Dwelling Part Of Fort Saginaw

SAGINAW'S OLDEST RESIDENCE

In a history truly representative of America's famous "melting pot" tradition, the story of this home begins when the red man lived here, progresses to a French-Canadian blacksmith, continues with a staunch German settler, an immigrant Italian to its present day owners Neil & Dawn Denzer.

Built in the earliest days of "Sagana" by the U.S. Government, the home's earliest recorded occupant was a French-Canadian blacksmith Benjamin Cushway, who was born in Grosse Pointe, February 7, 1810. The son of John B. Cushway. After working his father's farm until the age of 17, he spent seven years learning the trade of blacksmith under the direction of an early Saginawian, Harvey Williams. In 1834 he received an appointment from Governor Lewis Cass as Indian blacksmith at Fort Saginaw.

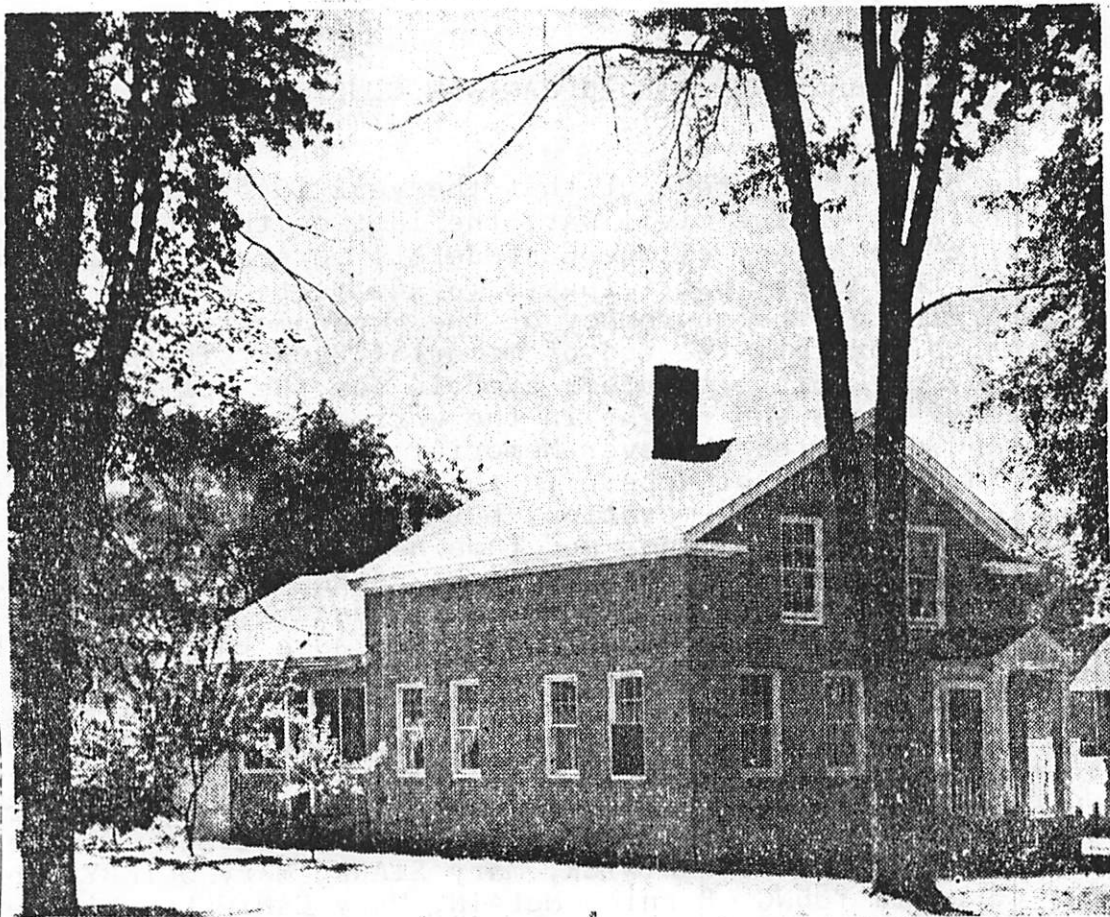

The blacksmith's home occupied by Cushway faced the blockhouse and other buildings which were erected as the stockade of old Fort Saginaw in 1822.

Cushway eventually became a very wealthy farmer and had a large family. Nine sons and five daughters. He died in 1881 in Bay County.

