SOCIETY NEWS:

*PRESIDENT'S CORNER by Midge Waters

Since our last newsletter, the Marquette County Genealogical Society has held two activities, one strictly business...the October Genealogy Workshop. The workshop offered six different classes during the course of the day, and was attended by people from other counties as well as from the local area. They all expressed satisfaction with the content and the presentation of the classes, and some joined the MCGS. The workshop, taught by volunteers from the society, earned a tidy sum for the treasury of MCGS, which will be put to good use by the Library committee, which studies and chooses new books, CDs, etc. for our shelves in the library.

The classes offered were:

Resources of MCGS and Peter White Library

Getting started in genealogy

Computer resources at PWPL

French-Canadian Research

German research

Using CDs and microfilm from several sources to find genealogical information

Workshop

The society thanks those who took part in the organization, the presentations, and also the personnel of Peter White Public Library who assisted with the arrangements.

*The next affair was a social one, held just before Christmas at Wahlstrom's Restaurant. As usual, we had a good turnout and everyone enjoyed the food, the companionship, and the special gift/prizes. A large number of gifts were also gathered at this time for the Mining Journal Christmas effort to provide gifts for children of the area.

*Officers Elected for 2004:

At the November meeting the following officers were elected.

President-Midge Waters
Vice President-Mary Turvey
Treasurer-Kay Elzinga
Recording Sec'y-Mary Skewis

Corresponding Sec'y-Sherrye Woodworth
Member-at-Large-Judy Webb
Appointed Member-Florence Olivier

Thank you to the officers for serving, especially Midge Waters for stepping up as President!

*VITAL RECORDS PROJECT

With this issue we have started the listing of Births in Marquette County beginning in 1867. These are the births recorded at the County Clerk's office and available at the Family History Library on microfilm #1007531. A name index will be published in the newsletter after every year. Thank you to Laurie Johnson for transcribing and typing the names. Every effort was made to be as accurate as possible. Additional birth will be listed in future issues as a regular feature.

*CEMETERY TOMBSTONE TRANSCRIBING

As soon as the snow melts (maybe in May) and before bug season, work groups will be organized to transcribe tombstones at the Humboldt Cemetery and the Negaunee Cemetery. Contact Rosemary Michelin if interested in helping, 475-9308.

*FUNDRAISING EVENT

Younkers will host its annual Community Day Benefit Event on Saturday, February 28, 2004 to help area nonprofit organizations. Last spring our Society earned over $400.00 by participating in this event. For every $5.00 advance ticket sold, we get to keep the $5.00, and you get $5.00 off a purchase, plus six 20% off coupons for use on that day, as well as Bonus items. If you are lucky, you might even win a trip to Cancun! If you would like to buy a ticket, and/or sell some to your friends, you can contact any Marquette County Genealogical Society Board member. For more information call 486-8300.

Adam REDER settled in the Mangum-Green Garden area. About 1885/6 he married Caroline HENNING-DOROW, widow of Albert DOROW. Caroline and Albert had four children: Frederick, Henry, Reinhold, and Martha DOROW. Caroline and Adam had four children: William, Augusta, Edith, and Anna READER. William READER owned a farm (S1/2 NE1/4 of Sec 24 T47N R24W). Where is this property? Are there any maps, tax records, probate papers, etc? The DOROWS and REDERS attended St. Paul Ev. Lutheran Church in Green Garden. Are there any records such as baptism, confirmation, wedding, and death? From family hearsay Adam REDER did some legal work for the community of Harvey. Would there be any records of this? Are there any newspaper articles regarding Albert DOROW, Caroline REDER (d. 1 May 1905) and Henry DOROW deaths? Please contact me for the cost of this research. I am searching KAISER, Josephine b. 2 Feb 1861 in Marquette, MI, d/o John KAISER b. 3 Jul 1823 in Berlin, Prussia and his wife Marguerite b. 1823. Josephine married Fredrick STOERMER 30 Jun 1885 in Missouri. Prior to that she is believed to have had an illegitimate child in 1877. She also was married before STOERMER to a Nicholas SIMON in Michigan. I have no vital records on any of the above. Any additional information would be appreciated. Ed Stoermer 4360 Cognina Ct., Fremont, CA 94536. estoermer@aol.com

I've "rescued" an old photograph of Emma HOUGAN taken at the WERNER Studio in Marquette, Michigan. The photograph appears to have been taken in the 1880's with Emma looking to be in her teens or early 20's at the time. I'm hoping to locate someone from her family so that this wonderful old photograph can be returned to the care of family.

If you are a member of this family or know someone who might be, please contact me.

Thanks, From: Shelley Cardiel <familia@sprintmail.com>

Any facts or anecdotes relative to the history of Marquette County, Michigan, may be added here or on the reverse side of the sheet.

When at the age of 14 I ran away from my New York home to join some boy comrades who had with their families gone to Marquette. Marquette was nothing but a wild settlement when I reached and was very tough. But the people were kind hearted & gave me much sympathy. They found me my friends and they found me employment working for the powder mill. This was very interesting work making charcoal. Altho there were no large railroads coming into here the town increased in population very rapidly. They came in sail boats across the lake.

