her from what she owed him. In a letter of September 21, 1637, to Director van Twiller he said: "I only have from you the recommendation of the widow of Roelof Jansen, written to me hastily and with few words and your oral greetings by Jacob Wolphertsen. I released the said widow from her debt long ago. My reason for so doing I will tell you orally, when we meet, God willing, in good health."²²⁷

In March, 1638, Anneke was married to the Dutch Reformed pastor in New Amsterdam, Everardus Bogardus, who in 1633 had come to New Amsterdam to succeed the ministry of Jonas Michaelis. He had at the time a little church on the East River shore, or upon the present Pearl Street, between Whitehall and Broad Streets, and adjoining it was the parsonage. In addition to his clerical duties he assumed the cares of a landed proprietor. In the marriage settlement, still extant, Anneke had provided for the securing to her first husband's children the sum of 200 guilders each.²²⁸

The sixty-two acres of land which she inherited from her first husband now got the name of the "Domine's Bouwerie." "United in early English days to the Company's Bouwerie, it formed part of the famous tract, which, bestowed in the time of Queen Anne upon Trinity Church, in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries was the subject of repeated and hotly contested action at law in which Annetje's name conspicuously figured."²²⁹

On August 12, 1638, Everardus Bogardus, as the "husband of the widow of Roelof Jansen of Masterlandt" gave Power of Attorney to Director van Twiller "to collect money due said Jansen."²³⁰

Anneke, no doubt, was now a lady of leisure compared to what she had been when she was farming with Roelof on de Laets Burg. But her position as the wife of a parson was severely tested immediately after her second marriage. Anthony Jansen from Salee and his wife, Grietje Reiners, were none too well disposed to Domine Bogardus and Anneke. Grietje found an opportunity of circulating the report that Anneke had given public offense. Anthony Jansen, whose tongue vied with that of his wife, helped to spread the report. The matter came before the Court.²³¹

Mrs. Lamb's version of this case is as follows:

"The present boundaries of the land Jansen obtained in 1636 are the North River, Christopher Street, Bedford Street, West Houston Street, Sullivan Street, Canal Street, West Broadway, Barclay Street, Broadway, and Fulton Street, around to the river again" (Appleton's Cyclopaedia of American Biography, I., p. 301).

"Mrs. Bogardus went to pay a friendly visit to a neighbor but on getting into the 'entry', discovered that Greitje Reinirs, a woman of questionable reputation, was in the house, and thereupon turned about and went home. Grietje was greatly offended at this 'snubbing' from the Dominie's lady, and followed her, making disagreeable remarks. While passing a blacksmith's shop, where the road was muddy, Mrs. Bogardus raised her dress a little, and Grietje was very invidious in her criticisms. The Doniime thought fit to make an example of her; hence the suit. Grietje's husband being in arrears for church dues, Bogardus sent for him and ordered payment, and not getting it, finally sued for the amount." (See Lamb, History of the City of New York, I. p. 86).

Anneke's second husband was a fearless and outspoken person. He was at variance with Governor Van Twiller as well as with his successor Governor Kieft. He accused Van Twiller of maladministration and in consequence was himself charged with unbecoming conduct, and was about to depart for Holland to defend himself, but was detained by Governor Kieft. He opposed Kieft's policy in regard to the Indians, and in 1645 denounced him for drunkenness and rapacity. He was therefore brought to trial, but compromised with Kieft. But the old difficulties appeared again. In 1646 the Director and Council of Nevv^ Amsterdam summoned Bogardus to appear and answer charges against him. The "summons" is as long as it is violent, likely the work of Kieft. We shall give a few extracts from it:

"... We have letters in your own hand, among others, one dated June 17, 1634, wherein you do not appear to be moved by the Spirit of the Lord, but on the contrary by a feeling becoming heathen, let alone Christians, much less a preacher of the Gospel. You there berate your magistrate, placed over you by God, as a child of the Devil, an incarnate villain, whose buck goats are better than he, and promise him that you would so pitch into him from the pulpit on the following Sunday, that both you and his bulwarks would tremble. ...

"You have indulged no less in scattering abuse during our administration. Scarcely a person in the entire land have you spared; not even your own wife, or her sister, particularly when you were in good company and jolly. Still, mixing up your human passions with the chain of truth which has continued from time to time, you associated with the greatest criminals in the country, taking their part and defending them. ...

"On the 25th of September, 1639, having celebrated the Lord's Supper, observing afterwards in the evening a bright fire in the Director's house, whilst you were at Jacob van Curler's, being thoroughly drunk, you grossly abused the Director and Jochim Pietersen, with whom you were angry. ...

"Since that time many acts have been committed by you, which no clergyman would think of doing. ...

"Maryn Adriaensen came into the Director's room with predetermined purpose to murder him. He, notwithstanding, was sent to Holland in chains against your will. Whereupon you fulminated terribly for about fourteen days and desecrated your pulpit by your passion. ... Finally, you made up friends with the Director, and things became quiet. ...

"In the summer of ... (1644) when minister Douthey administered the Lord's Supper in the morning, you came drunk into the pulpit in the afternoon; also on Friday before Christmas of the same year, when you preached the sermon calling to repentance...

"On the 21st March, 1645, being at a wedding feast at Adam Brouwer's and pretty drunk, you commenced scolding the Fiscal and Secretary then present, censuring also the Director not a little, giving as your reason that he had called your wife a _____, though he said there that it was not true and that he never entertained such a thought, and it never could be proved. ...

"You administered the Lord's Supper ... without partaking of it yourself, setting yourself as a partisan..."²³²

Such was the husband of Anneke Jans in the opinion of the highest official in the land who himself was so hateful to the people that he was obliged to resign.

When Kieft returned to Holland, after the arrival of Governor Stuyvesant in 1647, Bogardus sailed in the same vessel to answer the charges brought against him, before the classis in Amsterdam.. The vessel entered Bristol Channel by mistake, and struck upon a rock, going down with eighty persons, among them Bogardus and Kieft. This happened on September 27, 1647.

Anneke was thus widow for the second time of her days. No doubt she had borne her share of the discomfort caused by the enmity between Kieft and Bogardus. The following extract of a letter of Rev. Megapolensis in Albany, written August 25, 1648. to the Classis of Amsterdam shows what she still had to contend against, and what was his opinion of the Kieft-Bogardus feud.

²³² Ecclesiastical Records of the State of New York, I., p. 196ff.

"After the Lord God was pleased to cut short the thread of life of Domine Bogardus by shipwreck ..., his widow came here to Fort Orange ... to reside and make her living. She has nine children living, some by a former husband and some by Domine Bogardus, and is also deeply in debt. She has, however, no way to liquidate her debts, nor means for her own subsistence, unless the West India Company pay her the arrears of salary due her husband. Domine Bogardus repeatedly asserted that a higher salary was promised him, before leaving Holland, than he ever received here...

"It is now about two years since I was called upon by Director-General William Kieft, to settle the difficulties between said Kieft and Domine Bogardus. I attempted several times to smooth the differences which had arisen here, but all in vain. Domine Bogardus asserted that it could not be done here, but that the matter ought to be laid before the Hon. Directors; or even if it could be determined here, he would, nevertheless, be obliged to go home, in order to demand, before his death, the salary promised him, for the maintenance and support of his family. ...

"He had been paid for a considerable time only 46 guilders per month, with 150 guilders extra per year for board money...

"Annetje Bogardus ... has requested me to write to the Rev. Classis, in her name and in her behalf, in order that the Rev. Classis, or the Deputies thereof, might, for the sake of a preacher's widow, petition the Company for the money due her, to be paid to her or her attorney, to enable her to pay her debts and support her family. ..."

The letter of Megapolensis, it would appear, does not exaggerate her distress. She had several little children to support, though three of her grown-up daughters were married. Her house in New York was situate on what is now No. 23 Whitehall Street. In 1652 she was enabled to buy a lot in Albany on the corner of James and State Streets. Here she built a house and resided the remainder of her life. It would appear that her son-in-law Pieter Hartgers secured this property for her. It was "bounded east by land of Jonas and Peter Bogardus, and west by Evert Janse Wendell. Being 2 rods 8 1/2 feet wide, and 5 rods 9 feet long." On June 21, 1663, after the death of Anneke, it was sold by the heirs to Dirck Wessells. The price was "1,000 guilders in good merchantable beaver skins, at 8 guilders a piece." (Collections of the New York Historical Society, IV., p. 488).

In 1654 she obtained from Governor Stuyvesant a patent in her own name on the land she had inherited from her first husband.

This Patent reads as follows:

"Petrus Stuyvesant, Director-General of New Netherland. Curacao and the Islands thereof, on the behalf of their Noble High Mightinesses the Lords States-General of the United Netherlands and the Honorable Directors of the Incorporated West India Company, together with the Honorable Councillors, declare that We on this day, date underwritten, have given and granted to Annetje Jans, widow of the late Everardus Bogardus, a piece of land situate on the Island of Manhattan on the North River, beginning at the palisades near the house on the Strand it goes north by east up to the partition line of old Jan's land is long 210 rods; from thence along the partition line of said Old Jan's land it extends E. by S. up to the Cripple bush (swamp) it runs S. W. long 160 rods from the Cripple bush, to the Strand it runs westerly in breadth 50 rods; the land that lies to the south of the house to the partition line of the Company's land begins on the east side, from the palisades southward to the posts and rails of the Company's land, without obstruction to the path, it is broad 60 rods; long on the south side along the posts and rails 160 rods; at the east side to the corner of Kalchhook is broad 30 rods; to the division line of the aforesaid piece of land it goes westerly in length 100 rods; it makes altogether 31 morgens." (Historic New York. Ed. by Goodwin, Royce and Putnam I., p. 84 f.)

