LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

There are many reasons why this issue is so late and I will not bore you with details, although some will be apparent by the end of this letter.

The program for the National Genealogical Society Conference in '89 at St. Paul is finalized and will be printed and distributed by NGS. An abbreviated flyer, describing some of the conference, is collated with this issue. I hope that every reader within 500 miles (and further) will attend -- make your plans now for May 17-20, 1989. We have worked very hard to plan the best program possible, with a variety of lectures that will give everyone the most help possible. There will be more for Canadian researchers than has ever been offered before or will likely be offered in the future. Some of the topics will be on Loyalists, land records in Ontario, the National Archives of Canada (formerly, Public Archives of Canada), the fur trade, sources for Quebec research beyond the published sources, and research in the Atlantic Provinces of Canada. Most of these topics have never been covered before in large conferences in the United States.

The Federation of Genealogical Societies Conference in Boston was great. The lectures were outstanding and the evening cruise of historic Boston Harbor was a welcome relief from the usual banquet. The speakers relaxed and everyone else chatted about their research problems, "great-greats" were heard all over the boat, hair-dos were ruined and nobody cared, and we all appreciated the fine job of planning by the committee at New England Historic Genealogical Society.

Boston and Biloxi set some high standards for us to follow in St. Paul. The Host Committee for "Journey Into Your Past" is hard at work and I am sure those standards will be met. Let's have a huge turnout and show them what Midwesterners can do.

There is a new sprout on the Reisinger family tree. Samantha Jane-Hong McKenzie was born 16 July 1988 at Fort Campbell, Kentucky to John David and Martha McKenzie (and big sister, Emelie). The big gal weighed in at 9# 3 ounces and has Grandpa's double chin. Of course, we had to visit her a few weeks later just to make sure she was as perfect as they said.

An exciting new source for research in Quebec is available from La Fédération des Familles-Souches Québécoises Inc., c.p. 6700, Sillery, Quebec G1T 2W2. Write for their catalog. Microfilm and microfiche created by the Archives Nationales du Québec is now available for purchase to the general public. The most exciting aspect is that much of it is of Protestant parish registers, as well as notarial documents.

Are there any hobbyist printers out there who would like to take on the job of printing Lost in Canada?. The offset press is self-destructing and replacement cost is so outrageous that such a solution can't be considered. I will provide camera-ready copy. For details, call me and give me your proposal. I hope to hear from someone about this.

GOOD HUNTING!

QUERIES

PLEASE READ. Following are some of the abbreviations used in queries. No periods are used. There are no specific rules for queries, but some advice - mention a time era and place, if you can. DO NOT USE ABBREVIATIONS WHEN SUBMITTING QUERIES and please write surnames in all capital letters. If you are sending a number of queries for future issues, please submit each on a separate sheet. Query deadline for the November issue is October 1.

PARISH REGISTER EXTRACTS
St-Jean-Chrysostôme, Chateauguay County, Quebec 1838-1853
Virginia Easley DeMarce

The following records are abstracted from the parish registers of St-Jean-Chrysostôme, LDS microfilm 1,031,559, and are for acts performed in the United States or acts performed in Canada for United States families. The "Parish Registers" open in 1838, but for the first few years they are actually missionary records kept for the entire border region by the missionary fathers John Moore, John Falvey, and Joseph Dallaire. A few acts were signed by Father Etienne Blythe from Ste-Martine. These were apparently deposited at St-Jean-Chrysostome when Father Dallaire became curé there.

During the years 1838 through 1840 the missionaries were covering the entire circuit of territory from Ormstown, Quebec, south to Malone, New York, east to Derby in Orleans County, Vermont, north to the St-Armand area of Quebec, and back to Ormstown. In addition to the U.S. locations noted in the records extracted, the Quebec locations found in these records for these three years are: Rivière-Noire, Williamstown, Ormstown, Norton Creek, Russeltown (now known as St-Jean-Chrysostôme), Hemmingford, Godmanchester, Huntington, Hinchinbrooke, Sherrington, Farnham, St-Armand, Dunham, Sutton, Granby, Milton, Shefford, Potton, Stanstead, Brome, West Hatley, Redford, Frelighsburg, and Bolton.

During the years 1841 through 1844 the missionary circuit was apparently cut in half. Father Joseph Dallaire, now stationed at St-Jean-Chrysostôme, was travelling in Canada only to those mission stations west of the Richelieu River - the "Western Townships." He was no longer doing missionary work in the "Eastern Townships." Similarly, in the U.S., Father Dallaire was no longer visiting the state of Vermont. Most of his missionary work was in Franklin County, New York, and western Clinton County, New York, with a few records pertaining to St. Lawrence County. The baptismal records for these years contain only the description "in the United States," but associated marriage records for these trips make reference to Malone, Chateauguay, and Ellenburg. It appears from the grouping of records that he did make visits to the U.S., and that these records are not, for the most part, the product of U.S.-resident families making visits to Canada.

Some of the original records are in French and others are in English. The language of the record is not necessarily connected to the ethnic origin of either the priest or the family.

Ministers of the Church of Scotland in Canada

Extracts of ministers who served in Canada taken from Fasti Ecclesiae Scoticanae: The Succession of Ministers in the Church of Scotland from the Reformation, Hew Scott, D.D. Vol. VII, Synods of Ross, Sutherland and Caithness, Glenelg, Orkney and of Shetland, The Church in England, Ireland, and Overseas. (Edinburgh: Tweeddale Court, 1928).

"Continent of America: Dominion of Canada (Ministers of the Church of Scotland from 1765 to the Union of the Churches in 1875, with some of later date)", pp. 606-660. The following are abstracts of genealogical information contained in the biographical sketches in this work of ministers who served in Canada (there is more information about their education and appointments in other countries). References are made to further information published in earlier volumes, where there often is much more biographical detail. I have a copy of Vol. VI, and have extracted from that book as well as from Vol. VII. Page numbers at the end of the entry refer to the page in Vol. VII.

Maritime or Eastern Provinces: Cape Breton

(Abstract of the historical paragraph) -- Robert MACPHERSON, chaplain to the Fraser Highlanders, is believed to have been the first Scottish minister to conduct services in Cape Breton in June 1758. In 1798, and again in 1818, James M'GREGOR, D.D., Secession minister at Pictou, made laborious missionary journeys throughout the Island. The first resident Presbyterian minister was Norman M'LEOD, native of Stoer, Sutherland who settled at St Ann's Harbour 20 May 1820 where he remained for upwards of 30 years. At the age of 70 he left for New Zealand with a ship-load of followers. Donald MACDONALD arrived in 1824 and itinerated for two years, afterwards removing to Prince Edward Island (q.v.). Dugald M'KICHAN (infra), first regular minister of the Church of Scotland was settled at River Inhabitants for eight years. In 1828 Donald A. FRASER of Pictou, and John M'LENNAN of Prince Edward Island (q.v.) proceeded on a missionary tour to Cape Breton. Alexander FARQUHARSON (infra) arrived in 1833. They built six churches before his arrival and in the following year ten more were erected and divided into parishes over which he and John STEWART, James FRASER, Peter M'LEAN (infra) were settled. In 1844 all the Cape Breton ministers joined the Free Church, yet at the census of 1851 it was found that over 5000 persons still adhered to the Church of Scotland. A Presbytery of Cape Breton in connection with the Church of Scotland was instituted in 1836. In 1844 it became a Presbytery of the Free Church of Nova Scotia. None of its early records have been preserved. p. 606

Nova Scotia

(See page 612-13 for a more complete history.) James LYON, from the Presbytery of New Brunswick, in New Jersey, laboured for a time in Halifax and elsewhere from 1764. Samuel KINLOCH, a licentiate of the Burgher Synod of Scotland, arrived in 1766 but returned home in 1769. The first permanent minister, who may be considered the pioneer of Presbyterianism in New Brunswick, was James MURDOCH, a native of County Donegal, who fixed on Horton as a centre for his missionary labours. He met his death by drowning in the Musquodoboit River in 1799. The first Church of Scotland minister in the Province was James FRASER, formerly chaplain to the 71st Regiment during the American War. He became pastor of a Scots congregation at Shelburne. In 1783, Thomas RUSSELL became minister of the Protestant Dissenters' Church (afterwards St Matthew's) organised at Halifax in 1749. The first meeting of a Presbytery and the first ordination of a Presbyterian minister in the Dominion of Canada, took place at Halifax 3 Jul 1770 when Messrs LYON and MURDOCH, with two Congregational ministers (SECCOMBE and PHELPS) set apart an earnest and pious-minded Dutch fisherman, Bruin Romcas COMINGOE, to the office of the ministry. He laboured at Lunenburg for 50 years and died in 1820 at the age of 96. In 1875 both the Secession and Free Synods entered the larger union of the Canadian Churches. The entire Presbytery of Pictou, however, declined to unite: A.W. HERDMAN, Pictou; George COULL, New Glasgow; William STEWART, Maclennan's Mountain; A.J. M'KICHAN, Barney's River; Charles DUNN, Stellarton and Westville; William MAC MILLAN, Salt Springs; J.W. FRASER, Roger's Hill and Cape John; Robert M'CUNN, River John; James M'COLL, Earltown.

