President's Message

The eleventh year of the Saginaw Genealogical Society is rapidly coming to an end.

Membership reached an all-time record of 290 for this 1982-3 year. This is an indication to me that the society is successfully meeting the needs of the members.

Attendance at all our meetings has continued to break old records. This is a tribute to our program chairman, Barbara K. Tuck and her speakers for the year. Thank you, Barb, and your speakers.

Workshop I was attended by 31 students and was a most informative and enjoyable day for everyone. Thanks to chairman Diane Prout.

Workshop II was attended by 28 students. Once again, I'm happy to report an informative and enjoyable day for everyone. Thanks to Chairman Alice Schiesswohl.

The eleventh Annual Seminar was held 30 April 1983 at the Bavarian Inn in Frankenmuth. Our speaker, Meredith B Colket, Jr., was a most knowledgeable and informative speaker. Those in attendance enjoyed this very special day. A special thank you from myself to our chairmen, Gertrude Peabody and Diane Prout, for all the time and work they freely gave to our society, to make this very special event a huge success. The day was a success educationally, financially and socially.

It has been a pleasure serving as your president this past year. I would like to say a special thanks to each member of my Executive Board, Committee Chairmen and to all those who served in any capacity to help make this year so successful.

I found a wonderful spirit of cooperation and assistance that enabled our workshops, Seminar and regular meetings to be organized and carried out smoothly and efficiently. This was accomplished only by the long hours of planning by various society members who all contributed their time and efforts so generously. Thanks again for being on the team.

A special Ethnics Workshop is presently being planned for next fall. Chairmen for this event will be Diane Prout and Alice Schiesswohl. More details will be announced later.

I hope everyone has a most enjoyable summer. We look forward to next year's activities. See you in the fall!

Pat Anker
President

CHESANING WILDWOOD CEMETERY SUPPLEMENT #2

After all cards were compared with the original reading, many were left. As these were also burials, and for which most had no markers, they are here listed as well as section and lot number in cemetery. If a name is out of sequence, it means that name was recorded with the preceding surname. Any listing in this supplement can be checked at Chesaning

Programs in Review

Leland R. Watrous

Our meeting of 14 Feb 1983 featured Society member Dr Richard Mudd speaking on "The medical Aspects of Lincoln's Assassination", noting that few events in American history have had such a dramatic impact upon the American people. When people hear the term "medical aspects" they think only of Dr Samuel Mudd, but there at least 25 other doctors who had been involved, in one way or the other. Dr Mudd stated that both John Wilkes Booth and his father had exhibited pathological traits which filled them with grandiose ideas and bizarre interests; this later developed into paranoia. A question has arisen in light of the assassination, is how long Lincoln might have lived, if not for the fatal shot. Lincoln had Marfans Syndrome, an inherited disease, which also produces high intelligence. One authority has stated that Lincoln had only about six months or less to live and had a defective heart, and would either have died from this heart ailment or become physically and mentally disabled. The shot by Booth into Lincoln's head above the left ear, resulted in Lincoln's death at 7:22am on 15 April 1865. The slow moving, heavy derringer missile caused a wound, which while, fatal, permitted Lincoln to survive nine hours. An Army doctor, the first on the scene, found Lincoln not breathing, placed him on the floor and gave mouth to mouth resuscitation. He was then removed to a private house across the street. The doctors kept the wound open and bleeding; when brandy and water were administered, it was found that Lincoln could not swallow. All Lincoln's clothes were removed to look for other wounds, although there were no signs. Doctors who have studied his wounds, state that even with modern surgery, his life could not have been saved. Five hours after death, an autopsy was performed. Other injuries at the time were the stabbing of a Major in Lincoln's booth and the broken leg of Booth. Dr Mudd also spoke of the injury to Booth's leg and later the gunshot wound which finally killed him 26 April 1865.

The speaker for the meeting of 14 March 1983 was Lawrence E Glynn, Jr, associate professor of History at Delta College, speaking on "Some things about the Civil War that we did not see in Gone With The Wind or The Blue And the Gray". Mr Glynn discussed some of his family history relating to the Civil War and noted that many Irish and of Irish descent and Afro-American served in the US Navy during that conflict. Although society was segregated, the Navy was not. The Army, however, did retain segregation. Both of the groups exhibited fervent patriotism, despite being rivals for unskilled jobs in Civilian life. Professor Glynn showed enlistment records from Erie, PA for the Navy in March 1862, including his great grandfather John Sweeny. One quarter of the Navy, during the Civil War were black or of African descent. Whites were attracted to the Army because of bounties which were paid-the Navy paid $10 per month to start while the Army paid only $2. Mr Glynn went through the job titles available in the Navy, including the fact that many blacks served as pilots, a rating equal to that of commissioned officer. This was in direct contrast to the Anti-Draft Riot of New York City when rampaging Irish killed large numbers of blacks. After the war, those who had served well together in service, went back to their same racially-motivated behavior.

Dorr Wiltse, Society member from Caro spoke at the 9 May 1983 meeting on "Writing and Publishing a Family History" told us that although he has completed a family history, he still does not consider himself a genealogist. He had started in 1952, without all the present-day help which is now available, and finished his book for publication in 1980, because he got side-tracked along the way. His reasons for the project were partly to satisfy himself and family and also present to the public for sharing. Mr Dorr gave a number of anecdotes regarding his activities in genealogical research which proved why he is so popular as a speaker. He suggested that to start compiling a family history, a person should collect and write down all family stories and anecdotes that can be recalled, before relatives can slip away. A good place to start proving out the stories and information would well be the Eddy Room of our local library, or possibly a larger library, such as the Burton Collection in Detroit. When writing down the history, try for accuracy and truthfulness.