Her will, dated January 29, 1663, and on record in the original Dutch in book of Notarial Papers, in the County Clerk's office, Albany, reads as follows:

"Will of Anneke Jans Bogardus. — In the name of the Lord, Amen. Know all men by these presents, That this day, the 29th of January, 1663, in the afternoon, about four o'clock, appeared before me, Derrick Van Schelluyne, notary public, in the presence of the witnesses hereafter mentioned, Anneke Janse, widow of Roeloff Janse, of Master Land, and now lastly widow of the Reverend Everhardus Bogardus, residing in the village of Beverwyck, and well known to us, notary and witnesses; the said Anneke Janse lying on her bed in a state of sickness, but perfectly sensible and in the full possession of her mental powers, and capable to testate, to which sound state of mind we can fully testify. Anneke Janse considering the shortness of life and certainty of death and the uncertainty of the hour or time, she, the said Anneke Janse, declared after due consideration, without any persuasion, compulsion, or retraction, this present document to be her last will and testament, in manner following: First of all recommending her immortal soul to the Almighty God, her Creator and Redeemer, and consigning her body to Christian burial, and herewith revoking and annulling all prior testamentary dispositions of any kind whatsoever, and now proceeding anew, she declared to nominate and institute as her sole and universal heirs her children, Sarah Roeloffson, wife of Hans Kierstede; Catrina Roeloffsen, wife of Johannes Van Brugh.; also Jannetje and Rachel Hartgers, the children of her deceased daughter, Fytie Roeloffsen, during her life the wife of Peter Hartgers, representing together their mother's place; also her son Jan Roeloffsen, and finally, William, Cornelius, Jonas, and Peter Bogardus, and to them to bequeath all her real estate, chattels, money, gold and silver, coined and uncoined, jewels, clothes, linen, woolen, household furniture, and all property what soever, without reserve or restriction of any kind, to be disposed of after her decease and divided by them in equal shares, to do with the same at their own will and pleasure without any hindrance whatsoever; provided never the less with this express condition and restriction that her four first born children shall divide between them out of their father's property the sum of one thousand guilders, to be paid to them out of the proceeds of a certain farm, situate on Manhattan Island, bounded on the North river, and that before any other dividend takes place; and as three of these children at the time of their marriage received certain donations, and as Jan Roeloffsen is yet unmarried, he is to receive a bed and milch cow; and to Jonas and Peter Bogardus she gives a house and lot situated to the westward of the house of the testatrix in the village of Beverwyck, going in length until the end of a bleaching spot, and in breadth up to the room of her, the testatrix, house, besides a bed for both of them and a milch cow to each of them, the above to be an equivalent of what the married children have received. Finally, she, the testatrix, gives to Roelof Kierstede, the child of her daughter Sara, a silver mug; to Annetje Van Brugh, the child of her daughter Catrina, also a silver mug; and to Jannetje and Rachel Hartgers, the children of her daughter Fytie, a silver mug each; and to the child of William Bogardus named Fytie also a silver mug; all the above donations to be provided for out of the first moneys received, and afterwards the remainder of the property to be divided and shared aforesaid. The testatrix declares this document to be her only true last will and testament, and desiring that after her decease it may supersede all other testaments, codicils, donations, or any other instruments whatsoever; and in case any formalities may have been omitted, it is her will and desire the same benefits may occur as if they actually had been observed; and she requested me, notary public, to make one or more lawful instruments in the usual form of this, her, testatrix, last will and desire. Signed, sealed, and delivered at the house of the testatrix in the village of Beverwyck, in New Netherland, in the presence of Ruth Jacobse Van Schoonderweert and Evert Wendell, witnesses.

(For this and other translations I am indebted to Collections of the New York Historical Society, IV., p.487 ff.)

Anneke died March 19, 1663. and lies buried in the Middle Dutch Church Yard, on Beaver Street. She was the first Norwegian "predikantsvrouw" (pastor's wife), in New York. And of all the pastors' wives in New York she has become the most famous. But this fame is due to chance and circumstance rather than to Anneke herself. Mrs. Lamb says: "Although she (Anneke) may not have seemed rich in the days when great landed estates were to be bought for a few strings of beads, yet she is revered by her numerous descendants as among the very goddesses of wealth. She was a small well-formed woman with delicate features, transparent complexion, and bright, beautiful dark eyes. She had a well-balanced mind, a sunny disposition, winning manners, and a kind heart. . ."

Anneke Jans' fame rests on property and progeny. Her descendants are numerous. Many of them are wealthy, some of them have been conspicuous in the litigation regarding Anneke Jans' farm. John Fiske speaks of this litigation as "one of the most pertinacious cases of litigation known to modern history." (The Dutch and Quaker Colonies in America, II., p. 32).

We have mentioned that Director Stuyvesant gave the heirs of Anneke a patent, on the land in question, in 1654. This patent was confirmed in 1664 by Governor Nicolls, after the English had conquered New Netherland. In 1671 five of the heirs conveyed the whole farm to Col. Francis Lovelace, then governor of the province of New York. In 1674 the Duke of York confiscated it, so that it was the "Duke's Farm" until 1685, when with James' accession to the throne it became the "King's Farm." In 1705 it was leased or granted by the colonial authorities under Queen Anne to Trinity Church. One of Anneke's sons, Cornelius, had not joined in the conveyance of 1671; the heirs of this son have claimed that his failure to join invalidated the sale and that they therefore had a right to their share of the property. Between 1750 and 1847 not less than sixteen or seventeen suits in ejectment were brought against Trinity Church by heirs who coveted the property. They were brought "with such a persistency which seemed to learn no lesson from defeat. In 1847 Vice-Chancellor Sanford decided that, after waving all other points, the church had acquired a valid title by prescription, and all the adverse claims were vitiated by lapse of time" (Fiske, Dutch and Quaker Colonies, II., p. 258).

Let us also quote from the article "Annetje Jans' Farm," in "Historic New York" (I., p. 95):

"Sixty-eight years after the sale to Lovlace, and thirty-one years after Queen Anne's grant, the descendants of Cornelius Bogardus began to protest against the occupancy of Trinity Church. There was a confused notion then as to what they could claim, and this confusion has increased in the minds of the "heirs" during two hundred years. The history of the repeated suits is long and involved. No court has sustained the claims of the "heirs" for a minute, and yet, with every generation, new claimants appear, though every possible right has long since been outlawed. Mr. Schuyler says in his Colonial New York: 'In view of the repeated decisions of the highest judicial tribunals and of their publicity, any lawyer who can now advise or encourage the descendants of Annetje Jans to waste their money in any proceedings to recover this property must be considered as playing on the ignorance of simple people, and as guilty of conscious fraud, and of an attempt to obtain money under false pretenses.' Mr. Schuyler made a close study of the subject, and is himself a distinguished descendant of Roelof and Annetje Jans."

As late as 1891 Trinity Corporation found it necessary to publish the following:

"To all whom it may concern:

"As letters are being constantly received from various places in the United States making inquiries about suits pending against this corporation in respect to its property, or about negotiations assumed to be on foot in respect to the alleged claims of the descendants of Anneke Jans or of other persons, notice is hereby given that no such suits are pending, and no such negotiations are going on, and all persons who suppose themselves to be descendants of Anneke Jans, or otherwise interested in claims hostile to this corporation, are cautioned against paying out money to any person alleging the pendency of such suits or negotiations."

Societies have been formed like the Anneke Jans Association, founded in Astor House Library in New York, 1867, The Anneke Jans International Union, etc. But no organized endeavor has as yet succeeded in invalidating the claim of the Trinity Corporation. It has continued to enjoy all the benefits and revenues of the vast property to this day. No wonder that Trinity Church can contribute more than four hundred thousand dollars a year to charity! Trinity Church is Episcopal. It is the wealthiest church organization in America and it is continually reminded of it, even in the twentieth century.

For as late as 1909 Trinity Corporation was sued again by an heir of Anneke Jans. Mary Fonda wanted, as heir, one per cent of valuable Trinity property.

Regarding the descendants of Anneke Jans, see: I. Munsell, Collections on the History of Albany II. ; and The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record. See also S. P. Nash, Anneke Jans Bogardus, her farm, and how it became the Property of Trinity Church, New York, 1896.

Of the many prominent families which by ties of marriage have augmented the genealogy of Anneke Jans, Mr. Torstein Jahr's article in "Symra" mentions Bayard, De Lancey, De Peyster, Jouverneur, Jay, Knickerbocker, Morris, Schuyler, Stuyvesant, Van Cortland and Van Rensselaer.

Sara Roelofs (Janse)

Sara Roelofs (Janse) was the first daughter of Roelof and Anneke Jans, with whom she arrived in New Netherland in 1630. She was with them on "de Laets Burg" till 1634—1635, when the family removed to New Amsterdam and settled on their farm of 62 acres, on which Roelof had obtained a patent in 1636.