REFERENCE SHELF

The Bristol Registers of Servants Sent to Foreign Plantations 1654-1686, Peter Wilson Coldham. (Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1988). Hard cover, 6" x 9", 491 pp., $30.00 plus $2.50 postage and handling. Order from Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 North Calvert Street, Baltimore, MD 21202. The port of Bristol (England) enjoyed a monopoly of the trade with Virginia and the West Indies during the years covered by this volume. There was so much fraud in the indentured servants trade that the Bristol City Council passed an ordinance requiring a register of servants destined for the colonies. These registers lay in storage for over 200 years until they were discovered in 1925. A few years later R. Hargreaves-Mawdsley published Bristol and America, a severely summarized, and not totally accurate, transcription. Peter Wilson Coldham, who has long been known for his excellent work in the field of English emigration records, compiled a transcript of the complete registers. Typical of the entries are those a friend found when she picked up my copy of the book and said she knew her ancestor had indentured servants in Virginia. (Page 317) "Ursula Thomas to Thomas Nelson, 4 years, Virginia 17 September 1675, and Phillip Watts to Thomas Nelson, 5 years, Virginia 18 September 1675"; (page 330) "Elizabeth Sampson to Thomas Nelson, 5 years, Virginia by George, 7 November 1676, Isaac Bishopp to Thomas Nelson, 4 years, Virginia by George and Thomas Richards to same, 5 years, Virginia by George 24 November 1676"; (page 331) "William Davis to Thomas Nelson, 4 years, Virginia by Charles, 21 December 1676." This is a reference source that belongs in all genealogical libraries.

American Passenger Arrival Records: A Guide to the Records of Immigrants Arriving at American Ports by Sail and Steam, Michael Tepper. (Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1988). Hard cover, 6 1/2" x 9 1/2", 134 pp., $18.95 plus $2.50 (only $1.00 per additional book with the same order). Order from GPC as above. This is an excellent and much needed guide to locating passenger arrival lists. The citations to related articles and books are very valuable, but I wonder why he omitted reference to Henry Z Jones' excellent compilation, The Palatine Families of New York. A Study of the German Immigrants Who Arrived in New York in 1710 (Universal City, CA: Henry Z Jones, 1985, 2 vols.). On pp. 85-86 re: the National Archives and Field Branches, there is no reference to The Archives: A Guide to the National Archives Field Branches, Loretto Dennis Szucs & Sandra Hargreaves Luebking (Salt Lake City: Ancestry Publishing, 1988) although this book may not have been known to the author at the time of writing. He does, however, cite many GPC 1988 titles. On page 100 he mentions the 1847 scourge at Grosse Ile, but did not cite Grosse Ile Gateway to Canada 1832-1937, Marianna O'Gallagher, S.C.H. (Québec: Carraig Books, 1984) which contains a list of orphans in the Catholic Orphanage of Quebec in 1847 and a list of persons who died in the Grosse-Isle Hospital. There is a very good description of the Canadian Border Entries or so-called "St. Albans lists," a source that is often misunderstood. Each chapter deals completely and thoroughly with its subject and records, both published and un-published, indexed and un-indexed. There are chapters on the Colonial Period, Federal passenger arrival records, and Customs Passenger Lists and Immigration Passenger Lists (both chapters also deal with specific ports). Appendix A is an explanation of the Hamburg Emigration Lists and Appendix B is "Checklist of Passenger List Publications." In the often confusing field of passenger lists, this book untangles much of the confusion and leads the researcher down the proper path. It is a must-have item for every reference library.

German Immigrants: Lists of Passengers Bound from Bremen to New York, 1863-1867 With Places of Origin, Gary J. Zimmerman & Marion Wolfert, compilers. (Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1988). Hard cover, 6" x 9", 221 pp., $21.50 plus postage and handling as above. This is the third volume in a series. Vol. 1 covered 1847-1854 and Vol. 2 covered 1855-1862. The Bremen embarkation lists have not survived through the years; indeed, they were routinely destroyed after a specified number of years passed. Zimmerman and Wolfert are filling this research gap by extracting names from the passenger arrival lists at the port of New York. There is an introduction which explains how to read the entries, and also points special attention to possible errors. However, the sample entry (the same one used in Vols. 1 & 2) is incompletely defined. For example: "BEIERLEIB, Johann 60 Lustberg 61-1640" is described as, "This entry states that the 60-year-old Johann Beierleib arrived in New York in 1861 (61=1861) and appears on list 1640 for that year. The table of references under 61-1640 give Norma 10 Nov 1861 107. This indicates that Johann Beierleib was on the ship Norma which arrived in New York on November 10, 1861. The original list can be found on microfilm roll (NARA) 107." They fail to mention that Lustberg is the stated place of origin. This is a minor defect that most people can figure out for themselves, but it should be corrected in future volumes of this valuable series.

Pitfalls in Genealogical Research, Milton Rubincam, FASG. (Salt Lake City: Ancestry Publishing, 1987). Soft cover, 5 1/2" x 8 1/2", 74 pp., $5.95 from Ancestry, Box 476, Salt Lake City, UT 84110. Although not submitted for review (translated, that means I had to buy my own copy), this book is worth mentioning for the education of readers. Pitfalls is authored by one of the most eminent genealogists of all time, and should be mandatory reading for every family historian, whether beginner or experienced, amateur or professional. If everyone would read, and practice what they read, the material in this book and the one mentioned below, we would no longer see the undocumented, unsubstantiated genealogies, full of romantic tales, that are being churned out by the hundreds. We all should publish the results of our research in one form or another, but we should also let the readers know where we got the information so that future researchers can easily prove or dis-prove our statements and conclusions. French-Canadian genealogies especially seem to fail to document or cite sources.

The companion book that I mentioned is Genealogy as Pastime and Profession, Donald Lines Jacobus. (Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1968), soft cover, 5 1/2" x 8 1/2", 120 pp., $7.95 from GPC, address given in the review of Bristol Registers. Both authors stress the need to consult original documents or microfilms of the originals. Please find a copy of these books and read them!

1989 National Genealogical Society Conference in the States

What Will Be On The Program? Will there be sessions on Civil War records? Norway? New York? migrations? professional research? Czechoslovakia? writing and publishing? libraries and archives? Ireland? methodology? Tennessee?...

Yes, and that's only the beginning. The program will offer more than 100 sessions with something for just about any genealogist, beginner or expert, amateur or professional. For most participants the challenge will not be "Is there anything for me?" but "Which sessions do I need most?"

In response to requests from attendees at previous conferences the program will emphasize methodology including sessions on what to do when the original sources are wrong, solving your research problem using the records of collateral relatives, gathering full cemetery information, researching in a "burned courthouse," solving "Is this the same man?" problems, squeezing the most information from the sources, and more.

Reflecting the Midwest's genealogical and ethnic diversity will be sessions on many ethnic and religious groups that settled there, such as the Irish, Polish, Indians, Norwegians, Blacks, Germans, Swiss, Fur Traders, Swedes, English and more.

Just because your ancestors came in 1730 doesn't mean there's nothing for you. There will be sessions about research in the South, Vermont, Canada, Chicago, New York City, Indiana, Virginia, New England and more.

And its not all groups and places. There will be sessions on a variety of research sources and techniques for the researcher, archivist, educator or librarian including how to best use archives and libraries, materials at Salt Lake City and its branch libraries, National Archives of Canada, Inter-Library Loan, the National Archives and its field branches, federal land and court records, divorce records, naturalization records and more.

The researcher interested in writing, editing, and publishing the results of genealogical research, will find lectures on how to organize material, how to write a family history, how to prepare a manuscript for publication, how to edit a family-name newsletter and more.

For researchers interested in applying the power of the computer to their genealogical research, there will be lectures about genealogy software as well as word processors, data bases, utilities, and the latest technology. Lab sessions will be held at all times in the computer center, which will be available throughout the conference.

For the genealogical educator there will be sessions on teaching at both the beginning and advanced levels, selling the topic to the non-genealogist, and, as a special highlight of the conference, an all-day seminar for the non-genealogist educators on using genealogy in the classroom.

Offered in conjunction with the conference will be lectures and special events sponsored by many other major genealogical organizations including the Board for Certification of Genealogists; the Association of Professional Genealogists; the Federation of Genealogical Societies; the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution; the Minnesota Society, Sons of the American Revolution; the International Society for British Genealogy and Family History; the National Institute on Genealogical Research Alumni Association; and the Council of Genealogy Columnists.

Who Will The Speakers Be? Nationally known researchers, educators, editors, librarians and archivists, as well as local and area people who have special knowledge and expertise.

Among the more than eighty speakers will be John Baule, Lloyd Bockstruck, Anne Budd, Peter Bunce, Timothy Ericson, Arthur Finnell, Carolyn Habelman, James L. Hansen, Larry Jensen, Roger Joslyn, Patricia Kennedy, Helen Leary, Sandra Luebking, Elizabeth Mills, Gerhard Naeseth, Nils William Olsson, Terrence Punch, Joy Reisinger, Marsha Rising, and Loretto Dennis Szucs.

No program will solve all your research problems, but every effort has been made to ensure that this "Journey into Your Past" will be an enjoyable, informative and successful trip.

Mid-May in Minnesota. Does that mean I should bring my snowshoes?