I staid with the Dupont people for 25 yrs. and when I resigned was head powder maker. I then bought a saloon & went into buisiness. The people in those days were generally quick to drink but slow to pay. However I made good at it.

The country here has changed very much especialy the forest which has no large trees left & very little game.

The first people were mostly canadans or New Yorkers.

"The Original Irish Sweepstakes"

The Ishpeming Iron Ore,
March 13, 1948

DIRECT FROM DIVISION STREET

This week's column has been turned over to Arvid C. Braastad, lifelong resident of Ishpeming and well versed in its history. He has chosen for his subject, "The Original Irish Sweepstakes," and we are positive that our readers will derive a good laugh from a local historical fact. Here it is:

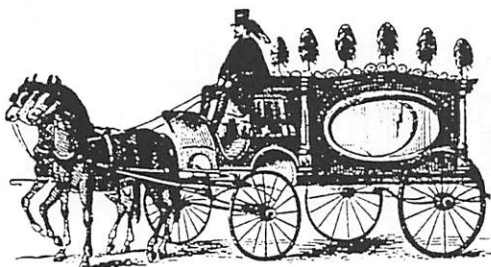

During the early days in Ishpeming, the men had to make their own fun, which consisted of vicious fights between the different nationalities, sectional feuds, saloon brawls, ski jumping contests, dog races and picnics. Finally, funerals came into this category and the custom prevailed up to the advent of the automobile.

The funerals at this period were largely attended. Not because everybody knew each other or didn't. For most of them it was simply the urge for excitement, a relief from their humdrum lives.

It can be said, tho, that if a widow was left in financial difficulties, there wasn't a person, friend or foe, but that would pitch in with financial aid or sympathy.

As the cortege rounded a corner, the mourners and their close friends would lean out and count the rigs. If the count was extra high there would be great exultation. It seems that the popularity or worth of the deceased was measured by the length of his funeral procession.

Whenever the rumor circulated that some neighbor was seriously ill, or dying, the men would rush to the livery stables to engage their favorite horse for the prospective funeral.

The prime requisite was speed. Some of the business men had standing orders for a horse for every funeral, regardless of the race or creed of the deceased. They figured it was good business.

Many of the horses, especially Nellie, Prince, Duke and John W, just to mention a few, were in great demand on account of their speed but usually could not be hired unless one tipped the barn-boss.

One barn-boss in particular would promise the fastest horse to everyone provided he was given a fifty cent tip. Of course he would have to do a lot of explaining to the losers after the funeral.

Sometimes one of the boys would ring in an exceptionally fast horse from Negaunee which would upset the calculations of the local contestants.

The procedure at the grave did not have the refinements of the present-day. The casket was lowered into the grave by four pall bearers by means of two wide leather straps, and the delivery down was very shaky. Sometimes one of the pall bearers would accidentally let go his end of the strap a little too soon and the casket would drop with a thud, which was an excruciating shock to the mourners.

The sermons were unusually long; aggravatingly so.

However, the second the services were concluded everybody seemed to become electrified and rushed to their rigs. And now the mad race to town was on, with whips lashing, madly galloping horses and clouds of dust.

The women who were sitting alongside their husbands were pop-eyed, grimly hanging on to the side of the seats, screaming, and imploring their husbands to slow down. But there was no denying the old boys; for them it was a Roman holiday.

Now, the idea of these races was that the last man to enter a certain popular saloon on Division street had to buy the drinks for all the contestants.

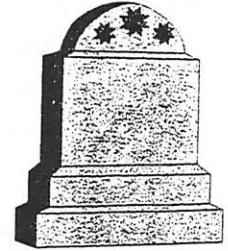

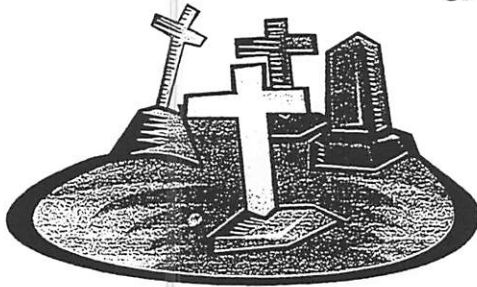

Some of the contestants who were hopelessly out-classed in the race would sneak into a side street and head for the barn. The one who came in first would be highly honored. The last one in, of course, would have to pay on the barrel-head, and was unmercifully razed.

After all the side bets had been squared up, the bar-keeper and some of the more opulent sports would set up a few rounds and then the arguments would commence regarding the merits of the different horses. As usual, the arguments were finally settled in the good old-fashioned way — by a free-for-all fist fight. And the usual result—a lot of blackened eyes and bloody noses. But, at the next funeral everything was forgiven and forgotten.