Sara was married three times. Her first husband, to whom she was married June 29, 1642, was Hans Kierstede, a German, from Magdeburg. He was a physician in New Amsterdam. Sara and Hans lived in the house next to that of a Norwegian, Roelof Jansen Haes. It was at their wedding, that Governor Kieft, taking advantage of the condition of the guests after the fourth or fifth drink, induced them to subscribe very liberally toward building a new church in the Fort. "The disposition to be generous was not wanting at such a time. Each guest emulated his neighbor, and a handsome list was made out. When the morning came, a few were found desirous of reconsidering the transaction of the wedding feast. But Director Kieft would allow no such second thought. They must all pay without exception." By Hans Kierstede Sara had ten children. Both Hans and Sara were members of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer, in "History of the City of New York," I., p. 190, says, Kierstede and La Montagne "were the chief physicians of New Amsterdam, although one named Van der Bogaert practised before their arrival, and by 1638 there were three others, probably ships' surgeons whose stay was brief. Kierstede's descendants followed in his steps: it is believed that always since his time New York has had a physician or an apothecary of his blood and name."

Sara was styled one of the "good women" of New Amsterdam, at least in 1662, as is seen from the following:

On September 19, 1662, a Jan Gelder sued Grietje Pieters for three guilders, sixteen stivers, wages she owed him. Grietje admitted the debt, but said that she had given to Gelder's wife some linen to make caps, and she spoiled the caps. The Court referred "the matter in question to Sara Roeloftzen, wife of Mr. Hans Kierstede, and to Metje Greveraats to take up the matter in question, to inspect the linen caps, to settle parties' case, and if possible to reconcile them; if not to report their decision to the Court." On October 3, the case was again before the court. The defendant was in default. "Pltf. says that the deft, is not willing to appear before the "good women" (female arbitrators), and that Sara Roelofs, appointed by the W. Court will not have anything to do with the matter, as she will not be opposed to either one party or the other." The Court insisted that Janneke van Gelder must either appear before the "good women" or make good the damage estimated by them.²³⁴

Sara was more than the ordinary arbitrating "good woman." She was well acquainted with the Indian language, and acted on divers occasions as interpreter for Peter Stuyvesant and the Indians. In return for her service, Oratany, sachem of Hackingsack, made her a present of a large neck or tract of land on the west side of the Hudson.

Her second husband, to whom she was married September 1, 1669, was Cornelius of Dorsum, owner of the Long Island ferry. Her third husband was Elbert Elbertsen Stouthoff. She was married to him in 1683. Sara had several slaves as appears from her will which reads as follows:

"Sara Roeloffse." In the name of God, Amen. Be it known to all whom it may concern, that I, Sara Roeloffse, late widow of Elbert Elbertse Stouthoff, considering the frailty and shortness of Human life, Do make my last will in manner following. 1st. I commit my immortal Soul into the merciful hands of God Almighty, and my body to a decent burial. 2nd. I revoke all other wills. Now I will before anything else to my daughter Blandina, of this city, a negro boy, Hans. To my son Luycas Kierstede, my Indian, named Ande. To my daughter Catharine Kierstede, a negress, named Susannah. To my son-in-law, Johannes Kip, husband of my said daughter Catharine, my negro, Sarah, in consideration of great trouble in settling the accounts of my late husband, Cornelius Van Dorsum, in Esopus and elsewhere. To my son Jochem Kierstede, a little negro, called Maria, during his life, and then to Sarah, the eldest daughter of my son Roeloff Kierstede by Ytie Kierstede. To my son Johannes Kierstede, a negro boy Peter. I leave to my daughter Anna Van Dorsum, by my former husband, Cornelius Van Dorsum, on account of her simplicity, my small house and kitchen, and lot situate in this city, between the land of Jacob Mauritz and my bake house, with this express condition, that she shall not be permitted to dispose of the same by will or otherwise, but to be hers for life and then to the heirs mentioned in this will.

"It is my will that my son Luycas Kierstede shall have the privilege of buying the house where he now lives and the bake house and lot belonging to the same and to pay the money for the same to the other heirs, he to retain his share. I have fully satisfied my sons Hans Kierstede and Roeloff Kierstede for their share in thier father's estate, being 40 Deavers, as by account for the same, the rest of my estate I leave to the seven children of me and my deceased husband, Hans Kierstede, viz, Roeloff, Blandina, Jochem, Luycas, Catrine, Jacobus, Rachel, and the children of my deceased son Hans Kierstede by his wife Jannike equally. Only Hans Kierstede the eldest son of my deceased son Hans Kierstede shall have £1 for his birthright. I appoint as guardians of my daughter Anna Van Dorsum, and managers of her house and lot my son-in-law Johannes Kip, and my son Luycas Kierstede, and my son-in-law Wm Teller, giving them full power as executors. "Dated July 29, 1693. Witnesses Wm. Bogardus, Jacobus Maurits, — Hoaglandt.

"Codicil, August 7, 1693, confirms the above will and leaves all her clothing to her daughters Blandina, Catha-

Tryn Jonas

Tryn Jonas, or Kathrine Jonas, was from Marstrand, Norway.²³⁵ She was the mother of Anneke Jans, wife of Roelof Jansen, who with his family immigrated to New Netherland in 1630. For a long time she occupied a position under the West India Company as its official midwife, an incident showing how the Company made provision for the welfare of its colonists. "She was," says J. H. Innes, "duly sensible of the dignity and importance of her office, which she exercised with great independence, even to the extent of refusing upon various occasions to attend certain of her patients with whose antecedents she was not satisfied."²³⁶ Under date of August 31, 1642, Catalina Trico and her daughter Sarah Rapalji made a declaration "respecting the conduct of Tryn Jonas, midwife, when sent for to attend said Trico."²³⁷ We do not know the nature of this declaration, nor of another declaration of the midwife herself, on July 7, 1644, "respecting a confession of Helligond Joris as to the paternity of her child"²³⁸ — very likely some of the manuscript material in Albany will reveal it — but it seems that Tryn Jones was an exacting midwife.

It would appear that she stayed sometime with her daughter in the colony of Rensselaerswyck. For Kiliaen van Rensselaer complained in a letter of April 23, 1634, that Roelof Jansen was drawing too heavily on his accounts. He was inclined to believe that Roelof's wife, sister-in-law, and mother-in-law had given things away.²³⁹

After Jansen had moved down to New Amsterdam, Tryn Jonas had no reason to be lonesome. Her daughter Anneke had several daughters who married and got children. Anneke herself had children by her second husband Domine Bogardus, whom she married in 1638. We find Tryn Jonas as sponsor at the baptism of Anneke's and Bogardus's child, Cornelis, who was baptized on September 9, 1640; likewise at the baptism of their child, Jan, January 4, 1643. On September 21, 1644, she was sponsor at the baptism of Jan, son of her granddaughter Sara and Dr. Kierstede.²⁴⁰ Tryn Jonas could also visit her other daughter, Marritje, whenever she desired; for she, too, lived in New Amsterdam and had a family.

On February 4, 1644, Tryn Jonas obtained a grant of land from the West India Company, a lot upon Pearl Street where she built a house.²⁴¹

On September 15, 1644, her son-in-law, Bogardus brought, in her behalf, action against Jacob Ray (Kay, Hay?) "for a small piece of ground." It was ordered "that the Director and Council examine the ground in dispute."²⁴²

She died before 1647. The West India Company was owing her money at the time. Her daughters claimed it, and her son-in-law, Rev. Bogardus, was to collect it. Dirck Cornelissen, the second husband of her daughter Marritje (he had married her September 9, 1646), gave, in 1647, power of attorney to Bogardus "to receive money due said midwife by the West India Company."²⁴³ After the death of Rev. Bogardus, his widow Anneke gave power of attorney to Cornelis Willemsen Bogaert, a brother of the pastor and a resident of Leyden, "to receive moneys due Tryn Jansen, her mother, late midwife, by the West India Company at Amsterdam."²⁴⁴ author unknown, contributed by Nancy Malcolm. Reprinted with permission of Restigouche Branch.

History of Maple Green, New Brunswick

The following article was found in the records of the Restigouche Genealogical Society was written circa 1984 by an unknown author. In 1992 Annette Hynes, president of the society sent me a copy which I have transcribed. This paper gives our Malcolm descendants a wonderful glimpse into the locale and times that our Malcolm ancestors knew. The village of Dalhousie Junction, New Brunswick is on the Chaleur Bay in the county of Restigouche. Across the bay is the Gaspé Peninsula, province of Québec, county of Bonaventure. The countries making up the area in Québec are: Bonaventure, Gaspé-East, Gaspé-West, Matane, Matapédia. This region is also known as the Appalachian Region as it is the extreme northern area of the United States Appalachian Mountains. [The Columbia Lippincott Gazetteer of the World]. Early Malcolm settlers can be found in both Québec and New Brunswick. According the Provincial Archives of New Brunswick - Maple Green is located on the south side of the Restigouche River, 3.1 km NE of McLeods, on the road to Dalhousie Junction, Dalhousie Parish, Restigouche County. PO 1851-1946; in 1866 Maple Green was a farming settlement with approximately 47 resident families; in 1871 it had a population of 100; in 1898 Maple Green had 1 post office and a population of 150. In the map below the arrow is pointing to Maple Green - NFM.