Leave them home. A sweater will do it. Minnesota weather is delightful in May. In fact, you may want to plan your vacation around the conference. Now's the time to put it on your calendar! Come early or stay late. Take advantage of the opportunity to do genealogy research at any of a number of unique ethnic and historical collections, or come as a tourist and enjoy the scenic spring beauty.

The conference begins at midday on Wednesday, 17 May 1989 and continues through Saturday, 20 May 1989. There are seminars and lectures in the mornings and afternoons, and banquets, entertainment, or free time at noon and in the evenings.

What is the registration fee? What do I get for my money?

Early registration is $80. That's a lot of money. But education is almost always a bargain, and it's yours for life. An investment in the NGS Conference In The States will bring unparalleled returns in knowledge and inspiration both for the beginning family historian and the professional genealogist.

The real question is: Can you afford to miss it? The $80 registration fee includes 4 days of seminars and lectures prepared by experts in the fields of genealogy, history, and ethnic research; access to nearly one hundred vendor and book displays; selected entertainment events; an invitation to the host society reception; hands-on demonstrations of the latest genealogy computer programs; and the opportunity to meet and exchange ideas with more than 1,000 other folks who share your interest in family history. You'll also get a complete conference syllabus, a program, and a directory of participants. Tours, banquets, and some special events cost extra. Please note that if conference volunteers wish to attend lectures and other conference events, they must also pay the registration fee.

What if I'm just a beginner?

The conference is carefully designed to appeal to anyone with an interest in family history -- from the novice to the professional researcher. Lectures are "graded" at 3 levels (beginner, intermediate, and expert) and you can select the seminar topics and levels that best fit your needs.

How do I get around? Where can I park?

The Minneapolis/Saint Paul International Airport is only 15 minutes away from downtown Saint Paul (transport by limousine or taxi) and driving in the Twin Cities is not complicated (this ain't New York!). There is direct freeway access to the city of Saint Paul on 35E from the north or the south, Robert Street (Hwy 3) from the south, and Interstate 94 from the east or west.

Parking is sometimes a concern for first-time visitors to Saint Paul, so we're making special plans to provide clear directions and a map showing parking locations nearby. That will come with your pre-conference materials.

As an alternative, many local history and genealogical groups are planning to travel to the convention together, in car pools or busses. You may wish to make similar plans with your local organization.

Where do I stay?

The Radisson Hotel St. Paul and Holiday Inn Town Square are the official hotels. Each have set aside a block of rooms that will be available at discounted rates ($55-$59 single, $59-$69 double). Please note that to get the special rates you must mention that you are an NGS Conference participant when you make your reservation. Or you may wish to make other lodging arrangements. Limited information about hotels, camping, and RV Parks will be sent after you register. You can get complete tourist information by writing to the Saint Paul Chamber of Commerce, 445 Minnesota Street, Saint Paul 55101.

Can I keep myself and my family busy?

There's plenty to see and do in the Twin Cities for those members of your family who would like to come along -- but not as conference participants. Within walking distance (mostly by skyway) there are restaurants, shopping, movie theaters, the St. Paul Public Library, the Science Museum of Minnesota (with Omnitheatre), the Farmers' Market, the downtown Y's, and the Ordway Music Theatre. A little further (but within easy reach by cab or city bus) are the Como Park Conservatory and Zoo, the Minnesota Zoological Gardens, the Metrodome (home of the World Champion Minnesota Twins!), Canterbury Downs racetrack, historic Fort Snelling, and dozens of recreational lakes and parks. Information on special group tours will be included with the registration materials.

How do I register?

Complete registration material will be mailed out in early 1989. NGS and MGS members will be notified automatically. If you would like to be on the mailing list, send a note or postcard with your name and address to:

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

This issue has many pages of book reviews, one of which runs nine pages. Five persons reviewed different sections of the book The Library and their corrections and comments were worth making it a feature article. There still is a backlog of books which will be reviewed in the next issue. One excellent book should be brought to your attention now. There simply was not enough room to print the review in this issue. Brenda Dougall Merriman has written a revised version of her Ontario research guide. Genealogy in Ontario: Searching the Records is an excellent book and is available from the Ontario Genealogical Society, 40 Orchard View Blvd, Suite 253, Toronto, Ontario M4R 1B9 for $13.50 plus $2.00 mailing to US or $1.00 mailed to a Canadian address. Don't wait for the review - order your copy now.

The St. Paul Conference program can be found on pages 209-212. We believe there is a well-balanced variety of lectures. There is something for researchers at all levels of experience and expertise, as well as diverse ethnic and regional backgrounds. The biggest difficulty you will have when studying the program is in choosing which session to attend each hour. Something new for this conference is the Saturday track for educators who are not genealogists, although the lectures will interest genealogists as well. Continuing education credits may be available. Genealogists with ancestors from the Atlantic Provinces will be delighted to read that Terrence Punch will lecture on that topic, as well as make a presentation to the educators. He will also be the speaker for the International Society for British Genealogy and Family History luncheon. Patricia Kennedy, pre-confederation archivist at the National Archives of Canada will speak about Loyalists and also about the National Archives of Canada. Bruce Elliott, author of Irish Migrants in the Canadas: A New Approach (review to appear in the next issue) will speak about Irish research and about land records in Ontario. John Magerus (see his review of the sections on Luxembourg and France in The Library on page 204) will talk about in-depth Quebec research. James L. Hansen will give us new insights and sources for researching a fur-trader. Can you tell I'm excited about this? Make your plans to attend the NGS Conference '89 in St. Paul, Minnesota May 17-20, 1989.

Thanks to those who contacted printers for me in response to my request in the August issue. The day after that issue was mailed, I made local arrangements that I hope will work very well.

A catalog of microforms in my library is printed on pages 192-196 to inform you of material that is available. The majority was purchased from the Family History Library in Salt Lake City and the Fédération des Familles-Souches Québécoises (address in the August issue).

The McKenzie family, which includes our two grandchildren, are staying with us for the month of December while Daddy is on temporary duty at near-by Fort McCoy. Christmas should be a fun time for all of us. We wish you and yours the peace and joy of the holidays and GOOD HUNTING!

QUERIES

PLEASE READ. Following are some of the abbreviations used in queries. No periods are used. There are no specific rules for queries, but some advice - mention a time era and place, if you can. DO NOT USE ABBREVIATIONS WHEN SUBMITTING QUERIES and please write surnames in all capital letters. If you are sending a number of queries for future issues, please submit each on a separate sheet. Query deadline for the February issue is January 1.

Among the 58 men deported to Australia for their participation in the Papineau Uprising of 1837-1838 was a Jean LABERGE of Ste-Martine. My anc, Jean LABERGE, son of Pierre and Claire BREAU, m Jeanne GIROUX 16 Jan 1826 Ste-Martine, had a son Edouard b 27 May 1832. Could this be the same man? What would be the best way to research this?

Julie Ann LARSON, 195 Atherton Avenue, Atherton, CA 94025

ed note: Patriotes de 1837-1838, Aegidius Fauteux (Montreal: Les Editions Des Dix, 1950), p. 77 lists Jean Laberge of Ste-Martine, a carpenter, among the 58 deported to Australia.
Les Rébellions de 1837-1838, Jean-Paul Bernard (Montreal: Boréal Express, 1983), p. 314 lists Jean Laberge as 34 years old, a carpenter, was imprisoned at Montreal, place of residence unknown.
History of the Montreal Prison from 1784 to 1886, Rev'd J. Douglas Borthwick (Montreal: A. Periard, 1886), p. 134 shows Jean Laberge, carpenter, in a "list of political prisoners from Lower Canada to be embarked on board Her Majesty's Ship Buffalo, Commander Wood, September, 1839."
Ivanhoe Caron, ptre, "Les événements de 1837 et 1838", Rapport de l'Archiviste de la Province de Québec pour 1925-1926, pp. 234-235 catalogues papers in this collection. #2035 is a list of depositions against a number of people, Jean Laberge included, from Beauharnois. P. 275 has a list of men who were sentenced to death. One dated 26 January 1839 includes Jean Laberge.
Rebellion: The Rising in French Canada 1837, Joseph Schull (Toronto: Macmillan of Canada, 1971), pp. 189-193, 202-206. The Australian deportation is described from letters written by Francois-Xavier Prieur, Notes of a Convict of 1838 (Sydney, Australia: D.S. Ford, 1949). He states that of the 58 men, two died and one married in Australia. The rest were pardoned and returned to Quebec.

Ministers of the Church of Scotland in Canada
Part 2

Extracts of ministers who served in Canada taken from Fasti Ecclesiae Scoticanae: The Succession of Ministers in the Church of Scotland from the Reformation, Hew Scott, D.D. Vol. VII, Synods of Ross, Sutherland and Caithness, Glenelg, Orkney and of Shetland, The Church in England, Ireland, and Overseas. (Edinburgh: Tweeddale Court, 1928).

"Continent of America: Dominion of Canada (Ministers of the Church of Scotland from 1765 to the Union of the Churches in 1875, with some of later date)", pp. 606-660. The following are abstracts of genealogical information contained in the biographical sketches in this work of ministers who served in Canada (there is more information about their education and appointments in other countries). References are made to further information published in earlier volumes, where there often is much more biographical detail. I have a copy of Vol. VI, and have extracted from that book as well as from Vol. VII. Page numbers at the end of the entry refer to the page in Vol. VII.