About the year eighteen hundred and ninety, a local Chinaman died. Ordinarily he would have been hauled out to a pauper's grave. However, there hadn't been a funeral for some time so a few of the more enthusiastic sports sensed an opportunity for another race and they accordingly arranged a fairly decent funeral for the Chinaman. The race after this funeral proved to be the fastest and prettiest race of the year and was the talk of the town for weeks.

To people of the present-day the races mentioned might seem to border on the sacrilegious, but they were definitely not intended as such. The old-timers had such a very limited outlet for their pent-up energies and love of competition that they grasped at any opportunity to satisfy their craving.

SOCIETY NEWS:

*PRESIDENT'S CORNER by Midge Waters

The meeting on May 19th will be the last regular meeting of MCGS for the first part of 2004, but our activities will go on as usual.

Our research at the cemeteries, with Rosemary Michelin as committee head, will continue where we left off last fall. There will be an update at the Humboldt Cemetery, and then a series of "readings" at the Negaunee Cemetery. Those who would like to assist with this interesting and useful project can get in touch with Rosemary, and find out when and where the groups will meet for recording the information on the gravestones. This material is then printed out and made available for researchers.

The MCGS has been asked to take part in the Scandinavian Midsummer Fest, to be held at Presque Isle Park in Marquette, June 26th. Our presence there, with a table full of maps and genealogical research aids, will allow those who attend the festival to inquire about genealogical research in the Scandinavian countries, especially. Sherry Woodworth is the contact person for that occasion.

In July, we hold our annual MCGS picnic, which will be managed by Judy Webb, our social chairman. Please call her about the exact time and date, and about plans for the refreshments, which includes potluck from those attending. This will probably be held at the new Presque Isle pavilion. If you know any prospective members, this would be a good time to invite them to get acquainted with the membership in an informal setting.

MCGS will hold its first meeting of the fall season on September 15th in the Shiras Room of the Peter White Public Library in Marquette at 6:45pm. Please plan to attend, and invite any prospective member. Watch the Mining Journal for an announcement of the meeting and program.

*Thank you to Sherry Woodworth for preparing the Surname and Membership List, included with this newsletter!!

*BIG BAY TO HOLD CENTENNIAL

The small village of Big Bay will be celebrating its Centennial July 4 thru 10, 2004 and each day is packed with interesting, must see events. MCGS has been asked by the committee to present a 2 hour program on Tuesday July 6 from 10 to 12 Noon. The instruction will cover getting started, records and helpful instruction on the wheres, whats and hows of finding ancestors.

Pre-registration has been set at 20 persons and a few more volunteers would be appreciated to permit more individual contact for class. Any member interested in helping may contact Don Small at 906-226-6770.

*CEMETERY TRANSCRIPTING PROJECTS

Four MCGS members, Rosemary Michelin, Laurie Bashaw, Sharon Johnson, and Mary Skewis have been out early this spring reading the tombstones at the Humboldt Cemetery. That book will be published soon, with many Finnish family names included in it. Work will continue at the Negaunee Cemetery this summer. Sign up at the May meeting or contact Rosemary Michelin at 475-9308.

Mary, Laurie and Sharon transcribing tombstones at the Humboldt Cemetery on a cool but sunny day in May

*FUNDRAISING EVENT

Members of the Marquette County Genealogical Society once again took part in the Younkers Community Event, which was held on Feb. 28, 2004. A big "thank-you" to those who purchased and/or sold tickets, as well as the three members who gave up part of their Saturday to volunteer at the store. The Society was able to earn $383.95. Thanks to Younkers Clothing Store, even a small group can accomplish a lot in a relatively short time.

*PROGRAM FOR ROTARY

On Thursday April 8, 2004 at 7 a.m., past president Don Small, presented a program to the Marquette Rotary Club on "Why should I do genealogy and how do I get started?" The group was composed of about 60% men and 40% women. About eight members had started on family trees but with no completions. Many good questions were asked during the presentation and at the end of the program. Don was treated to breakfast, so his presentation must have been good!

*DAR Certification

MCGS member Sherrye Woodworth reports that she was recently accepted into the Daughters of the American Revolution. This was her second try, and she has been researching this DAR line for about 2 years. She is now part of the Chief Shawano Chapter of the DAR which is based in Gaylord, Michigan (the closest chapter to the Upper Peninsula). This is her line:

Garrit SLINGERLAND (Revolutionary patriot), Storm SLINGERLAND, Elizabeth SLINGERLAND ARNOLD, Hannah ARNOLD NORTHRIP, Mary NORTHRIP STREETER, Orilla STREETER LUTHER, Faye LUTHER, Donald LUTHER, Sherrye LUTHER WOODWORTH.

If anyone is interested in applying to the DAR, Sherrye is willing help you get started with the application. Contact her at SherryeW@aol.com

Any facts or anecdotes relative to the history of Marquette County, Michigan, may be added here or on the reverse side of the sheet.