HISTORY OF MAPLE GREEN, NEW BRUNSWICK

The first grant of land given in this area, whose name is familiar was Daniel Malcolm in 1818. The next grants given to James Menzies, Hugh Blair, A. McCurdy, John Douglass. They had to clear one acre of land, then three acres in every five acres also pay quit rent, if this was not done the land would be returned to the Government, and given to another settler who would farm it. The settlers who came later were given grants in Upper and Lower Dundee, Balmoral, Selwood. Green farms they were called. All they had to work with was a ax, chop trees, build a log cabin, clear land to plant a garden among the stumps, vegetables, Indian corn as it was easier to grind by hand, planted herbs for medicine, also planted coffee roots for coffee. Tapped the maple trees for sap which was boiled to make syrup and sugar as this was the only sweetener they had. In later years sheep, cows, and horses were brought from the British Isles. No roads trails, blazed through the forest. Some years, crops failed, they were near starvation, applied to the Government for help. These farmers were Scots, English and Irish.

In the 1851 census, some of these had obtained land closer to the Restigouche River. These settlers were: John McCurdy, his wife Catherine, John McCurdy wife Sarah, Catherine Blair her sons Robert & John, William Malcolm his wife Elizabeth, Hugh Blair his wife Catherine, James Menzies his wife Elizabeth, Edmond Menzie his wife Eliza, John his wife Ann, Daniel Kerr his wife Ann, Alexander Kerr his wife Catherine.

1861 - a few more came. James and Janet Shaw, William and Mary Jamieson, Charlotte, Robert and Elizabeth Menzies, Thomas Menzies his wife Margaret, his mother Elizabeth, Edmund and Cristy Ann Hoare his sister Lucinda, William and Jane Thompson (Irish) David and Ann Kerr.

The first were built ¼ to ½ mile from the River, a log cabin. Later a home built again of hand hewn boards, and shingles, square nails made by a blacksmith, rafters held together by wooden pegs. These homes were closer to the River. They worked at lumbering, farming and fishing. They traveled overland by Stage Coach on a corduroy road so called because logs were laid across the road in marshy places, between Campbellton and Bathurst.

The Stage Coach hauled by four horses, stopped every fifteen miles to rest and eat. The Stage Coach carried passengers and mail. Some times traveling along the beach. They covered 80 miles a day.

1873 - road moved closer to the River the first gravel graded road numbered 9,10 now known as number 134 recorded on Deed in Fredericton.

Searched a deed, census, marriages, the census named Pt La-Nim, Maple Green, Dalhousie Jct, was not named. A marriage was performed at Maple Green between Margaret Jamieson-William Fallow in 1874. 1884 when the Branch Line went into Dalhousie where the tracks met it was called a junction, Dalhousie Jct. Up as far a Rufus Hicks down to Blair and Malcolm road. Now Dalhousie Jct is bounded on the west by McLeods a line a sign post on the side of the road. Maple Green gone in the past bound on the east by Pt La Nim a sign post on the side of the road. Electric lights from sign post to sign post.

In the early nineteen hundreds a saw mill on the Blair & Malcolm road, a shingle mill owned by Allan Hicks, formerly Robert Blair which employed the men of the area, as well from Eel River. It was burned in 1922. The cook house was then used as a smelt packing operation. Another smelt packing shed owned by Ned Crocker hired a lot of men in the area. The main source of income was Salmon fishing. Besides smelt fishing.

1924 - 42 families in the community. There was school, a Temperance Hall, land donated by John Jamieson. Freight shed, station, 2 dairy farms, later a dairy owned by Ernest Hicks, Hamiltons store formerly Tim Robinsons, 2 Post Offices, Church, a large outdoors skating rink, fun for all ages, all work done by volunteers, cleaning and flooding, no grants in those days, we had a good hockey team, Broomball Team, which played down as far as Jacket River. Also held Ice Carnivals, Moccasin Dancing, great fun.

1984 - School closed in 1966, Hall torn down, Station demolished also Freight Shed, in the late sixties, no Dairy Farms, Store and Post Office burned.

1984 - 117 homes, 2 tailor parks about 51 trailers, 15 trailers along the road, 22 cottages, 2 stores, garage, Chicken Hatchery, Dairy, Kingdom Hall, church, Arctic Cat store, Parkers Cabinet Makers, Allied Chemical Plant, rural mail-Ella Barton mail lady. Since 1984 one fishing stand left allowed to fish the last 2 weeks in July.

STATION

1876. The Intercolonial Railway was operating, between Halifax and Quebec. It was a welcome sight to the families in the Community. It had a wood-burning engine. The men cut and hauled the wood to the side of the track. The train would stop the trainmen would load the wood, some times the passengers had to help, of course against their will. Later coal and steam, bigger engines came into use. The train carried passengers, mail freight, mostly everything the farmers needed

1884 - the first train arrived in Dalhousie.

During this or later the station was built. It was a large building, two large waiting rooms, two toilets, baggage room, large office space apartment upstairs for a family. It was a great place for all in the evening to watch the train come in. Also a large freight shed.

During the 1914 war the trains were busy transporting troops and supplies for overseas.

During this time the railroad, it looked so bad that they have to shut down. 1919 an act was passed creating a new Company owned by the People of Canada, called the Canadian National Railway Company. The Intercolonial and 5 other Railways became Canadian National government owned.

By 1923 the C.N.R. owned 221 small privately owed railways. The C.N.R. owned the railways right across Canada. The maintain of the track was done by three men and a foreman, they had a hand car (pump car) when a rail had to be replaced it was hauled behind on a push car. All work was done carried out lifting and hauling by the men. The track was patrol by a speedie car or by walking. Later extra gangs in the summer to help with the work men were hired in the winter, for snow shoveling.

Once again in 1939-1945 war was declared World War II the trains were involved in an-all-out effort carrying troops, tanks, guns, planes, ammunition, supplies, food. All had to be transported from all across Canada to Halifax, traffic doubled.

One time in the past we had the Maritime, Ocean Limited, local, Scoot, these stopped twice a day the Branch made 5 stops a day. One by one the Trains were discontinued, finally the last stop made in 1966. Station demolished within the few years.

Over the years the Stations Agents were:

George Allan
Herb Buckley
Harold McNair
Ernest Woods

Harold McNair
Sterling Jardine
Wilfred Whalin

Many operators also worked here, many learned and got their start in their career on the C.N.R.

Now the VIA train is the only through train from Montreal to Halifax. A rail liner from Campbellton to Moncton neither train stops here. All reservations to travel are made in Moncton. Paid for in Campbellton.

1848: The early settlers worshiped in a church built of logs it deteriorated and unfit for use. Then they gathered in homes. The first minister was an Anglican missionary, Rev. SCHOOL

In 1870. Edmund and Elizabeth Menzies, donated a lot of land for a school for the sum of $1.00. Deed registered in 1875. This is the first original school on record. A small one room building for all classes. Books at the time were scarce, reading, writing, arithmetic. The teachers were paid a very small salary and boarded in the district.

All pupils walked, up to 2 miles morning and afternoon. School started at 9-4 p.m. A 15 minute break morning and afternoon, 12 to 1:15 dinner hour. Walking was very difficult especially in winter, storms were terrific, winds fierce, road were not plowed, until 1935. The parents sometimes drove the children to school came for them with hot bricks in the sleigh to keep them warm.

The school was heated by a box stove, wood out in a woodshed carried inside by the pupils, who kept the fires going all day. The school kept in this state for a great number of years. An addition was added in later years, then there were 2 class rooms still heated by box stove. Later a oil furnace was put in. The pupils were given a day of in May, to rake and clean the yard, wash the windows, desks, and floors. In spite of this, many a fine student was well educated, to go on to a higher education, to become teachers, nurses doctors, lawyers, etc. The school was closed in 1966, 96 years of heritage gone in the past. The school was later used as a community hall recreational in the basement, rink on the west side of Hall used for a tennis court in summer.

Last teachers: Beverly Craswell, senior classes
Mrs. Mildred Thompson, junior class

Please keep this Hall for all generations, in memory of the school.

WHY MOTHER GOES TO THE W.I.

One evening a month the family knows,
She dolls all up and off she goes.

Its the regular meeting, she must be there.
And home obligations sha'nt interfere.

She must be there by eight o'clock,
Whether household chores are done or not.

From creed to ode, she enjoys it all,
Tho, the attendance is often very small.

But the faithful few are seldom thwarted,

Many a worthy project they've supported,

Mother comes home late, and says she ate too much,
She just couldn't resist what they passed for lunch.

She checks her weight and heaves a sigh,
Diets are forgotten at the W.I.

But, come next month, she'll be off on the run,
Gee, that Women's Institute must be fun.