Ministers in Cape Breton, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia were written about in Lost in Canada?, Vol. 14, #III, (August 1988) pp. 128-142.

Prince Edward Island

This Presbytery consists of three congregations on Prince Edward Island and one in Massachusetts, U.S.A. the congregations on Prince Edward Island were the large mission field of Donald MacDonald. They formed part of the Presbytery of Egerton, Nova Scotia, and later, of the Presbytery of Pictou. When the congregations upon the mainland joined the Presbyterian Church of Canada, those on the Island, remaining in the Presbytery of Pictou, changed its name to the "Presbytery of Prince Edward Island in connection with the Church of Scotland." The congregation of Cambridge, Mass., composed chiefly of emigrants from Prince Edward Island, was admitted to the bounds in 1908. In 1920 the Presbytery was incorporated by Act of Parliament.

Manitoba

In 1810 Thomas DOUGLAS, fifth Earl of Selkirk, secured from the Hudson's Bay Company an immense tract of land, nearly the size of Great Britain, including the valleys of the Red River and the Assiniboine. He undertook to establish a Colony and assumed all the costs. His company of settlers, consisting of seventy Highlanders mostly from Kildonan, Sutherland, reached the Red River in 1812. For nearly forty years the people had no minister. Services were conducted by an elder, James SUTHERLAND, who was given authority to solemnize marriages and dispense the sacraments. When he was forcibly removed by the North-West Company the people had no alternative but to accept the ministrations of the Church of England. In 1851, John BLACK, born 8 Jan 1818 Garwaldshiels, Eskdalemuir, son of William, farmer, and Margaret HALLIDAY; educated in USA and Canada; ordained 31 Jul 1851; died 11 Feb 1882; proceeded to Manitoba and was thus the first Presbyterian minister in any part of the great North-West Territories. A church was soon erected - the replica of that at Kildonan - with a graveyard, spoken of as the "Westminster of Western Canada," where are buried many of the missionary pioneers - Dr. BLACK himself; James NISBET, first Presbyterian missionary to the Red Indians and founder of the city of Prince Albert; James ROBERTSON; Principal John Mark KING, and others. In 1870 the Presbytery of Manitoba was organised. It became a Synod in 1884. In 1871 a log building was opened as a college at Kildonan by George BRYCE. In 1874 a building was erected on Ellice Avenue, Winnipeg, and was much enlarged in 1892.

British Columbia

Vancouver Island and British Columbia were separate Provinces until 1866. In January 1861, John HALL, the first Presbyterian minister in that part of British North America, commissioned by the Colonial Committee of the Irish Presbyterian Church, arrived at Victoria, where he organised the First Presbyterian Church, still so called. He left for New Zealand in 1865. A church was erected in 1863, crowned with the Scottish thistle. It was destroyed by fire in 1883, and immediately replaced by the existing edifice. The second missionary was Robert JAMIESON, appointed by the Church in Canada in 1862. Daniel DUFF laboured from 1864 to 1867, when he returned to Ontario. In 1863 the Church of Scotland sent out its first missionary, James NIMMO. After him were Thomas SOMERVILLE and William CLYDE.

ANDERSON, Andrew H. minister of St Andrew's Church, Nanaimo, British Columbia 1882; afterwards in British Guiana (q.v.). p. 657. Mary Ann CLIFFORD, a witness at the trial; a servant to Abigail WHITE and the object of the fight between PANQUET & PIERCE.

Doctor James DOUGLASS, examined and carried out an autopsy, after the disinternment of PIERCE's body 7 July.

Peter GLASGOW, a witness at the trial.

Thomas HOLDSWORTH, a witness at the trial; a neighbour of Abigail WHITE.

Charles LAFOND, a witness at the trial; of St-Ambroise.

Pierre LAVOYER, a witness at the trial; a neighbour who lived opposite Abigail WHITE.

Maria LEE, a witness at the trial.

Jean PAGEAU, a witness at the trial; a mason of St-Ambroise; worked in a mill at Valcartier last May.

Charles PANQUET, indicted for the murder of Joseph PIERCE at St-Rocks 1 July 1830. Accused of giving him several mortal blows and bruises of which PIERCE died 7:00 a.m. the morning of 5 July 1830. PANQUET was a young man who had worked for Mr. SULLIVAN of Valcartier, and who resided with Abigail WHITE at St-Rocks and Valcartier. He claimed not guilty due to self defense and was aquitted of the charges.

Joseph PIERCE, "The Captain of the Mountain", a short, square-built older man of eccentric and immoral habits, remarkable for the large shallow crowned hat that he wore. He resided at St-Rocks with Abigail White. He got into a fight with Charles PANQUET over the attentions of Mary Ann CLIFFORD. PIERCE attacked PANQUET, who in the ensuing struggle struck and pushed PIERCE over, causing him to fall and strike the corner of a stove.

Hon. F.W. PRIMROSE, the counsel for the prisoner, Charles PANQUET.

Charles SAVARD, a witness at the trial, owns a farm and lives at Valcartier; knew Joseph PIERCE for 32-33 years and Charles PANQUET for 4 years.

The Library: A Guide to the LDS Family History Library, Johni Cerny and Wendy Elliott. (Salt Lake City: Ancestry Publishing, 1988). Hardbound, 8 1/2" x 11", 763 pp. + xi, $32.95 plus $4.00 postage and handling from Ancestry, Box 476, Salt Lake City, UT 84110. The library of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints holds the largest collection of genealogical sources in the world. This book first describes the layout of the library, the card catalogue (FHLC), unique collections such as the IGI and the Family Group Records Collection, the branch libraries (Family History Centers), and various services. The balance of this large volume is the guide to area research holdings. The United States is broken into regions - New England, Mid-Atlantic states, Old South, New South, Midwest, Northern Plains, Mountain States, Southwest, and the Pacific Northwest and Hawaii. Foreign locations are: Dominion of Canada, England and Wales, Ireland, Scotland, Scandinavia, Germany and Central Europe, Eastern Europe, Southern Europe, Western Europe, South America, Central America and Mexico, South Pacific, Caribbean Islands, and Africa. Each area begins with a general overview of its history, followed by information about archives and libraries, and kinds of records created. The final portion of each chapter is a dot-chart by county (or other designation) showing each type of record available at the FHL (Family History Library).

This is a guide that I, and many genealogical researchers, were eager to have. A trip to Salt Lake City is expensive and we want to make the best use of the time there. Thus, good preparation is essential, and knowledge of the vast holdings of the Family History Library is essential for good preparation. When I turned to the section about Canada, and specifically the section about Quebec, I was disappointed with the errors I saw. I consulted people who are expert researchers in various geographic areas, and are also familiar with the FHL holdings, to help me with this review. The result is a review broken into sections, with constructive criticism which can be used as a learning tool. If there is a reprint edition of this work, I hope the authors will do a re-edition, and send the sections to knowledgeable persons for critique and proof-reading. This review only covers a few geographic areas. Haste is apparent, and one wonders if an all-too-early deadline was set in order to have the book published for a specific occasion. It is possible that by co-incidence these areas are the weak chapters and that the rest of the work is of excellent quality.

Wisconsin

in Chapter 9, "United States: The Midwest," Marlene M. Marino, pp. 230-235.

Reviewed by James L. Hansen, Reference Librarian, State Historical Society of Wisconsin. (Mr. Hansen serves a Program Co-Chairman for the NGS Conference, May 17-20, 1989, in St. Paul, Minnesota).

Compiling and producing a reference book, especially a genealogical one, is often a thankless task. Like any genealogical work it is time-consuming, often tedious, and relentlessly detailed. Careful attention must be paid to even the smallest detail because once published, such a work becomes immediately an authority on the family or area it covers. The more comprehensive the work, the more critical accuracy becomes. Certainly no work is perfect; there are simply too many possibilities for error. However, if the Wisconsin chapter in The Library is any indication, this most desirable and substantial work will have to be used with considerable caution. The Wisconsin section has too many errors, of both fact and emphasis, to be considered a trustworthy guide for the researcher interested in doing Wisconsin-related research in the Family History Library or the Family History Centers.

Errors of fact and detail are most immediately noticeable. Statewide registration of vital records was not established in 1907. The law passed that year did establish the State Bureau of Vital Statistics but statewide registration had been the law (although often not observed) as early as 1852 and several subsequent laws strengthened the 1852 legislation. In the "Census records" section Wisconsin is described as having once been part of Iowa Territory. Present-day Iowa was from July 1836-July 1838 part of Wisconsin Territory; the reverse never occurred. Omitted is the fact that present-day Wisconsin was from 1800-1809 part of Indiana Territory, during which time the earliest U.S. officials having jurisdiction in the area were appointed. There was no territorial census taken in 1830 while Wisconsin was part of Michigan Territory, although the U.S. census of that year did cover the settled area west of Lake Michigan. Also the list of territorial and state censuses omits territorial censuses taken in 1838 and 1846. That omission is particularly surprising because references to both are made in the bibliography immediately following.