There was a railroad from Marquette to Washington, (now Humboldt), the first steam locomotive called "Sebastopol" was a square boiler used for hauling ore, 7 tons to the car. There was the Jackson mine in Negaunee in 1871 the only graded street was Iron St. The mines in Ishpeming at that time were the Burk, Island, and New York Mines.

Michigamme was founded in 1872 as a result of the Michigamme Mine which was started up in that year. John Houghton an agent for Wm H. Barnum of Connecticut, opened up the mine, John R. Curley was the first captain, John P. Christopher was second captain '76. The ore was shipped to the docks at Sault.

James Pascoe was the first supervisor of Michigamme Township. Champion was incorporated in the Michigamme Township until 1877. A man named Hall was the first President of the village of Michigamme which was incorporated back to a township in 1878 with special privileges to have a fire company, to build sidewalks and have a marshal, it has been a Township ever since.

In 1874 the whole town was destroyed by fire but was immediately built up, a saw mill was started which ran until about 1907. In winter the trains did not run and mail was carried in by dog teams. Two hotels were built after the fire in 1874. The Michigamme House run by Mrs. Schwendeman still a resident of Michigamme and the Astor House later called the North-Western Hotel owned and operated by Mr. Heigel. A large school was built the first superintendent being James Haley, Miss Mary Canning was principal and the other teachers were: Miss Daley, D. Neill, Miss Haley, and Miss Nellie Nolan.

Lyrell Houli was station agent in '72. Dr. Joseph Van Deventer was the doctor at the mine, there was no hospital, those needing hospital care being sent to Marquette. There was one family of Indians, people named Owens.

The Spur Mine, one mile west of Michigamme, was opened up in 1882 by Maj. T. B. Brooke and Prof. Pompelli a new private corporation. A man named Morrison was the first captain.

In 1882 the Beaufort Iron Mining Co and the Titan Iron Mining Co started shipping ore from the Beaufort Mine four miles west of Michigamme.

THE RECORDING OF A CEMETERY
BY THELMA GREENE REAGAN

Today we walked where others walked
On a lonely, windswept hill;
Today we talked where other cried
For Loved Ones whose lives are stilled.

Today our hearts were touched
By graves of tiny babies;
Snatched from the arms of loving kin,
In the heartbreak of the ages.

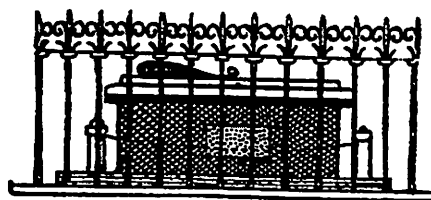

Today we saw where the grandparents lay
In the last sleep of their time;
Lying under the trees and clouds -
Their beds kissed by the sun and wind.

Today we wondered about an unmarked spot;
Who lies beneath this hollowed ground?
Was it a babe, child, young or old?
No indication could be found.

Today we saw where Mom and Dad lay.
We had been here once before
On a day we'd all like to forget,
But will remember forever more.

Today we recorded for kith and kin
The graves of ancestors past;
To be preserved for generations hence,
A record we hope will last.

Cherish it, my friend; preserve it, my friend,
For stones sometimes crumble to dust
And generations of folks yet to come
Will be grateful for your trust.

Hints on removing creases in a map, by "Ask Heloise"

This is a hint from a major map manufacturer: Try using an iron! This will help to remove most creases or folds. Note: Older creases might come out, but the color in these areas tends to fade. Set your iron on LOW heat. Lay the map on a protected, flat surface and place a sheet of brown paper or a cloth over it. Iron on both sides.

Caution: DO NOT let the iron directly touch the map! This should do the trick, but if you have any doubt about doing this yourself, take the map to a professional-this is especially true if the map is old.

Ancestor worked for a railroad?

The U.S. Railroad Retirement Board can provide information on deceased retiree's for genealogical purposes, but you should include with a request, a copy of the retiree's death certificate and state your relationship to the person. Address is, U.S. Railroad Retirement Board, Office of Public Affairs, 844 N. Rush St. Chicago, IL 60611. Email address is, www.rrb.gov/geneal.html. If your ancestor had a Social Security number whose first three numbers fall between 700 and 728, you know that he received railroad retirement benefits.

Search Tips

AncestryPlus is the enhanced version of Ancestry.com's celebrated genealogical database that provides information on 1.7 billion names, more than 3,000 databases, primary source documents and a variety of genealogical research tools. AncestryPlus also includes Gale's Passenger and Immigration Lists Index, featuring published lists of 2.8 million passengers who arrived in America from the 17th to 19th centuries, and Biography and Genealogy Master Index — a database of more than 13 million indexed biographical sketches.

SEARCH TOOLS

AncestryPlus features a variety of easy-to-use search options. There are four main ways to access the data. The Global Search on the home page will search all of the AncestryPlus databases. Enter a first and last name in the search box and click Search.

SEARCH BY LOCALITY

The home page also includes a feature to search by geographic location. Selecting a state will display all of the databases that contain information for that state. You can also select a country to learn more about that country.