Joanne Cowdrick provided the following updates to her book Archibald McEacharn the Loyalist:

1. Pg 40 Nelson had a daughter named Maria
2. Pg 45 Maria was the daughter of Nelson
3. Pg 52 change the three Barnes children to Powell and add Mary born abt 1874 NB
4. Pg 52 change Anna Maria Barnes death to 10 Mar 1914, Moncton, NB at 67 yrs
5. Pg 52 change Edman's birth to abt 1875
6. Pg 90 Carolyn Hodgins born October
7. Pg 106 delete George Shaw. Change Duncan to George. For NB families enclose copy of George's FGR
8. Pg 112 delete Kenneth's death. Add his first wife instead: Helen Caroline Morris d 16 Mar 1987
9. Pg 112 for NB families enclose copy of Harvey and Mabel Flett's family
10. Pg 60 delete #210; delete death date
11. Pg 50 #120 died in 1902
12. Pg 87 Dana b 22 June 1947 Machias, Maine
13. Pg 75 Edward's family – they spell the name MacEachern. Edward died in Clairville. Mary's middle name is spelled Janet. The record I found spelled it with two n's. She was married in the Richibucto Anglican Church in Richibucto. Mary was christened in the Kouchibouguac Presbyterian Church. She died in Moncton. Janie Alfreda has reversed her name to be Alfreda Jane. These changes come from the family in New Brunswick. My record needs to read same as the original record.
14. Pg 91 Emily was christened in Kouchibouguac. I found her christening in the St. Paul's records and therefore used that location in my records.
15. Pg 92 Alfreda Jane was born in Harcourt; christened in Bass River Point. Her husband Harold Steeves was born in 1921 in Birch Ridge, Kent, NB. Murray Harold Steeves was born 26 May 1954 in Moncton. Ronald Graham MacEacharn married Elizabeth Symes 2 Sept 1960 in St. George's Anglican Church, Moncton, Westmorland, NB.
16. Pg 77 Annabelle Wilson died 6 Nov 2007 Bass River, Weldford, Kent, NB
17. Pg 86 #297 John McEacharn, Jr married in 1952, not 1942. That was a typo of mine.
18. Pg 51 Emily McEacharn deleted
19. Pg 108 Mary Ann d 20 Mar 1942, Vancouver, BC. Need to prove that this is her (13 June 2011)
20. Pg 111 John Sutton McEacharn b 1 Jan 1905, Cross Creek Station, York, NB
21. Pg 113 Cal married Delicia Myers.
22. Pg 112 Guy Harold Flett death deleted

Alexander Robinson, Controversial Covenanter of Shemogue

Contributed by Eldon Hay

Rev. Alexander Clarke (1794-1874), pioneer Reformed Presbyterian [RP] missionary, who lived in East Amherst, early sought assistance to help the Covenanter cause in both Westmorland and Cumberland counties. An Irish-born licentiate, Alexander Robinson (1819-1886), arrived in Little Shemogue in July 1855, and became the first resident RP minister in Westmorland.

Robinson worked hard, and his efforts were crowned with success by a large Communion service at Little Shemogue at the end of August. Clarke was enthusiastic about the event: "Since the year '31, when the Supper was first dispensed there, we have many times enjoyed much of the Divine goodness on communion occasions. But never before, neither there, nor on any other such occasion, have we seen and felt as we did." The person chiefly responsible for the large crowd, thirty-three new members, six adult baptisms and a number of infant baptisms, was Alexander Robinson: "every house, family and individual - saint and sinner - Protestant and Papist, was ferreted out, around and along an extensive range, and freely and faithfully dealt with about matters of life and death." Robinson also demonstrated considerable energy in extending the Port Elgin mission station. Having been called by the Little Shemogue congregation in 1856, Robinson was ordained on 1 July in New York City. On 14 July he was installed as pastor at Little Shemogue and Port Elgin. In March 1857 a new church was opened in Port Elgin, Robinson presiding at the dedication. The land for the building site had been donated by Alexander Monroe. From 1856 until 1860, all went well for Robinson. In his early days, Robinson was a younger trusted colleague of the patriarch, Alexander Clarke, and things went well.

In the early 1860s, however, Robinson got into difficulties in Little Shemogue. He either caused or provoked a fama clamosa - literally "a clamorous, scandalous report," or breach of moral discipline. The first intimation of trouble was given by Robinson himself, at a meeting in Little Shemogue of the Eastern Presbytery on 6 March 1860, in the course of providing the presbytery with a routine statement regarding his field of labour. He was heard at considerable length, and the presbytery sympathized "deeply with Mr. Robinson because of the slandorous reports of a few malignant [persons] tending to impair his usefulness" (Eastern Presbytery Minutes [EPM], 6 Mar 1860). Despite his efforts to clear his name, the pastoral relationship between Robinson and the Little Shemogue congregation was broken, by mutual consent, at a meeting of the Eastern Presbytery on 10 July 1860. The contents of the fama clamosa or scandalous report were then made clear: "At the desire of the Rev. Alex. Robinson & with the concurrence of Mr. Duncan, Elder, & also in compliance with the action of [Eastern] Presbytery at its last meeting ... the following libel against Mr. Robinson was presented by Mr. Duncan (EPM, 10 July 1860):

Whereas familiarity with female servants of such a nature as to give reason to imagine is injurious to your standing as a minister of the gospel & brings Scandal to the Church, and whereas you Rev. Alexander Robinson are charged with said offence by common fame, therefore you should be proceeded against by the censures of the house of God designed as they are for your edification & not for your destruction. The specifications of the charge against you, are, that in the month of December 1858 you were found in your stable scuffling with your servant girl Ellen McGinnis. In the month of January 1859 you were seen in your stable with the said Ellen McGinnis between two cows you having your arm upon her shoulders talking. And again, in the same year & about the same time a noise of scuffling was heard in your stable and you were seen scuffling with the said Ellen McGinnis. And lastly on or about the 10th of January last you were seen crouched down beside Elizabeth Niles your servant girl, who was in the position of milking & you had your arm lying upon her bosom, With all this you are charged, and an opportunity is now afforded of presenting your defence if any such you have to make.

Robinson was being accused of what might be called sexual congress or sexual impropriety,¹ though there were no witnesses. "After a long & most minute examination" by various members of presbytery, it was determined "that inasmuch as nothing really affecting the moral character of Mr. Robinson has been advanced by the witnesses"; therefore the presbytery unanimously resolved "that a certificate of character be given to Mr. Robinson, that he may consistently with the dignity of the Christian profession exercise the office of the ministry in whatever places the providence of God may hereafter call him" (EPM, 10 Jul 1860). In short, Robinson was being given a character reference to move to a different RP congregation in another presbytery.

Despite the termination of the pastoral relationship between the Little Shemogue RP congregation and Robinson, he was still partly employed by the Eastern Presbytery. When either Clarke or Rev. Archibald Thomson, of Linden, NS, supplied at Little Shemogue, for example, "the pulpit of the minister officiating there [was] occupied by the Rev. Alexander Robinson" (EPM, 20 Nov 1860). Robinson also attended meetings of the Eastern Presbytery during 1860-1863, and was listed in General Synod minutes as a minister serving in the Eastern Presbytery from 1860-1862. At the presbytery meeting of 3 March 1863 the Clerk was again "authorized to give a certificate of character & standing to the Rev. A. Robinson, on application in the event of his removing from the bounds of Presbytery" (EPM, 3 Mar 1863). Robinson was present at the meeting, and relations between him and his clerical colleagues seemed cordial enough.

By the time of the next presbytery meeting, on 28 April, however, the situation had altered. Robinson was not present; he had applied to the clerk for a certificate of character and standing, but was refused because since the last meeting a criminal prosecution had been instituted against him. Presbytery deferred the matter of the certificate, while the attitude of its members (chief of whom was Alexander Clarke) towards Robinson steadily hardened. Suspended from exercise of the pastoral ministry, Robinson acknowledged the justice of the penalty (EPM, 20 Jul 1863).

Though the rationale was not clearly stated, Presbytery apparently suspended Robinson on the grounds of immorality.ⁱⁱ A special meeting was called in August for the purpose of investigating the charges brought against him: "libel & summons to attend this court were served on Mr. Robinson" and subpoenas on other key figures involved. At the meeting, one "Mary Stillman was examined minutely & at some length by the Moderator [Rev. Alexander Clarke]" (EPM, 18 Aug 1863). Mary Stillman was the person laying the complaint which had led to the criminal charge against Rev. Alexander Robinson.

Mary Stillman's public declaration against the accused was sharply felt by, and drew a pointed response from the presbytery; the matter had moved out of common fame - idle or malicious gossip - into the secular courts. The specific nature of the criminal charge against Robinson is not known, though its general character can be ascertained. Information about Mary Stillman and her family is available from the census returns of 1851 and 1861 for Botsford Township, Westmorland County.

The Stillman name appears first in the census of 1851. There were a family of eight - David, the father, was 41, Irish and a farmer. His wife Sarah, 38, was also Irish; among the children were John, 9; Mary, 7; and Sarah, 3. By 1861, the Stillmans were no longer listed as a family, though the cause of the breakdown or removal is not known. In 1861, the three Stillman siblings were servants in Botsford households - John, now said to be 20, was a servant in the Abner and Mary Trenholm household; Sarah, now said to be 17, was a servant in the William and Emma Wells home; and Mary, said to be 18 and a Methodist, was a servant of Rev. Alexander and Mary Anna Robinson, Reformed Presbyterians. The evidence of the census returns, the original fama clamosa and the Eastern Presbytery minutes confirm that Mary Stillman, a domestic servant in the Robinson household, alleged a sexual assault upon her by Rev. Robinson and that she laid a complaint which culminated in criminal proceedings during the period March-April 1863.ⁱⁱⁱ

The scandal caused a protracted three-way struggle among the Eastern Presbytery, the General Synod and Rev. Alexander Robinson, which continued intermittently until Robinson's death in 1886. The situation was exacerbated by poor communication between the two church courts, presbyterial and synodical, and irregular attendance at Synod by Eastern Presbytery delegates.