It is not possible to be certain whether the omission of an item from mention or from a bibliography is caused by that item not being held by the Family History Library or because it was not considered worthy of inclusion. For example, under the heading "Genealogical Collections," Wisconsin Families, the pre-WW II publication of the Wisconsin Genealogical Society, is listed but its successor and current publication, the Wisconsin State Genealogical Society Newsletter, arguably the most significant genealogical periodical published for Wisconsin, is not listed.

Perhaps of more overall concern than particular errors is the sense that the descriptions and more particularly the bibliographies are not always comprehensive and that criteria for inclusion were not always uniformly applied. The paragraphs on "Settlement and Migration" provide an interesting collection of details on specific immigrant groups but do not provide any kind of overall sense of the general flow of the migration. The sources cited are of varying degrees of importance while the single source most useful for a general immigration summary, the first three volumes of the History of Wisconsin (State Historical Society of Wisconsin, 1973-1985), are not cited and therefore are presumably not held by the Family History Library. These volumes are an important resource not only for the overall view of immigration into the state but also as a background source for all aspects of Wisconsin history through the nineteenth century. They also provide substantial detailed bibliographies to additional resources.

One other tendency that can sometimes be misleading is the listing of items, apparently by filming date rather than date of original publication. An example in the "Biography" section, Notable Men of Wisconsin, was originally published in 1902, not the 1974 that is listed. Since this has considerable importance when the researcher is looking for possible resource material, it seems that the original publication date should be given. Whether this is the practice of the Family History Library or the compilers of The Library, it still holds true.

Lest the reader begin to suspect that there is nothing worthwhile to be found in The Library, certainly the descriptions of the materials held by the Family History Library and the listings of subject headings used for specific topics will be helpful as will the county by county list of records appearing on pages 255-256. It would be helpful to have had in addition an overall statement on the extent of coverage and/or progress of filming in the individual areas. Also, because different sections of the book were done by different compilers there may very well be considerable variation from section to section, so the comments about this section may not necessarily apply to all the others. Overall one has the sense of an opportunity missed, a reference work that, while of obvious use, will have to be used with care and one which is likely to be misunderstood or to mislead many a researcher. We would hope that The Library will, however, be of sufficient value that a second edition will be necessary in which its shortcomings will be able to be corrected.

Canada and Ontario

in Chapter 14, "Dominion of Canada," William L. Arbuckle, pp. 359-384.
Reviewed by Brenda Dougall Merriman CGRS, CGL, author of Genealogy in Ontario: Searching the Records, revised ed. (Canada: Ontario Genealogical Society, 1988).

A guidebook is only as good as the knowledge and expression of the author. In reviewing the Ontario, Canada section of The Library it became evident that other factors were as important as the author's knowledge of microfilmed and published sources for Ontario in the LDS Family History Library (FHL). There is no question that the author in this case knows and uses these sources for Ontario genealogical research. But some misunderstanding of historical development, records-keeping and sources has caused misleading errors.

It could be that the LDS microfilming crew has labelled some films incorrectly, causing misconception. This has happened with the Ontario town and township "deeds" series. These microfilmed records are not "deeds" per se: they are copybooks of deeds (memorials) which are not the same thing as original deeds. The dates that appear in cataloguing these items have been found to be incorrect in several cases. There are no "deeds" arranged by District names and many volumes of the copybooks do not have separate indexes, as suggested on page 378.

The point is that it's difficult to know whether these errors were created by the author or by the cataloguers in the FHL. And it's difficult to realize that some important sources and publications are apparently not available at the FHL. But it does behoove the publishers to make this very valuable reference work as error-free as possible.

Let's consider some of the background first. Because Ontario was one of the earliest Canadian provinces, it was necessary to refer as well to the section on Canada, when early Ontario records were also considered "Canada." Some obvious typographical or spelling errors are "Cape Briton" for Cape Breton (p. 359); "Storemont" for Stormont County (p. 360); "Catarague" for Cataraqui (p. 375); "1763 Ontario became a British Territory..." should read Quebec becomes a British Territory...(p. 375); "Montreal, Ontario" for Montreal, Quebec (p. 368 & 366); "FR - Peter Robinson Settler" is really PR (p. 377).

As for dates and numbers, the Eastern District Marriage Registers (p. 360) begin in 1831, not 1838. The implication is that the marriage of any ancestor resident in that area can be found in the registers. Not so; they are far from comprehensive and did not include Catholic or Anglican marriages. Ships' passenger lists to six major Canadian ports of entry are now available on microfilm to 1919 (p. 362) although possibly the FHL has not acquired the latest films. The reference to Jonasson's book, Canadian Veterans of the War of 1812 does not mention the revealing fact that the lists were only of men alive in 1875-77. Likewise, the list of officers and men killed during the 1837 Rebellion published in the "Public Archives" Report of 1904 includes only militiamen in a small area of eight towns and townships in Quebec. The province itself and its census records do not date from "the latter half of the 1700s"

(p. 376). The earliest extant census is the one quoted for 1796, which hardly places it mid-century.

The number of Loyalists who left the US is variously given as 40,000 to Canada (p. 365), 20,000 to Canada (p. 359), 30,000 to Nova Scotia (p. 365), 6,000 to Ontario (p. 365). The old Districts were abolished in 1849/50, not in 1844 (p. 375).

In the United Empire Loyalist section, no mention is made of Allen's Loyalist Literature: An Annotated Bibliographic Guide to the Writings on the Loyalists of the American Revolution and Antliff's Loyalist Settlements 1783-1789, New Evidence of Canadian Claims with its surname index to Audit Office 12 claims plus newly published claims from that source. If the FHL has copies of these, it may be that the author had to select only a few titles. (The FHLC Author/Title section does not show either of these books - ed.)

Now let's consider sources. Please, call it the Canada Company (p. 360) as per its charter, not the Canada Land Company. And we call that fracas in 1837 the 1837 Rebellion, not the "McKenzie Rebellion" (which is really Mackenzie) (p. 363). The Canadian contingent that served overseas in World War I was known as the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and their records were arranged with CEF call numbers at the National Archives. The Naturalization section (p. 364) does not include published indexes to Naturalization Registers 1828-1850 (Ontario Genealogical Society's (OGS) Families, Vol. 18, No. 3; Vol. 19, Nos. 1-3). These quarterlies should be available at the FHL since one is quoted for another reference on p. 377.

The publication of Ontario cemeteries (p. 361) appears to have been collected and/or catalogued by the FHL. If these are indeed transcriptions of cemeteries, then they were undoubtedly published by the various branches of the OGS as part of an ongoing programme to record more than 5,000 local cemeteries. The Ontario Archives has now microfilmed five series of these - thousands of cemeteries - and this reviewer does not know if the microfilm referred to here should be credited to the Genealogical Society of Utah or the Ontario Genealogical Society.

Strangely, no reference is made to the Loyalists or Tories as fighting men in Loyalist military units. Sources such as muster rolls and refugee lists are important to anyone tracing Loyalist ancestry, as proof of an ancestor serving with the King's forces is almost essential. Petitions for free land grants by Loyalists (p. 377) often provide this evidence, but petitions seldom mention an identifying property description (p. 378). Lists such as the Crown Lands ("Old") UE List and the Executive UE List are also omitted, and we doubt that these are unknown at the FHL.

From Township Papers (p. 378) one cannot "obtain" an identifying property description since this information is first needed to access the source. It is not necessary to know a "second proprietor's" name to access the second set of Heir and Devisee Commission records (p. 378). The first set of records has greatly varying material - very little for some Districts - and can not be considered comprehensive. In fact this series does not contain, for the most part, the actual files that the Commission created for individual cases. The most successful results with the second set of records is when the (alphabetically arranged by surname) applicant had the same surname as the sought ancestor, e.g. a son. These are files and records of the actual hearings. If a non-related party applied for title to the particular property, then it is useful to know a second or later claimant's name. The first series will not always provide this, and Township Papers again can be useful then. However it would be just as useful and quicker to consult the Ontario Land Records Index to see what name eventually received the patent, and check this name for a possible Heir and Devisee Commission file.

If credit is given to Bill Britnell for the series of published County Marriage Registers (mainly indexes; few contain abstracts) then acknowledgment should also be given to the equal or greater share done by Elizabeth Hancocks, UE, CG, co-owner of Generation Press. And although Upper Canada Marriage Bonds are available on microfilm 1803-1845, Thomas Wilson's Marriage Bonds of Ontario clearly states in the title that his abstracts end at 1834.

The Library has been greeted as one of the major reference works of this decade, and no one can quarrel with the concept and the intent. Might we suggest in the interests of all genealogists who respect the FHL and the book's editors, that not only hard proof-reading was absent, but that local consulting "readers" might have been used to catch errors and misconceptions?

Canada and the Maritime Provinces in Chapter 14, pp. 359-372

Reviewed by Terrence M. Punch, CG(C), author of Genealogical Research in Nova Scotia, 3rd rev. ed. (Halifax: Petheric Press Ltd., 1988). (Mr. Punch will lecture at the NGS Conference in St. Paul on the topic of research in the Atlantic Provinces.)

Canadians accept as a fact of life and with as good grace as they can muster the deficiency in United States education which leaves the typical American confused, misinformed or oblivious to Canada and things Canadian. Thus, one was not totally unprepared to find his country called the "Dominion" of Canada, even if the parenthesized word has not been in current use for over a decade.