Send "Friendly" Email

Email is a great boon to family historians. It allows us to keep in touch with friends and family members, to contact libraries and archives, to receive electronic newsletters (like Everton's own daily Family History Newsline), and to be part of online discussion groups. And, we can do so without the added expense of postage stamps.

As useful as email is, it also bears its own set of etiquette rules. To keep on the right side of those who receive your email, follow a few simple guidelines:

Keep it simple. Up front that means keeping your initial email message short and concise. If you've already established an online relationship with someone, feel free to be as long-winded as they will allow. But, for first contact, stay on topic and state your business forthrightly. Give enough details for a reasonable response if you're asking a question, but don't go overboard with extraneous items.

Stick with plain text. Some email software is automatically configured to send your messages in fancy type or as a Web page. This may be fine if you're corresponding with someone who knows what to expect, but it can be a major problem for someone whose software or hardware can't handle "fancy" messages, and it can make it almost impossible for a computer program (especially list managers like Majordomo and Listserv) to handle your requests. Turn this feature off unless you have a special need for it.

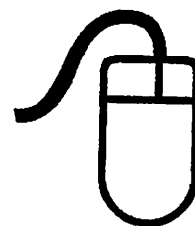

Avoid sending attachments, for several reasons; the first is plain courtesy. It can take precious minutes to download a large attached file, and some mail systems don't allow them. Second, since attachments can contain viruses, many people delete email with attachments immediately. It's OK to send an attachment to someone, but make sure they know it's coming beforehand, and that they have your permission to send it.

Send URLs instead of attaching a Web page or a photo. Found something on the Web that you just have to tell everyone about? Save everyone time and reduce the load on the Net by sending just the URL (the Internet address) for the website, news article, or picture you saw. Your email will get through faster, and the recipients can access the information at their leisure.

Use the Blind CC: function. When you send the same message to a group of people, don't list all of their addresses where everyone can see them. This takes up extra bandwidth, and could expose addresses to people who shouldn't see them. Find your email software's Blind CC: function, and use it.

Check the destination address before you send the message. You may be surprised at the number of people who send out email without making sure it's addressed to the right person. When you send it to the wrong address you irritate the person who received it but shouldn't have, and you deny the intended recipient the value of your message.

Email is a great way to build friendships that last. Make sure it works that way for you by being "friendly" in the way you use it.

SOCIETY NEWS:

PRESIDENT'S CORNER by Midge Waters

The presence of Marquette County Genealogical Society at the Scandinavian Midsummer Fest in June provided help and information to those attending this annual affair in Marquette. Several of our members, organized by Sherrye Woodworth, took turns at the display, and even though our MCGS president was driving through Sweden at the time, to join friends at their observation of Midsommardag in Stockholm, her thoughts were with our group, as well. There will be no such local midsummer fest in 2005, since all efforts will be concentrated instead on the FinnGrandFest 2005, which will take place in August in Marquette.

On July 21st, our annual MCGS picnic was held at the new pavilion at Presque Isle Park in Marquette. There was a good turnout and the food shared by all comers provided a very well rounded meal, almost as if planned. Aside from a few frisky breezes, the weather treated us very well. Thanks to our social chairman, Judy Webb, for the arrangements at the park.

The Delta County Genealogical Society announced that in September, they would have a Swedish speaker, who would tell them about customs and celebrations. Since it would be helpful to all U.P. Genealogical Societies to get to know each other and more about how they serve their communities, an effort was made to fill a car with visitors from MCGS to that meeting. Only one person could make the trip that day, but we look forward to other opportunities to visit the meeting places, see their facilities and holdings, and meet other genealogists. I hope that our members will let us all know of any other such occasions they might hear about.

CEMETERY TOMBSTONE TRANSCRIBING

MCGS members participated in work bees at the Negaunee Cemetery in September and October and transcribed 13 block. Thanks to chairpersons Laurie Bashaw and Rosemary Michelin, and workers Laurie Bashaw, Rosemary Michelin, Midge Waters, Mary Skewis, Betty Ann and Jim Schneider, Florence Olivier, Judy Webb, Norma Miller, Mary Jo Dobrzanski, Caroline Jordan and Laurie Johnson. For information on burials at the Negaunee Cemetery, contact Tim King 475-6621 or Roland Koski 475-7622.

PURE GENEALOGY or FAMILY HISTORY?-Midge Waters

Midge, looking at historic wrought-iron grave markers which portray family history, in church cemetery at Ekshäräd, Sweden

The bare bones of pure genealogy provide a framework for an absorbing family history. I am now seeking not just names, with the vital statistics of birth, marriage, children, and death, and the relationships that they show, but how my ancestors lived their lives amid political struggles for land and power between nations and kings, economic hardships, and coping with the uncertain matter of existence in an age of very little medicine and many health problems.

My recent travels in Sweden and Finland allowed me to learn much more of the world of my forebears, and changed my views from a two-dimensional black and white to 3-D and living technicolor. It seems that my contacts in Scandinavia, my researchers and guides (now my friends) and all the relatives, also share an interest in how we live as well. While in Sweden and Finland, I was interviewed by two newspapers; they printed the story of Americans seeking their past and about the ancestors we sought, with photos of the people and places, and our experiences during the search.