Alexander Clarke, the patriarch had been enthused about the early pastoral services of Robinson. His attitude changed with the charges brought against Robinson. He led the Eastern Presbytery in wanting the General Synod to decide the issue, because of the presbytery's "numerical weakness and especially because of the complicated character of the evidence" (EPM, 26 Oct 1864). The General Synod's Committee on Discipline kept urging the Eastern Presbytery itself to decide the issue, presumably because it was geographically closer to the locus of contention, and because of the often inadequate documentation. Robinson's attitude to both courts was erratic. On one occasion, "the petition from Mr Alexander Robinson is respectful" (General Synod Minutes [GSM], 1871); on another, "the course of the Rev. A. Robinson ... in manner and spirit, as expressed in his paper, is highly censurable" (GSM, 1883). The presbytery and Robinson exchanged charges and counter-charges. Robinson's appeals for full restoration were addressed to the Synod, since he complained that the Eastern Presbytery was "prejudiced against him, and [would] not give him a fair and impartial hearing"(GSM, 1873). Stung by this accusation, which it denied, the Eastern Presbytery countered by charging Robinson with unfairness (GSM, 1865). Within the Eastern Presbytery, moreover, Robinson could find no support among lay people in the various congregations. During the short period in the late 1870s, when the suspension was temporarily lifted and Robinson applied for appointments, none of the existing RP congregations, who were all represented at the Presbytery meeting, requested Robinson's services (GSM, 1878).

There were two matters, however, about which Robinson showed no ambiguity. He consistently and "solemnly denied that the crime with which he had been charged, and for which he had been suspended [had any basis in fact]" (GSM, 1874). Robinson also persistently appealed to Synod, year after year, for removal of the suspension and full restoration. Robinson was determined to minister - in 1868 he applied through Wallace Presbytery for admission into the Presbyterian Church of the Lower Provinces of British North America. Not having a certificate of standing, however, Robinson was denied accreditation. In 1875 he applied for admission through Wallace Presbytery of the newly-formed Presbyterian Church in Canada, but again he was rebuffed.

Robinson was eventually acquitted of the criminal charge against him; he was undoubtedly gratified when he was reinstated in 1876 (GSM, 1876). (Alexander Clarke had died in 1874). Nonetheless, the reinstatement brought peace neither for Robinson nor for the presbytery, however; and he was again suspended in 1884 (GSM, 1884). The grounds were contempt for the established order of the Church, and the specific charge preferred was "persistent contempt of ordinances, since his restoration in 1876, coupled with the absence of that general integrity and good moral conduct requisite in the minister of Christ." Robinson appeared, and was heard in his own defence; Presbytery was not convinced by his arguments and suspended him (GSM, 1884). Nor did the presbytery's punitive action stop there: "We petition Synod at its next meeting to depose him [Robinson] from the office of the ministry" (EPM, 16 Oct 1884) The Synod, however, was not willing to countenance deposition.

Robinson, who had bought a farm soon after he came to Little Shemogue, lived and laboured for thirty years in the area. He and his Irish-born wife raised a large family in difficult financial circumstances. He was caught - neither finally expelled by nor fully readmitted to the Reformed Presbyterian Church. For the last quarter century of his life Robinson was an increasingly angered, embittered and isolated man. In his own commonplace-book, entry for 21 September 1882, Robinson writes: "In truth I must confess that the last 25 years have been years of great bodily toil and much trouble of mind. I have been encumbered with a heavy debt, and a large helpless family for years; and what has made my condition much worse, so soon as any of my children got able to help me, they went away to some other place to help themselves" (Mount Allison University archives). Robinson died in November 1886. The Chignecto Post gave the details.

Alexander Robinson, of Murray Corner, parish of Botsford, was found dead in his carriage at his door at eleven o'clock on Friday evening, 10th inst. Deceased left home on the Wednesday afternoon previous for Amherst; went to Tidnish that night; Thursday went to Amherst, and on Friday returned by way of Point de Bute. Had tea at Mr. Byron Chappell's, Baie Verte, apparently in the best of health, started for his home about seven o'clock, and at eleven o'clock was found as above described. An inquest was held on Saturday evening, 20th inst., by Coroner E.C. Gooden, of Baie Verte, and the jury rendered a verdict of death from heart disease. Deceased was a native of Ireland; came to Philadelphia when a young man, studied for the ministry, and in the summer of 1855 was sent out by Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church to take charge of the Shemogue congregation. He soon received and accepted a call from said congregation, where he labored for a number of years successfully. He leaves a large family to mourn his untimely end.

A fellow RP colleague added this note in a church paper: "It might be added that at the time of his death Mr. Robinson was under suspension by his Presbytery. He seemed to feel deeply his position, but from some cause or other he appeared never to be able to reach that plane of Christian and ministerial standing that would have given his brethren confidence in his ministerial usefulness. He was a man of considerable ability in the realm of polemics, and when he entered the ministry his preaching was not without acceptance. Our hope is that his trials and discipline were sanctified to him, and although his death was sudden, that he was not hurried away without previous reflections on the necessity of preparation for the better world (Reformed Presbyterian Advocate, 1887, 25).

It is ironic that Clarke and Robinson, such bitter antagonists for the so many years, should be honoured on the same memorial cairn in the present-day Pioneer Cemetery at Murray Corner.^{iv}

i. Robinson was being accused of sexual impropriety, not sexual assault: an unfair and incorrect error in Eldon Hay's The Chignecto Covenanters (1996), 73. I gladly acknowledge this correction made by Dr. David G. Bell, Faculty of Law, University of New Brunswick.

ii. There were three kinds of offences outlined in The Discipline of the RP Church: "Heresy, which consists in maintaining errors contrary to the Holy Scriptures, and condemned in the subordinate ecclesiastical standards - Immorality [i.e., sexual impropriety] - and Contempt for the established order of the church." Heresy was never a factor in Robinson's case, nor -in the early days - was contempt.

iii. The charge had not yet been laid when the Eastern Presbytery met at Amherst on 3 March 1863; it was by the time Presbytery met again at Amherst on 28 April. Unfortunately, the pertinent court records were stored in the Westmorland County court-house in Dorchester, which was totally destroyed by fire in June 1965; see Tribune-Post (Sackville), 30 June 1965, 1.

iv. The cairn has two plaques, one of which reads, "The first Church in Botsford Parish was erected and dedicated here in 1831 by Rev. Alex. Clarke D.D. 1795 - 1874." The other plaque reads: "In memory of Rev. Alex. Robinson, 1819 - 1886 first resident minister of the Reformed Presbyterian Congregation of Shemogue. 1858 - 1861." The cairn was dedicated by Little Shemogue United Church congregation on 28 July 1940 (Sackville Tribune, 29 Jul 1940). 1940, 1.

English Settlement School Records - Kings and Queens Counties - 1841

There were two parish schools in English Settlement. These were in existence at least as early as 1838. One school was in Studholm parish at the eastern end of the settlement (Pearsonville) and the other was in Johnston parish at the western end (Highfield).

The first teacher in the eastern part of the settlement may have been Adam Murray, who was living in English Settlement in 1828. He never obtained a teachers license in Kings but this was not a requirement to teach (but it was required to receive a teacher's salary from the county). He is said to have taught at Scotch Lake, York County, and had a license to teach there in 1833 and 1834. He left N.B. for London area, Canada West in 1835.

Emily Shaw was teaching in the area when she married Dr. Beavan in 1838. Dr. Beavan was living at Studville with the Murrays and practicing medicine in Sussex. He no doubt came to English Settlement with them. Dr. Beavan was also licensed as a teacher and later served as a Trustee of Schools for Johnston parish, Queens County. Adam Murray in one of his first letters from London to his brother Walter in 1837 passes his regards to Dr. Beavan.

Two early returns for the Kings county school from 1841-43 have been preserved. One return for the Queens County school has been found for 1841:

The Stanley War Memorial

Marianne Donovan

A book entitled "The Village in the Valley," written by Velma Kelly, outlines on page 56 how the Stanley Women's Institute collected money to erect a monument to commemorate 17 soldiers from the area who made the supreme sacrifice on the French and Belgian battlefields of The Great War and also to remember those who served and safely returned (including two Nursing Sisters.)

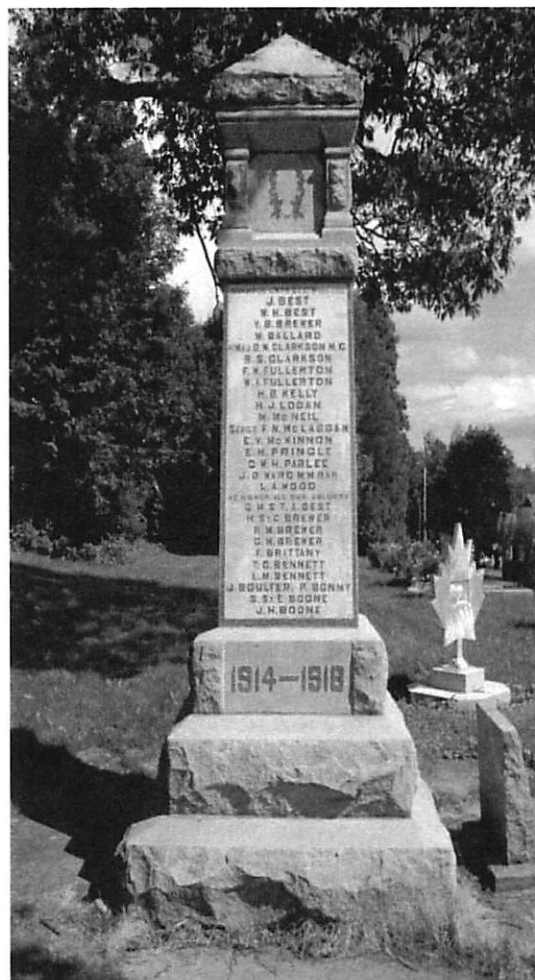

The family of Andrew Douglas donated land for the memorial adjacent to The Women's Institute Hall and near the intersection of present day Route 107 and Ward Settlement Road in Stanley, York County, New Brunswick.