The list of dates inspires no greater confidence, as Port Royal was founded in 1605. The given date, 1608, marks the more significant founding of Québec City. Using 1623 to represent the Scots presence in Nova Scotia is ill-chosen. The charter and naming of the province occurred in 1621, the arms and flag in 1625, a short-lived Scots colony 1629-32. The French loss of Canada took place between 1755 and 1760 when Montréal surrendered; until then, the French might well have recovered what they had lost the year before on the Plains of Abraham. It would be more accurate to speak of the expulsion of the Acadians, rather than of French settlers. By 1755, those families had been in Acadia for from forty-five to one hundred and twenty years. The arrival of the Loyalists began during the Revolution, with the 1776 evacuation of Boston, and continued into the 1790s if one takes into account the "late Loyalists" of Upper Canada. The island which forms part of Nova Scotia is Cape Breton.

Numbers seem to have played ducks and drakes throughout the section. The number of Loyalists to the Maritimes is 20,000 on page 359, but reaches a more nearly accurate 30,000 elsewhere. Why 1901 and 1951 population figures are used for Canada or its various provinces is misleading. One should have selected a more recent date (e.g., 1981 or 1986) and used it throughout, so that readers can form some common impression of the relative size of the several areas in terms of population. Without knowing when the text was actually written, it is possible that our Public Archives of Canada had not yet become the National Archives of Canada at the time. On page 363 we read that the British army left Canada in 1871. That was the date when withdrawal began, but it was in the first decade of this century that the last regiment left Halifax Citadel.

Bibliographies are not alphabetized, and the city in New Brunswick is pretty consistently spelled St. John and not Saint John, as is correct practice. This cannot be explained as a typographical error after the fashion of Katherine Mennie de Varennes (p. 362), Riel (p. 379), or Cataraqui (p. 375), or again Bell (p. 368), to cite a few that matter.

Canada has three Maritime Provinces. When Newfoundland is added these are collectively known as the Atlantic Provinces which is what the heading on page 366 should say. Equally shocking is the inclusion of British Columbia as a prairie province. If that is a prairie, I'd hate to see what we have for mountains and coastline in western Canada. Again in the Maritime section dates are tagged oddly. Is 1686 or 1636 meant for the arrival of those colonists from France? Were the Acadians expelled to Louisiana and France, or is that not where many of them wound up when some of the thirteen colonies to which they were consigned refused to accept them? The great New England migration to Nova Scotia ran from 1759 to the 1770s, and brought our population to about 20,000 (not 17,000 as on p. 367). The Scots reached Pictou in 1773 (not 1779).

Nova Scotia's counties were sometimes divided into townships, but not always. Moreover, the failure of the New England township system of local government to transplant into Nova Scotia is one of the important points in our political development. Nova Scotia has no Provincial Archives, just a Public Archives. The catalogue of Dr. Marble and my own newspaper vital statistics books were published, not by the Royal N.S. Historical Society, but by the Genealogical Association of that society. Moreover, my newspaper work has now been carried forward by Jean Holder to 1851 (p. 369). The holdings may not include the later volumes, but Miss Holder deserves credit as author of the work from 1823 onward, in any case.

New Brunswick's newspaper compilation was begun by the provincial genealogical society, but after volume five the compiler and publisher has been Danny F. Johnson, who should be given credit in the guide as such. On the Québec list of events, I wonder if the editors could not have found something important happening there between 1642 and 1759. There were les filles du roi, and there was the establishment of royal government, and there was Frontenac, to name a few notions at random. I thought the printer had no accents for French words until I looked at the charts on page 383 and spotted some accents there. It is too bad these weren't used throughout.

In Ontario, the Hudson's Bay Company (wrongly spelled on p. 379) cannot have founded a post in 1668, two years before it existed as a company. For the prairies, the Northwest Territory was sub-divided into four parts in 1882, but Alberta and Saskatchewan remained just territories until 1905 when they were united with Athabaska and Assiniboia, respectively, to form new provinces. Hence these provincial areas are in the census held in the library, but would form part of the appropriate territorial film.

All in all, the concept and presentation of the material is not the difficulty. The problem would seem to have been a failure of anyone to proofread the text carefully, or for anyone to look over the several parts of the Canadian section to detect the self-contradicting passages. It might have been useful to let a Canadian look at the Canadian part before printing it, or by having an American who knows Canada look at it. Despite these many criticisms I believe that the book will still be helpful for many who won't care about the dates of our historical events or whether we are a dominion any more. If one simply wants to know what resources are available in the LDS library for research in a certain geographical area, this book has something to offer. These flaws can be corrected in a later edition, as I hope such a publication will appear in due course. I sign myself as on page 368 and not as on page 369.

Canada and Québec
in Chapter 14, pp. 372-375
Reviewed by Joy Reisinger CGRS.

In addition to the errors noted by the above two reviewers, the chronology of history (p. 359) shows "1755-58 French defeated by the British; many French settlers are deported to France, Louisiana, and the American colonies." Has the author confused (or merged) the dispersion of the Acadians with the conquest of Québec? In which case, the range of dates should be 1752-1759. The French Canadian and Acadian Genealogical Review is shown as published from 1968-to date (p. 365). Publication ceased with the death of the editor, Roland Auger, in 1982. (This same lack of attention to detail appears on page 378 with the statement that T.B. Wilson's periodical, The Ontario Register is currently being published). The correct name of the river is the St. Lawrence (in English) or St-Laurent (in French), not St. Laurence (p. 365). The bibliography for Loyalist research (p. 366) should be arranged in alphabetical order by author.

I, too, wondered if Ancestry's printing equipment didn't allow for the French accents. However, they are used in the section on Western Europe. Just a few corrections to typos on these four pages are: Lachine Canal; Etat general des archives...; The Rivest index; Mont-Laurier;; Comtes de Montmagny; College du Sacre-Coeur; mariage; Commission de Toponymie Conseil executif Quebec; Vieilles familles. Such frequent occurrences of typos and spelling errors is disturbing and makes one question the accuracy of statements as well.

The author recommended C.M. Day's Pioneers of the Eastern Townships as a "helpful source concerning the settlers of the eastern townships." This is probably one of the least helpful books published on the subject.

A number of indexes were mentioned without credits to their creators. The Loiselle Index was created by Father Antonin Loiselle and the Rivest Index was created by Father Lucien Rivest. A third index (p. 373) is described as "records from the counties of Drummond, Sherbrooke, Stanstead, Richmond, Wolfe, Compton, Nicolet, Arthabaska, Megantic, and Frontenac. It includes marriages from the beginning of the parish registers up to 1970." A fourth index (p. 374) is described as "Protestant marriages, baptisms, and burials in the St. Francois Judicial District including the counties of Compton, Richmond, Stanstead, Wolfe, Sherbrooke and parts of Frontenac and Arthabaska can be found in the FHLC under Quebec/Church Records." Both descriptions intrigued me and sent me to the FHLC to learn where these are deposited. Both were created by the Société de généalogie des cantons de L'est and are housed in Sherbrooke. I think this should have been mentioned. It occurs to me that if this reference book (which it is) confuses someone who is quite familiar with Québec records and resources, it certainly will confuse other readers.

Québec land grants (p. 374) as published by Chrysostome Langelier in 1891 under the title List of Land Grants Made by the Crown 1763 to 1890 is credited as "Salt Lake City: Family History Library, 1964." However, I would not have known it was the same item if I didn't have a copy of the FHLC to consult. (Incidentally, the item in the FHLC incorrectly identifies the author as Chrysostome Langlois). Similarly, the Nominal Card Index for the Lower Canada Marriage Bonds is credited to the Genealogical Society of Utah, 1981. A statement should have been made that this index was created by the Public Archives of Canada.

Catholic priests have been required to deposit duplicate copies of the parish registers in the local archives ever since the disastrous fire in 1640, not since 1679 as stated on page 375.

The dot-charts on pages 383-384 list 73 Québec jurisdictions with no fewer than nine of them misspelled. This is an error rate of over nine percent. The correct spellings are: Abitibi, Bellechasse, Chateauguay, Deux-Montagnes, Matane, Mégantic, Portneuf, Rivière du Loup, and Timiscamingue. The French accents, which are absent in the text, are used in this list.

There were a few items mentioned that I had not known of and am eager to investigate, such as the Biographical File of the Canadian Baptist Historical Society (p. 375). Genealogists will find many sources and records mentioned in this book that were previously unknown to them, and will need to also use the FHLC in order to get a better description of the item. Unfortunately, some items, such as the 1904 "Public Archives" Report mentioned in Brenda's review, are very difficult to find. In fact, after over thirty minutes of looking, I gave up and called a reference librarian. The correct citation to the 1904 Report containing the list of dead officers and soldiers in the Rebellion, is Report Concerning the Canadian Archives for the Year 1904 (being an Appendix to the Report of the Minister of Agriculture), Sessional Paper #18, Canadian Archives Report (Ottawa: S.E. Dawson Printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty, 1905). This is different than the 1904 Report concerning settlement in Ontario from 1763 to 1791. That book's citation is Second Report of the Bureau of Archives for the Province of Ontario by Alexander Fraser, Provincial Archivist, 1904, Printed by order of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario (Toronto: L.K. Cameron, Printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty, 1905). Even armed with this correct information, I was unable to find either work in the FHLC. Anyone who has used the FHLC knows it can be difficult to understand the cataloguing system in some instances. Obviously, the author saw this card and it would have been quite simple to add the information about where it can be found.