Among my adventures was the tour with an e-mail friend, with whom we stayed, to learn about the 1809 conflicts among Swedes, Russians, and Finns. We drove through the Gunsmoke Trail near Sävar, on Sweden's east coast and visited the memorial in honor of those who died in battle erected near Umeå. We traveled by ferry across the Bay of Bothnia to Vasa, where I'd been guided previously on another trip to the site of the final battle in that conflict in Finland, in 1809, at Oravais. This time, in a beautifully preserved home of a relative in Björköby, I had coffee in the room where military decisions had been made during those battles. My family lived through these wars on their own land.

History plays a large role in our family study....and I learned from hosts about the historical significance of Solna, home of our host family, which was important before Stockholm was the capital. Göteborg was the main port from which emigrants left, and my 7th half-cousin once-removed made sure that I learned something of that city's history and attractions. In all the cities I visited, I was struck by the careful preservation of old historic buildings, and the importance of remembering the old ways of life. Many of the smallest towns have their own "museum", usually an old home furnished with items of its day. I can recommend those of Göteborg, Uddevalla, Sigtuna, Stockholm (especially Skansen), Gammalgården in Bengtsfors, and a couple on privately owned farms in Replot, Finland and Tallberg, Sweden.

All that amid the highttechnology of the present, reflects their interests now.....these people are very cosmopolitan, well-traveled, speak several languages, and are dressed in modern styles that may reach the USA in a year or two. The communities are neat and clean, with gardens and fountains, and even the farm and forest dwellers keep their properties tidier than we see in this country. But even with their advanced technology and great educational system, they honor the old ways and customs, too. The works of their authors, composers, and artists reflect this, and one can always find the crafts and customs of their past, use of the "folk dräkt (traditional costumes), the wonderful foods, and holiday celebrations that were typical of the "old country".

Going back even further, geologically, we visited a site which had intrigued me from the time I spotted it from the air several years ago.. Söderfjärden, where over 500 million years ago a meteor had crashed south of Sundom, Finland, and changed the face of the earth there for many miles around. At first there was a lake in the center of the crater, but as the centuries passed, the lake shrank, and finally drained so that it could be farmed instead of fished, as it had been.

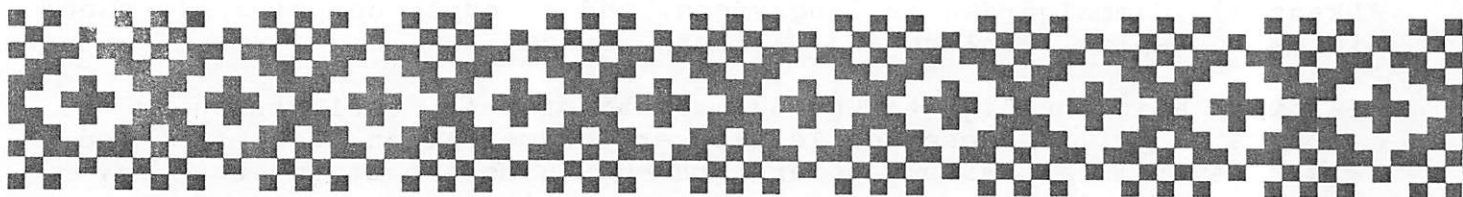

Visiting Höga Kusten (high coast) on Sweden's east coast was a highlight of my last trip...this area is now a World Heritage Site, and provides scenery and insight into the huge uplift of land that happened in the millions of years that followed the retreat of the ice age glaciers which covered that land to a depth of miles at one time. The land here (and across the bay in Finland) is still rising slowly, adding acreage to each country gradually. A small creek that my ancestors could once navigate illustrates this, and so does my exhilarating ascent in a ski-lift to the top of Skulegerget, a mountain which at one time showed only its top above the waters of the Bay of Bothnia.

The Bay of Bothnia between Sweden and Finland was a sea-going travel corridor, and the "Postrudden", formerly a mail delivery route by sailboat, still is re-enacted annually over the Kvarken between the two countries. My 5th cousin, who takes part in this, has told me about this re-enactment which takes a lot more time, with much more danger, than the ferry ride we took, which lasted only a few comfortable hours.