On Labour Day, Monday September 5, 1921 this edifice was unveiled by Mrs. Eudora Pringle, President at that time of The Women's Institute. She had lost her only son, Ernest, at Vimy Ridge during the fighting which followed the capture of the bluff by The Canadian Expeditionary Force. His is the 14th. name on the monument and Lee Wood, who was profiled in the Winter 2014 edition of 'Generations' is the 17th.

Following the names of the 17 fallen and encircling all four sides of the memorial, are 96 names of those from the area who served and survived. A smaller stone resting on the side facing Route 107 was later added to commemorate 8 World War II casualties and 2 from the Korean Conflict.

A number of the brave men listed on the monument are descended from long established area families who had contributed fighting men to the country's cause from the days of disbanded Loyalists to the Militia Acts of 1787, 1792 and 1794 which required all able bodied men between the ages of 16 and 60 to be available for duty as the fear of American invasion was ever present. In 1873, to ensure militia support when necessary, the Parish of Stanley created its first volunteer detachment which was attached to the 71st. York Battalion as No. 4 Company. Some of the 17 men listed below are noted as having seen service with this Militia Battalion prior to enlisting for service overseas. 8 have no known graves.

We will remember them

1. BALLARD, Walter -- Pte. 444726, born March 27, 1889 in Stanley, unmarried, son of Harry Ballard, Stanley. Volunteered June 2, 1915 in Sussex and attached to the 4th. Battalion Central Ontario Regiment. Died October 1, 1918 during The Battle of Arras, buried at Sancourt British Cemetery, near Cambrai, France along with many others of his battalion who fell the same day.

2. BEST, John -- Pte. 818232 born May 28, 1882 in Stanley, unmarried, son of John Best Sr. and the late Martha (Biden) Best, Stanley. Volunteered on May 30, 1916 in Saint John and initially attached to the 140th. Overseas Battalion, Died August 15, 1917 as a member of the 26th. Battalion (New Brunswick Regiment.) The Canadians were still deployed in the Vimy sector and August 15th. was the first day of The Battle of Lens when the Canadians captured Hill 70. He has no known grave

and is commemorated on the Vimy Memorial, France

3. BEST, William Henry -- L/Cpl. 444725 born May 20, 1888 in Saint John, unmarried, brother of Mrs. Fraser (Maggie) Thorburn, Stanley. Volunteered on June 2, 1915 in Sussex and has a serial number which precedes Walter Ballard's by one digit. He indicated that he had 2 years service in the militia at Sussex and was attached to the 60th. Battalion, Canadian Infantry. Died on June 3, 1916 at the time the Canadians were still in the Ypres Salient and facing devastating bombardment at Mount Sorrel as the Germans attempted to recapture it. He has no known grave and is commemorated on the Menin Gate at Ypres, Belgium.

4. BREWER, Vernon Bertrand -- Pte. 818230 born July 24, 1891 in Cross Creek, unmarried, son of Celia and the late John Brewer, Cross Creek. Volunteered on May 30, 1916 in Saint John (the same day as John Best and his serial number precedes John's by two digits.) He stated that he had served a year in the 71st. Battalion noted above. Died on April 9, 1917, the first day of The Battle of Vimy Ridge as a member of the 25th. Battalion (Nova Scotia Regiment.) Has no known grave and is commemorated on the Vimy Memorial in France

5. CLARKSON, David William -- Major, born September 11, 1891 in Stanley, married to Mildred A. Clarkson, Cross Creek and son of Eric H. & Susan B. Clarkson of Fredericton. Attestation does not give a date of enlistment but does say he previously served 3 years in 71st. Regiment as an officer and 10 months in Company Battalion in Halifax. Also, officers did not have regimental numbers. Attached first to the 145th. Battalion and then the 14th. Battalion, Canadian Infantry (Quebec Regiment.) Awarded the Military Cross. Died on August 9, 1918 at Cambrai during The Battle of Amiens and buried at Crouy-sur-Somme British Cemetery, France. He is also commemorated on a War Memorial in the Williamsburg Community Cemetery, York County along with J. D. Ward, F. W. & W. I. Fullarton.

6. CLARKSON, Robert Stanley -- L/Cpl. 444727 born August 31, 1893 in Stanley, married to Augusta Clarkson of McAdam and son of Thomas and Mary Clarkson of Stanley. Volunteered on June 2, 1915 in Sussex and his regimental number follows in sequence with William Best and Walter Ballard. Attached to the 58th. Battalion, Central Ontario Regiment. Died on October 26, 1917, the first day of The Battle of Passchendaele. Has no known grave and is commemorated on the Menin Gate, Ypres, Belgium.

7. FULLARTON, Frederick White -- Pte. 817868 born December 27, 1897 in Williamsburg (but Attestation later adds a revision to January 27, 1899 -- meaning he was actually under age at sign-up.) His Attestation is signed as "Fullarton" and records confirm, but monument lists him as "Fullerton" unmarried, son of late John A. Fullarton and Joanna Fullarton (Mrs. William Sewell, Fredericton.) Brother of William I. Fullarton, listed below. Volunteered on January 22, 1916 in Saint John and stated that he served one year in the 71st. Regiment. Attached to the P.P.C.L.I. (Eastern Ontario Regiment.) Died on November 8, 1918 -- 3 days before the Armistice during the pursuit to Mons. Buried at Boussu Communal Cemetery, Belgium as the only Canadian along with 5 British and 1 Romanian fatality. Also commemorated on a War Memorial in the Williamsburg Community Cemetery along with his brother William, J. D. Ward and Major D. W. Clarkson.

8. FULLARTON, William Inglis -- Pte. 793956 born January 7, 1897 in Williamsburg, unmarried. Son of the late John A. Fullarton and Joanna Fullarton (Mrs. William Sewell, Fredericton.) Brother of Frederick W. Fullarton listed above. Like his brother, both his Attestation signature and The Commonwealth Graves Commission records list him as "Fullarton" but the monument records him as "Fullerton." Volunteered on October 3, 1916 in Chatham, and indicated service with the 71st. Regiment at Camp Sussex. Assigned to 73rd. Regiment, 132nd. Overseas Battalion. Died either August 13 or 14, 1917 as a member of the 83rd. Battalion, (Quebec Regiment) when the Canadian Contingent was preparing for the assault on Hill 70 and the Battle of Lens in the Vimy sector (which commenced on August 15th. the day John Best died.) Clarkson.

talion, Canadian Infantry. Died on November 25, 1916 during the last few days of The Battle of The Somme. He has no known grave and is commemorated on the Vimy Memorial in France.

10. LOGAN, H. J. *There are two Attestation documents with both of these initials. The first applies to a Herbert John who may not have connections to the area. Pte. 53476. Born November 14, 1891 in Middleport, Ontario, unmarried. Son of Robert & M. Logan, Brantford, Ontario. Volunteered on October 23, 1914 in Woodstock, Ontario. Member of the 1st. Farm Cemetery, Wytschaete, just outside Ypres, Belgium. *The second Attestation document relates to Henry John Logan -- 3258809 born February 14, 1897 in Maple Grove, unmarried. Son of Mary Logan. Drafted under the Military Service Act, 1917 and required to report at Sussex on July 19 1918, but there is no Commonwealth War Grave burial record for him and the late date of call-up indicates he may not have gone overseas.

11. McNEIL, James Milford – Pte. 147204 born July 25, 1882 in Stanley, unmarried. Son of the late Albert and late Mary McNeil. This is his correct name on his Attestation and Commonwealth War Graves Commission record but monument lists him as “M. McNeill.” Volunteered on July 1, 1915 in Winnipeg, Manitoba indicating that he had militia service with the 100th. Grenadiers. Attached to the 78th. Battalion (Manitoba Regiment) Canadian Infantry. Died on January 25, 1917 and buried at Cabaret-Rouge British Cemetery, Souchez, France. His date of death and location of burial indicates that it occurred as part of the Canadian Corps’ gradual move forward in preparation for the attack on Vimy Ridge on April 9, 1917.

12. McLAGGAN, Frank Millard – Sgt. 442729 born October 19, 1884 in Fredericton, unmarried. Son of Peter and Abigail McLaggan, Nashwaak. Volunteered on May 22, 1915 in Vernon, British Columbia. Attached to the 5th. Canadian Mounted Rifles (Quebec Regiment.) Died June 2, 1917, during the time the Canadian Corps was mounting massive raids against the enemy in the Lens area as a prelude to the Third Battle of Ypres (Passchendaele.) He has no known grave. Commemorated on the Vimy Memorial, France.

14. Pringle, Ernest Merle -- Pte. 794165, born June 20, 1895, Stanley, unmarried. Son of Arthur and Eudora Pringle, Stanley. Volunteered on May 10, 1916 in Newcastle and assigned to 73rd. Regiment, 182nd. Battalion. Died April 21, 1917, not quite two weeks after the capture of Vimy Ridge by the Canadian Corps as a member of “A” Company, 42nd. Battalion (Black Watch) Canadian Infantry. Buried at Ecoivres Military Cemetery, Mont St. Eloi, France.