Overall, the book is a disappointment. It is hoped that a new edition is planned for early publication. It could be a very valuable reference source, in addition to assisting the researcher to use the FHL and Branches efficiently. Genealogists are taught to evaluate their sources. This becomes very difficult when the source isn't identified, or is incorrectly identified.

France and Luxembourg

in Chapter 22, "Western Europe," by Kory L. Meyerink, pp. 620-623, 629-630

The comments in this review were made by John Magerus, Ph.D., Professor of French and also of French Civilization at the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse. Dr. Magerus has researched on-site in both France and Luxembourg (and also in Québec) and several times at the Family History Library in Salt Lake City. He will speak on the topics of both Luxembourg and Québec genealogy at the NGS Conference in St. Paul. His critique should prove informative and instructive.

In the year 800, Charlemagne was crowned Holy Roman Emperor (not King of France). Also on page 620, the statement is made that the ancestors of today's French people are the Franks and other Germanic tribes. The Gauls (Gallo-Romans) are not mentioned although they are the ancestors, not the Franks. It is stated that there was a "steady flow of emigrants to America, and elsewhere, from the 1600s to 1900" (p. 620 and again on p. 622). In fact, there was very little emigration from France to North America when the percentage of the total population is considered. On the other hand, the statement is made (p. 630) that "emigration from Luxembourg has been minor, chiefly to the larger cities of Europe and to America." Is 1/4-1/3 of the population considered minor? And, these emigrants settled chiefly in rural areas.

It is not true that virtually every town in France had a Catholic parish (p. 621). Researchers will often have to locate their small town on a map and then look for the nearest one that had a church.

It is unfortunate that the only book cited under the topic of history is one of the worst published. The author, André Lévêque, managed to write a 600-page history of France with scarcely a date mentioned. Citations to books under Biography and Genealogy and also under Nobility are incorrectly written.

The author has good knowledge of the records of France, how they were created and how to use them. This aspect of the guide should serve the researcher well.

Our French Canadian Ancestors Vol. VII, Thomas J. Laforest, translator. (Palm Harbor, FL: The LISI Press, 1988). Soft cover, 6" x 9", xi-293 pp., indexed, $14.00 postpaid. Order from LISI Press, Box 1063, Palm Harbor, FL 34682. This volume, as with Vol. VI, is authored by Jacques Saintonge and contains maps of France under the old regime and under the Republic. The explanation of the Quebec judicial system under the French Regime is continued with a story about the Sovereign Council. Biographical sketches are of René Baudouin, Vincent Boissonneau dit Saintonge, Christophe Crevier, Pierre Deshayes, Francois Dessureaux dit LeBourguignon et Laplante, Jean Doyon, Charles Dutard, Bertrand and Francois Fafard, Pierre Guillet dit Lajeunesse, Louis and Francois Hamelin, Louis Houde, Jean Joubin dit Boisvert, Gabriel-Nicolas Lefebvre dit Lataille, Jean Lepelé dit Desmarets, Hilaire Limousin dit Beaufort, Nicolas Millet dit Marandais, Antoine Pépin dit Lachance, Alexandre Raoul, Pierre Tousignant dit Lapointe, and Gilles Trottier. The series of name variations continues with surnames beginning with D. Any serious Quebec researcher will want to own all of the volumes, not just the one containing a story about the direct-line ancestor. We receive an equal heritage from our female ancestors, and by the time we get each line back to the immigrant from France, we are likely to have one ancestor in each volume.

Corrections & Additions to Arsenault's Histoire et Genealogie des Acadiens, Janet B. Jehn. (Covington, KY: Janet B. Jehn, 1988). Soft cover, 8 1/2" x 11", staple binding, 138 pp., $19.95 postpaid from the author at 863 Wayman Branch Road, Covington, KY 41015. Ever since Bona Arsenault's Histoire et Généalogie des Acadiens, 6 vols. (Ottawa: Editions Leméac Inc., 1978) was published, readers of Acadian Genealogy Exchange have sent the results of their research to its editor, Janet Jehn. Throughout the ten-year interval she has published this information in her quarterly. Now, she has gathered it all together, with additional material, in one book for the convenience of Acadian genealogical researchers. In many instances, the source of the information is cited. This work should be a great aid in untangling the often gnarled roots of Acadian family trees.

The following books are all available from Genealogical Publishing Co. Inc., (GPC) 1001 North Calvert Street, Baltimore, MD 21202-3897. Shipping is $2.50 for the first book, $1.00 each additional book. Orders totalling $10.00 or less, allow $1.25 for one book. Maryland residents add 5% sales tax; Michigan residents add 4% sales tax.

Irish and Scotch-Irish Ancestral Research A Guide to the Genealogical Records, Methods and Sources in Ireland, Margaret Dickson Falley, B.S., F.A.S.G. 2 vols. (Strasburg, VA, 1962; reprint GPC, 1988). Hardbound, 5 1/2" x 8 1/2", 813 + 354 pp., indexed, $60.00 the set. My only brush with Irish genealogical research, other than hearing researchers moan, was in working to finish Steve Gilmour's Campbell family genealogy. He considered Margaret Falley the absolute authority on the subject. Milton Rubincam reviewed the first edition in the NGSQ (National Genealogical Society Quarterly) and said "it will be the standard authority on the subject of genealogical research in Ireland for many years to come." That's good enough for me! Indeed, the list of people credited with assisting her is impressive. She obviously learned from the best. Volume one is a guide which covers preliminary research in the United States, the record repositories in Ireland, and the types of records created. Holdings of repositories are described with the dates of coverage and existence of indexes. Included are genealogical collections, published indexes, and printed sources available in Ireland and the United States. The majority of both volumes would apply to the Irish in Canada as well. Volume two is a bibliography of family histories, pedigrees, and source materials published in book and periodicals. Obviously, more has been published since 1962. I can't imagine anyone seriously wanting to trace their Irish ancestors without using Falley's guide.

Catholic Trails West: The Founding Catholic Families of Pennsylvania Volume 1 St. Joseph's Church, Philadelphia (1733), Edmund Adams and Barbara Brady O'Keefe. (Baltimore: GPC, 1988). Hardbound, 6" x 9", vii-341 pp, $30.00. This is the first of a two-volume set covering the years 1715-1815, and it deals with the largest parish. Volume 2 will cover parishes at Conewago, Goshenhoppen, Lancaster, Loretto, and St. Vincent's in Westmoreland County. Families are arranged alphabetically by surname and there is no index to maiden names or other people mentioned. Thus, one is not able to construct family groups, which is essential to research. Ethnic groups represented are very diverse and run the gamut from French-Canadians to Irish to Germans, and comments in the registers often identify a specific origin. John Charles Boutin who was married to a woman named Pelagia and had a child named John Baptist baptised August 1776 is almost certainly a French-Canadian. There also are non-Catholic families in the registers, including Quakers. The introduction and a chapter on the parish of St. Joseph are well done, but the reduced dot-matrix appearing print is very hard to read. I hope a better typeface is chosen for Volume 2. The Appendices are a list of Acadians found in the registers as well as lists of parishioners from missions in New Jersey, Chester County and Delaware County. There is a two-page bibliography, but it is not necessarily a bibliography of sources used to compile this work, nor are there specific citations to the sources. The advertising flyer states that material was taken "from original and printed parish registers in the possession of the American Catholic Historical Society." However, I cannot find this statement in the book. Rather, on page vi of the introduction, there is the following statement. "The children listed may not necessarily be the children of the indicated parents and the date shown may not be the actual date of birth, but rather the baptismal date. Some entries were confusing, so please use the compilations with caution. For verifying information on your ancestor, you are referred to the original parish records found in the volumes of the American Catholic Historical Society, which are available in many libraries." The bibliography states those registers were published in vols. 1-20 (1884-1909) but does not give the range of years covered. Unfortunately, the authors did not include important information that appears in the published registers (which are not the originals, but a transcript of them) such as baptismal sponsors and witnesses at a marriage. Such information was at hand - why didn't they include it? An example is found on page 182 with the LeBlanc families. "Alexis, son of Charles, married Anna Dendon 10 Feb 1763. p. Claude and ... Dendon." (The p. abbreviation is not defined anywhere. Abbreviations m. and c. are obviously married and child but are not defined.) "Marin married Isabella Vincent, both Acadians, 27 Jan 1763. (Their child) Mary Genevieve baptised 22 Feb 1764." This baptismal record, as published by the ACHS, shows one Charles LeBlanc as her godfather. This is strong evidence that Alexis and Marin may be brothers. Another LeBlanc family is also listed, with a child born in the same time era. However, the list of 10 Acadian families on page 336 only has "Marin LeBlanc m Isabella Vincent." There are many more - these were apparently the only ones identified as such in the records. If you find your family in Catholic Trails West, do consult the original records or at least, those published by ACHS for more information. They are arranged chronologically which can often help identify family groups. An index to vols. 1-31 (1886-1920) was published in 1942, and for vols. 32-41 (1921-1930) in 1956. I hope that when the authors prepare vol. 2 of this Pennsylvania reference series, they will be more precise about sources and abbreviations, more complete with their abstracts, and use a better typeface. The idea of such a publication is a good one, but this volume falls a bit short of the mark.