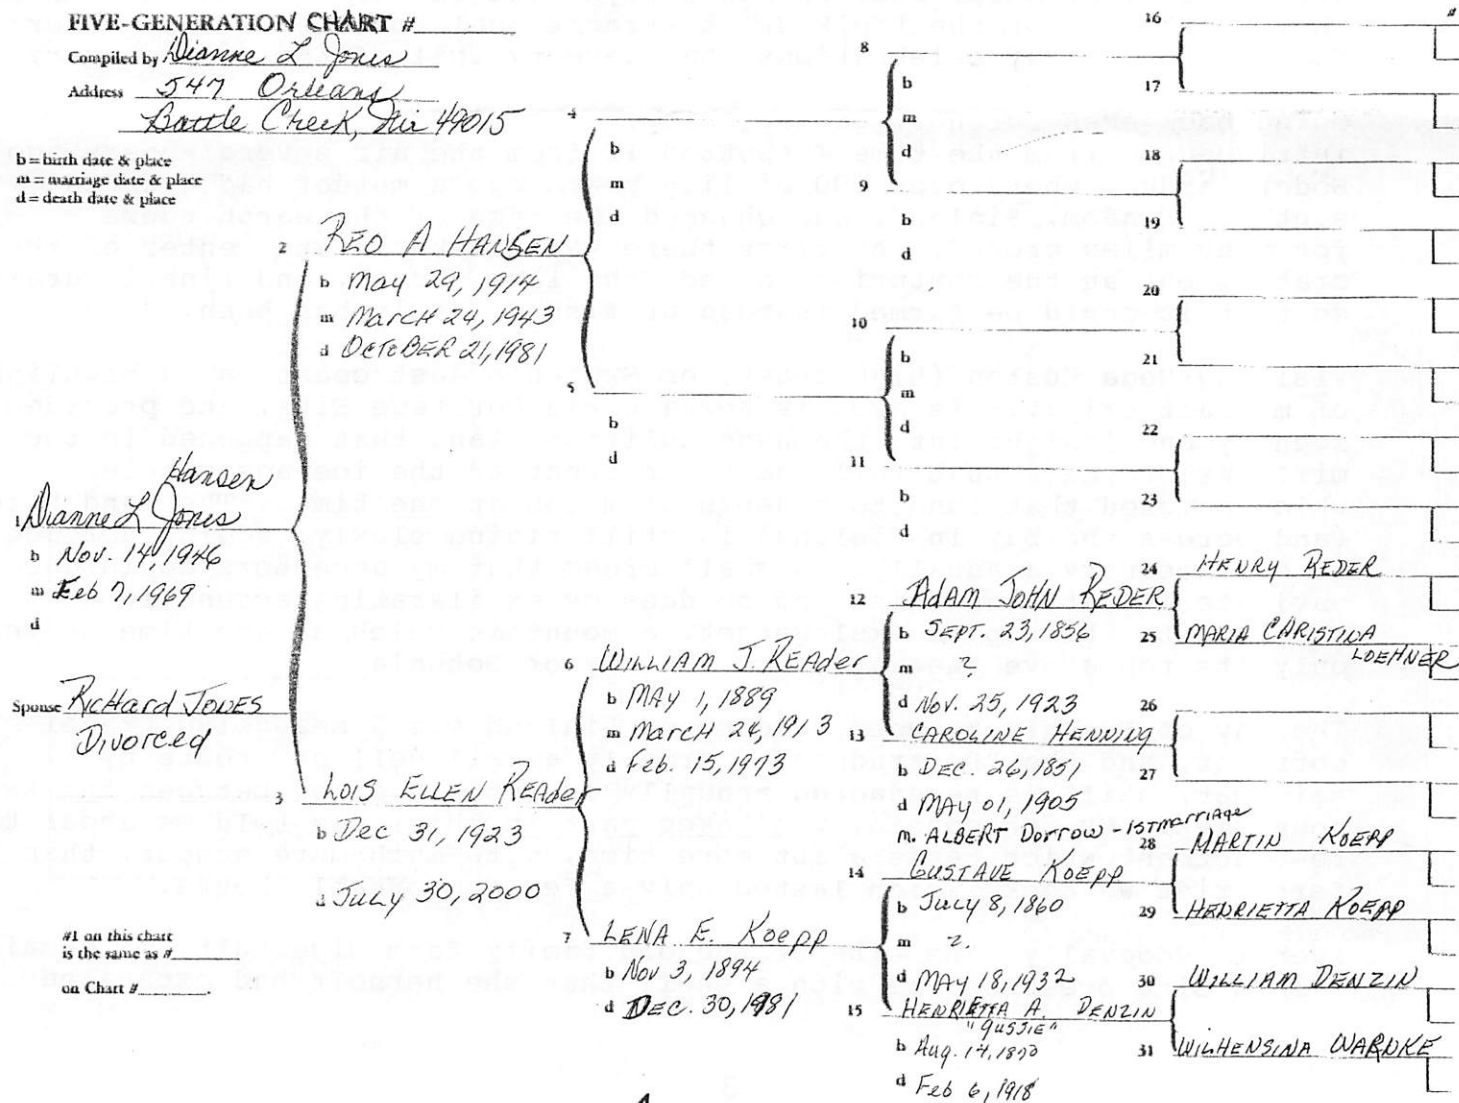

Even in Uddevalla, the site of the old family farm Sigelhult, my e-mail friend Gita presented me with a shell that she herself had excavated from the ancient shell banks there, the oldest in the world, which had been deposited by geological changes and forces some 10-11,000 years ago, when that part of the land was re-shaped. And everywhere, one can learn of the ancient people through the archeological digs still in progress.