15. PARLEE, George William Hugh – Lt. 536307 born July 15, 1886, Stanley, married. Son of Rev. Henry T. & Agnes L. Parlee, Stewiacke, Nova Scotia and husband of Adelia Parlee, St. Paul, Minnesota, USA. Volunteered September 8, 1916 in Saint John, indicating that he had served in Co. “H” Canadian Artillery, Halifax, Nova Scotia. He was initially assigned to the Overseas Field Ambulance Depot and given a service number of 536307 under which his Attestation record is filed, but at time of his death on August 20, 1918 he was recorded as a Lieutenant in The Royal Air Force 5th. Squadron and officers did not have service numbers. Buried at Villers-Bretonneux Military Cemetery, Amiens, France where the burial details describe him as Canadian Army Medical Corps attached to the RAF 5th. Squadron. His death came as Allied High Command decided to remove the Canadian Corps from this battle ground and establish it in the Arras area to commence the task of breaching the Drocourt-Queant Line (an extension of the Hindenburg Line) in order to advance to the Canal du Nord. The Canadians referred to their involvement in this campaign as The Battle of The Scarpe and collectively the assorted attacks became known as the Battle of Arras and “The Last Hundred Days.”

16. WARD, James Dow – Pte. 818124 born June 17, 1892, Williamsburg, unmarried. Son of Allen

The Stanley War Memorial

James died on October 24, 1918, during the offensives of 'The Last hundred days' and was awarded the Military Medal and Bar. He is buried at Queant Rd Cemetery, Pas de Calais, France and is also listed on the Williamsburg War Memorial with F. W. & W. I. Fullarton and Major D. W. Clarkson.

work of colleagues throughout Canada, through her many personal interests, volunteer commitments and her work. As an author, curator, historian and speaker, her deep appreciation for, and love of, history was acknowledged when she was a recipient of the Award of Merit from the Association Museums NB. She became a particular authority on Charlotte, York and Sunbury Counties in NB, and Pictou County in NS, and generously shared her research and knowledge with all who shared this interest. Additionally, the largest resource of pre-1950 Canadian cookbooks in NB is the Ruth Spicer Cookbook Collection at King's Landing Historical Settlement.

A broad range personal interests and volunteer commitments were reflected in her participation in numerous groups -- from church and youth groups, to the arts, to a gourmet cooking club to ensuring the building of a public swimming pool in Queen's Square in Fredericton, and many, many more. She contributed much to the communities in which she lived and worked, and will be missed by all who knew her.

A memorial service will be held in early summer at the Wesley United Church in St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, NB.

Mrs. Annie Firlotte Marks 100th Year

Restigouche County's Grand Old Lady, Has Five Generations

contributed by David Fraser

Published in the Fredericton Daily Gleaner July 14 1951

Jacquet River, July 14 (Special) - Sunday Mrs. Annie Firlotte of this community celebrates her birthday - her 110th.

Restigouche County's grand old lady is spry and active as anyone half her age. And she has her own teeth, too.

Mrs. Firlotte pays daily visits to the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. John Lubert, attends Mass regularly, and takes occasional trips by car.

Next week she plans a jaunt to Campbellton to visit her son, Alex. Firlotte. She makes her home with her 75-year-old daughter, Mrs. Jane Firlotte.

Born at Caplin River, Quebec, she came as a girl to Petit Rocher where she lived for some time. Later the family moved to Jacquet River where she has made her home ever since. Her lifetime goes back over a span of years to the days before there were matches. "And now today we have the atomic bomb," she observes.

Big Family

Living in the homestead with her are five generations of her family - her daughter, Mrs. Jane Firlotte, her granddaughter, Mrs. John Loubert, age 50; her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Ruby Murphy, and two great-great-grandchildren, Clare and Gwen, constituting the fifth generation. Her husband, James P. Firlotte, died 26 years ago at age 80.

In all, Mrs. Firlotte has descendants comprising 11 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren, and seven great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Firlotte's chief interest in life now is her knitting. She listens to the news reports and radio programs, but is still anxious to move about and meet her neighbours, most of whom she has known since infancy.

In winter when she leaves home to go to the store she must get down over high banks of snow. At her age this could be dangerous. But Ms. Firlotte overcomes that without trouble. She perches on top of the bank and slides down to the road, gets up and starts off again without a hitch!

(Editor's note - Mrs. Firlotte passed away July 14, 1955 - the day before her 114th birthday. But how old was she really? From census records her birth year was ca. 1857 (1881 census), 1856 (1891 census), Oct 15, 1845 (1901 census), and May 1853 (1911 census)...).

Some Notes on Reformed Presbyterian Baptisms in Saint John NB

Submitted by Graeme F. Somerville

Readers of recent issues of Generations have seen several articles submitted by Dr. Eldon Hay on the Reformed Presbyterians, a denomination that disappeared from the Saint John scene in the very early 20th Century.

In the 19th Century there were seven Presbyterian congregations in Saint John but the task of locating the baptismal records of the Covenanters, the seventh of the Presbyterian denomination, whose church in Saint John was known as the Reformed Presbyterian Church, was proving to be a daunting task. Nothing was available on microfilm, and the Archives of the Maritime Conference of the United Church in Sackville NB, the Archives of the New Brunswick Museum in Saint John, the Provincial Archives of New Brunswick in Fredericton as well as the Saint John Free Public Library had nothing.

It was natural to turn to Dr. Eldon of Sackville NB who has delved into the Covenanters and written extensively on that denomination. A phone call to him found that he had already searched for not only baptismal records but much more. He had been in touch with the RP Library in Belfast as well as the RP Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, both of which organizations had dealings with the Reformed Presbyterian congregation in Saint John in the eighteen hundreds and up until the very early 20th century. They had nothing.

I then called my contact in the New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston Mass as well as the Mormon Library in Salt Lake City in Utah, both of which have vast collections of the sort that was needed for then forthcoming book Presbyterian Baptisms in Saint John NB 1817 - 1890. Again a blank wall! The book was printed in 2014 without any baptisms for the RPs, an important part of the Presbyterian denomination.

A desperate two-part strategy was devised.

The first part of the strategy was to refer to the published Saint John marriage records to 1887 and thereafter on micro-film at the Saint John Free Public Library all of which showed the names of the officiating clergy¹.

The second part of the strategy was to refer to the 1871 Census and the 1881 Census records for Saint John both of which asked a person's religious connection. If these two sets of records could be assembled then, just possibly, some semblance of baptismal activity could be found.

Subsequently another possibility arose: that of using the search word "Reformed" in Daniel F. Johnson's Vital Statistics from New Brunswick Newspapers.

Accordingly, the three sources were explored. Alas, there was no reliable conclusion about baptisms that could be drawn.

However, the following marriage records, as well as the two sets of Census data plus four entries from Johnson's Vital Stats do give us a limited picture of the Reformed Presbyterian Church during the ministries of Rev. Alexander MacLeod Stavely (Nov 15, 1841 - Jul 1879), Rev. Armour James McFarland (Aug 1882 - Dec 1894), Rev. William Thomas Knox Thompson (May 1879 - Sep 1897) and Rev. D. Bruce Elsey (Sep 1909 - Apr 1914).

Two notes of caution are given with respect to the data that follows. The marriage records are no indication that either of the nuptial couple were Reformed Presbyterians (RPs). As for the census data many RPs could simply have been listed by the enumerator as Presbyterian, perhaps unaware there were several brands of Presbyterianism co-existing in Saint John at that time. At the same time the household resident, when dealing with the enumerators question on religion, may just as easily have answered with the single word 'Presbyterian' even though they themselves were RPs.

The three sets of data should be read in conjunction with the articles submitted by Dr. Eldon Hay on Rev. Alexander McLeod Stavely and Rev. Armour J. MacFarland as published separately in Generations.

In any case, the effort to explore marriage and census records as a means to fill the gap in baptismal records did not produce positive results. However, future researchers may benefit from the consolidation of these resources and for that reason they are being published in Generations, the Journal of the New Brunswick Genealogical Society.

Some Notes on Reformed Presbyterian Baptisms in Saint John NB

The book, Presbyterian Baptisms in Saint John NB 1817 - 1890 was published in May 2014 but without any record of the elusive Reformed Presbyterian Church of Saint John. Perhaps, as Dr. Hay surmised in one of his e-mails regarding the missing records '...Might they be in a box somewhere...'

Forerunner

contributed by Harry Walker

I called Dan Johnson's brother 2 years ago, to have permission to reprint this article, from the "Case Family History of New Brunswick" by Dr. Erastus Case with additions by Daniel Johnson. Mark Johnson and Celia (Johnson) Charlton (Dan's brother and sister) gave permission to reprint this article.

Dream or Forerunner

Eleda Case, great grandmother of Dan Johnson and Harry Walker, was born in December, 1851. She married Samuel Johnson in February, 1874, in Springfield, Kings County, NB. Eleda had a dream shortly after they were married. In her dream, she found herself beside a black hearse drawn by six white horses which, according to the driver, was travelling to a nearby picnic. She placed 2 infants on the coach so that they could attend the festivities. She awoke after the hearse departed. Having recently been married, Eleda in fact had no children. In later years, she contended that the 2 children who appeared in the dream were her son, Harry, who only lived 11 months and her daughter, Eula, who only lived 4 months.

I had heard this story many years before from my father, before I had met Dan and read it in this book.