Do's and Don'ts for Ancestor-Hunters, Angus Baxter.(Baltimore: GPC, 1988). Soft cover, perfect binding, 5 1/2" x 8 1/2", 115 pp., $10.95. This is basically another how-to-do-genealogical-research book. Even experienced researchers may find something they have overlooked or forgotten. The strongest feature is the encouragement he gives to the researcher who is ready to give up with their "brick-wall" line. There are chapters about the LDS sources, civil registration, church registers, censuses, wills and other sources broken down into regions such as the United States, Canada, England and Wales, Scotland, Ireland, France, and Germany. Reference is frequently made to his other books and books published by GPC that will have more detail on a particular subject. The final chapter is an example of a family history and is the story of his Baxter family. There are no citations nor sources given, and I wouldn't consider this the best example to follow. Mr. Baxter is an entertaining writer and has some sound advice. The book won't mislead you and has its value; it is better than some of the small guides that have been ground out. However, if you only have one research guide, I would recommend Val D. Greenwood's The Researcher's Guide to American Genealogy, also published by GPC in 1975, or the very readable Shaking Your Family Tree by Ralph Crandall, available from the New England Historic Genealogical Society and in many bookstores.

Genealogical Periodical Annual Index: Key to the Genealogical Literature, Karen T. Ackermann, compiler and Laird C. Towle, Ph.D, editor. Vol. 26, 1987. (Bowie, MD: Heritage Books, Inc., 1988). Hardbound, 5 1/2" x 8 1/2", 266 + xviii pp., $17.50 plus $2.50 shipping. Heritage Books, 1540E Pointer Ridge Place, Bowie, MD 20716. 272 periodicals published in 1987 are indexed in this volume. Queries are not indexed but articles and book reviews are. Source articles are indexed by topic, i.e. the names appearing in Lost in Canada?, vol. 13, #IV (Nov 1987) in that installment of "St. Andrew's Presbyterian, Ottawa, Ontario Register 1829-1881" are not indexed, but the article is. It appears as "CANADA, Ontario, Ottawa, Saint Andrew's Pres Ch marr 1829-1881 & bapt 1829-1873." It is followed with each volume number, issue, and beginning page of the article in that issue. This is a work that I haven't used to the fullest extent, but I will in the future. For example, I found reference to a book review in the NGSQ that I had missed. It is a book I would like to buy. Articles on methodology are indexed under that topic. Names in the index are of persons who were the subject of a family history, a genealogy, a book, or an article. I am puzzled by one entry: "Sacramental records of the Roman Catholic Church of the Archdiocese of New Orleans 1718-1750, vol. 1, book review in Kinfolks, Southwest Louisiana Genealogical Society." This is indexed under CATHOLIC rather than LOUISIANA, New Orleans. However, these valuable volumes should be in every reference library - and used.

The History of Stanstead County Province of Quebec With Sketches of More Than Five Hundred Families, B.F. Hubbard, compiler. (Montreal: Lovell Printing & Publishing Company, 1874; reprint ed., Bowie, MD: Heritage Books, Inc., 1988). Soft cover, 5 1/2" x 8 1/2", 390 pp., $20.00 plus $2.50 shipping per order. Order from Heritage Books, Inc. as above. The original title begins with Forests and Clearings and continues with the above. The original edition had a very incomplete index which has been improved in the reprint. However, the reader needs to carefully read the introduction to the index in order to use it most fully. As with any county "mug books," the genealogical information must be used as clues, not as fact. The majority of the pioneers of Stanstead County arrived from New England early in the 1800s to the towns of Stanstead, Hatley, Magog, Barnston, Coatickook (sic) and Barford. Mr. Hubbard was one of the last surviving pioneers and he provides birth, marriage and death information about the families. The information is from his memory and memories of family members, and should be used with appropriate caution. With a dearth of vital records from this area, histories are often the only source for beginning genealogical research.

The Loyalists of Massachusetts and the other side of the American Revolution, James H. Stark. (Boston: W.B. Clarke Co., 1910; reprint Heritage Books, 1988). Soft cover, 5 1/2" x 8 1/2", vii-509 pp., indexed, $35.00 plus $2.50 shipping from Heritage Books as above. The first portion of the book is a history of the events prior to and during the Revolutionary War, especially as it affected people in Massachusetts (which included present-day Maine). Included is the "Banishment Act of the State of Massachusetts" listing those who were forbidden to return to the state as of the Fall of 1778. This section mentions sources and has occasional footnotes. There are chapters about the expulsion of the Loyalists and the settlement of Canada, and the later War of 1812 and the attempted conquest of Canada, and even continues with the Civil War and the part taken by Great Britain. The balance of the book is biographies of about one hundred Loyalists. Some sources are cited, but not all, and each biography will need close scrutiny. A footnote that states "Dealings with the Dead, p. 510" may mean something to someone (or even a lot of people) but it means nothing to me. However, the biographies are certainly better than the average county "mug book." There is a one-page list in the back of the book of Loyalists of Massachusetts whose names or biographies are not included in this book. I do believe the book is a worth-while reference source on the subject and one that researchers should consult. Although your direct ancestor in Massachusetts may not be a Loyalist, a close relative may have been.

Please write and ask for a flyer. It will include all registration information. This is only the program portion.

Accommodations and Attractions

Conference activities will take place within two large downtown conference centers. Minutes' walk from either is St. Paul's park-like Town Square and Town Center complex where eating and shopping opportunities range from the quick and inexpensive to the relaxed and elegant. All this is connected by a convenient air-conditioned skyway system allowing safe and easy indoor access to most downtown restaurants and shops.

Host Hotels. St. Paul's newly renovated Radisson Hotel will be the 1989 Conference headquarters, offering special reservation rates through 25 April 1989 as follows: $59 (single), $69 (double), and $15 (each extra). Rooms have also been reserved at nearby cohost Holiday Inn Town Square: $55 (single or double), $65 (triple or quad), and at Civic Center Inn, a bit farther away: $41 (single), $47 (double). Hotel preregistration information will be sent upon receipt of your conference registration form.

There are a total of four restaurants in the two host hotels and arrangements are being made for cash continental breakfast service for those who wish a quick and inexpensive alternative.

Airlines. Northwest, with headquarters in the Twin Cities, is offering special discounts to conference guests. Information necessary to obtain these discounts will be sent on receipt of your conference registration form.

Sightseeing/Entertainment. Special tours and activities are planned for accompanying family members who wish to sample a wide variety of recreational opportunities.

Research Opportunities. Ramsey County's Courthouse is just across the street, Hennepin County's a 20-minute drive across town. Minnesota Historical Society's Library is a brief taxi or bus ride away, with its separate Archives building a 10-minute drive up the northbound Interstate. Don't forget the State Historical Society of Wisconsin on your way to or from the conference. Neither these repositories nor the numerous other area research opportunities can handle conference-level numbers at one time. Please plan extra time and preparation to get the maximum benefit from your visit!

Hearing Impaired. Interpreter service will be available for those who wish to use it. Please check the special line on the registration form so we can estimate the number of volunteer interpreters needed.

Special Prizes for Early Registration. Names of the first two hundred people to register for the conference by mail will be entered into a drawing for prizes that may include free Northwest Airline tickets.

Recreational Opportunities

Tour No. 1

Minnesota's Beautiful Capitol Complex. Tour Minnesota's sparkling Capitol and surroundings from the comfort of an air-conditioned bus.
Wednesday, 10:00 a.m.-12:00 noon.

Tour No. 2

St. Paul's Historic Homes. Experience Minnesota's turn-of-the-century elegance as you visit some of the capital city's finest old homes at close range. Includes the Ramsey, Faribault, and Hill mansions.
Thursday, 10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.

Tour No. 3

Historic Fort Snelling. Walk through living history in Ft. Snelling as it might have looked in the 1800s. Established in 1820, it was for many years the farthest northwest post of the U.S. Army and still commands a strategic and scenic position near the confluence of the Mississippi and Minnesota Rivers.
Friday, 10:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

Tour No. 4

Old World Experience. Spend a day in New Ulm, Minnesota, to experience Old World German Culture at its best. A close second to Oktoberfest, with eating opportunities second to none.
Saturday, 8:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.

Tour registration and fees will be handled directly with the tour agency. Full information will be mailed to all conference registrants. Information on other recreational opportunities will be provided in the registration packet.

Computer-Aided Genealogy Learning Center

NGS/CIG and other computer interest groups will present a series of computer-aided genealogy sessions on Wednesday. Trained instructors with appropriate equipment will offer small group lectures followed by hands-on lab time. A valuable take-home package will be distributed. All this requires special fees, and attendance must be strictly limited. Space will be assigned on a first-come first-served basis, so please register early for these sessions. The pairs of sessions at a fee of $10.50 per pair are:

Introduction to Personal Computers and DOS (Sessions W-1 and W-3)
Introduction to WordPerfect (Sessions W-2 and W-5)
Introduction to dBASE III+ (Sessions W-4 and W-14)
Working WordPerfect with dBASE III+ and Vice Versa (Sessions W-13 and W-22)
The Best of Utilities (Sessions W-21 and W-29)