I have a new appreciation of this part of the world, with its careful preservation of the past combined with acceptance and even leadership in the technological and educational modern life. To see their light, bright, and squeaky-clean homes, too, is to view a tasteful mix of the modern conveniences and artful decoration with the antique and historic artifacts they have grown up with. I returned home to find that I had to cope with a culture-shock.....in my own country!

INTRODUCTION

Population 13,000. Ishpeming is an incorporated city in Marquette County, 15 miles southwest of Marquette, the judicial seat, 3 west of Negaunee, with which it is connected by electric car line, 394 from Chicago and 465 by water from Detroit. It was incorporated in 1873, and is a station on the D. S. S. & A. and C. & N. W. Rys., and the western terminus of the L. S. & I. Ry. The name Ishpeming is from the Chippewa Indian language meaning "Heaven." It is the largest city and one of the most important mining centers in the Lake Superior iron district, having located within its corporate limits eight iron mines; in addition to these there are also asbestos and marble deposits in the vicinity. There are also a boiler shop, a creamery, carriage and wagon factories, etc. Tourists, hunters and prospectors will find supply stores for all necessities and luxuries. Its religious and educational advantages comprise churches of the leading denominations, excellent public and parochial schools. There are 2 banks, an opera house, seating 1,200, thoroughly equipped with the largest stage of any theatre in the Upper Peninsula, a public hall, a theatre presenting moving pictures, a business college, a Carnegie public library with 29,000 volumes, numerous well-stocked special and general stores, and 2 newspapers, Iron Ore and Record. The city is lighted by gas and electricity, has the Holly system of water works, and a thoroughly equipped and efficient fire department. The surrounding country is rough and hilly. Telegraph, telephone and express connection.

They Spend Hours in the Libraries Tracing the Family Tree

The attendants in the public libraries are kept busy these days by a horde of callers who have suddenly developed a mania for genealogical research. In fact, says the New York Herald, it seems to have become a fad to trace the family tree. The cause of it is not easily explainable. It is possible however, that circulars calling for heirs to large fortunes, scattered broadcast by many lawyers throughout the country, may be responsible for this fad.

The seekers look carefully through old books, records and histories and every little "clew" found therein is coveted with avidity. There have been rare cases where some startling and important "clew" has been found, but they are few and far between.

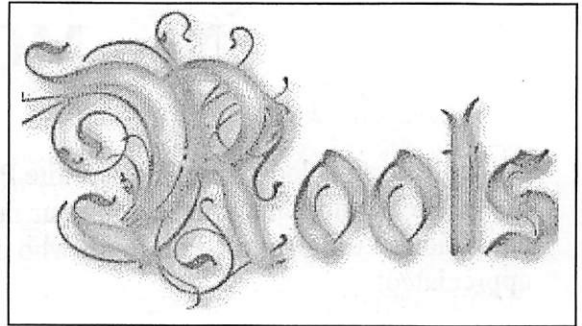

One of the library attendants told me that many of the genealogical callers were young men, who think a good family tree may help them along in the world, as he expressed it. However that may be, the fad, if it is really a fad, is by no means flippant, as it opens the avenue to much interesting and useful information and instructs the searcher, even if his own wish for family information is not gratified.

Daily Mining Journal, Marquette June 3, ????, page2, column 3

When do you think this fad was popular? 1896, 1926, or 1966?

If your answer was 1896, then you are correct! The "fad" of genealogy has lasted over 100 years!

Murphy's Law and Genealogy.....

- Anything that could have burned, did.
- The census taker with the clear handwriting and good ink never enumerated your ancestors.
- If you find a well documented, illustrious ancestor, you've probably made a mistake.
- Your folks hated government and never filled out forms.
- The book you need is never indexed, or, if indexed, doesn't include people.
- Your families never had attics, much less Bibles or boxes of photos in them.
- All real library discoveries are made five minutes before closing, when the copier is broken.
- The correctly shelved books and correctly filed forms are never the ones you need.
- The person sitting next to you at the research center is finding ancestors every five minutes ... and telling you.
- The email address that bounces is the one from a person who listed your exact names. If you find a working address, you aren't related.
- Your microfilm reader is the one that squeaks, has to be turned backwards, and doesn't quite focus.
- Your cemeteries have no caretaker or records archive.
- Alternate spellings and arcane names were your folks' favorite past times.
- Or, your folks only knew three names, and used them over and over in every collateral line.
- Your sister neglects to mention that the data she gave you, which you have researched, and sent to other researchers, was just a guess with no foundation, and she guessed because she "didn't like leaving that line blank."
- Your mother neglects to mention that, "Oh, yes, we knew they changed their name."
- Blank genealogy forms never have quite the categories or space you need.
- All software packages look good, but immediately have a problem with your special case.
- Discussions about how to compute cousinship are never resolved.
- And finally, it's infinitely easy to get sidetracked doing genealogy (grin).