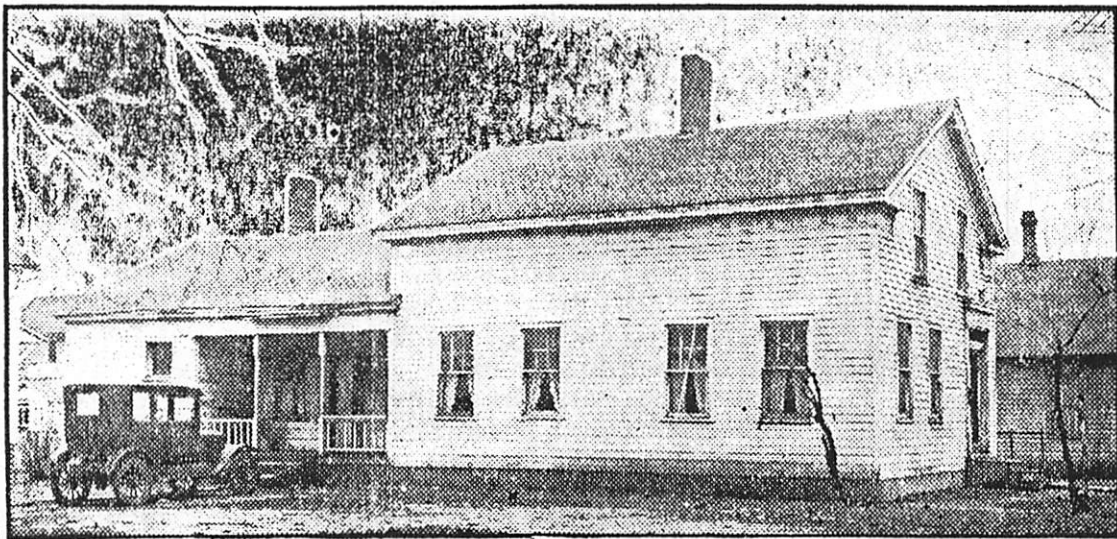

During the time that Cushway lived in the house it was also used as a church by a Detroit Catholic priest who visited the settlement once a month. Holding services for both white and Indian.

In 1850 Jacob Vogt, an early grocer and farmer, lived in the building for a while before the sale of various plats in the fort area made it necessary to move the building. The house was moved in 1869 to the S.E. corner of Perry and Fayette.

During the 1920's Mr. Samuel Nacarto and his family became tenants and eventually purchased the residence from the Vogt estate in 1928. In 1967 Mrs. Nacarto was still living in the house. The owners today are Mr. & Mrs. Neil Denzer.

OLDEST HOUSE IN THE CITY? This two-story frame dwelling at 1406 South Fayette is reputed to be the oldest structure in the city, dating back to the days of Fort Saginaw. The building has been remodelled, above, by its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nacarto. The lower picture was taken in 1934. It is structurally sound. (Saginaw News Photo).

FULL ROSTER OF THOSE WHO LIE IN SAGINAW CEMETERIES

"Some one has figured out that the year 1945 will see the last of the survivors of the civil war; the last of the "Grand Army of the Republic"; the last of the Confederate veterans in the South; the last of the active participants in and sufferers from that great struggle for the supremacy of the government. But no one has sought to foretell the end of Memorial Days. The G.A.R. marker and flag may give place to other symbols for the designation of the graves of those who fought in the wars. Their graves will yet be known and decorated whenever Memorial Day rolls round. The veterans in blue may not appear in the parades nor be represented in the exercises of commemoration; but their memories will be cherished, their lives, deeds and fame honored then as now. The fires of patriotism will continue to be rekindled by the placing of wreaths upon the graves of our soldier dead, the narration of their battles, their heroic deeds and the cause that called them forth to war."

"The graves in Brady Hill and Calvary cemeteries were yesterday marked by flags, and a potted plant placed at each. The work was done by Mrs. Mary MORGAN, president of woman's Relief Corps, No. 57, of Saginaw post, and the executive committee: Frances NEWEL, Mary TATER, Rose HARTWICK, Mary STARK, Mary QUINBY, Enie MORGAN, Cornelia YOUNG, Bernice McLAIN, Mary CANTWELL, Libbie TERRY, Jane BRIMINGSTALL, Frances WINSTON, Mrs. WILSEY, Emma VANCE, Tillie BORTELL, Anna LEATHERS.

The roster of the soldier and sailor dead in the East and South Side cemeteries are as follows:"

NEW YORK RESEARCH

One of your most needed references is French's Gazetteer of the State of New York. It gives you the genealogy of each county. Out of state people refer to this continually to locate places and to decide which county a place was in as of a certain date. For example:

Parent County	Counties removed in whole or part
ALLEGANY	Genesee 1811 Livingston 1846 and 1856 Wyoming 1846
GENESEE	Allegany 1806 Cattaraugus 1808 Chataqua 1808 Niagara 1808 Livingston 1821 Monroe 1821 Orleans 1824 and 1825 Wyoming 1841
ONTARIO	Steuben 1796 Genesee 1802 Livingston 1821 Monroe 1821 Wayne 1823 Yates 1823
STEUBEN	Allegany 1808 Ontario 1814 Livingston 1822 Yates 1824 Schuyler 1854

Dates of Formation of a few counties:

Ontario	1789
Steuben	1796
Allegany	1806
Livingston	1821
Monroe	1821
Erie	1821
Yates	1823
Chemung	1836

These dates are important when you look for census records, and when you look into census data. If several members of a family seem to be born in different counties, it is possible that some of these counties were formed after the dates of other siblings' births.

Towns in the early years had different boundaries. For example, French tells us that Nunda and Ossian were formed from the town Angelica in 1808. Angelica at one time included about 49 town plots. Allegany county was divided into five towns. The town of Nunda included Eagle, Pike, Genesee Falls, Portage, Centerville, Hume, Granger, and Grove. Note that these towns in the present day are in three counties. Grove was formed from Nunda in 1827. Granger was formed from Grove in 1838. Pike was formed from Nunda in 1818. Centerville was formed from Pike in 1819.

Hume was formed from Pike in 1822. Eagle was formed from Pike in 1823. Portage was formed in 1827. Genesee Falls was formed from Pike and Portage in 1846.

QUERIES

Marcia K. BOURDEAU, 7720 Lakeshore, Port Huron, Mi 48059
Is looking for any information on:

Ellen E. Pratt b. June 22, 1843 in Oakland County, Mi married Charles H. Miller b. Jan. 5, 1837. She lived in Saginaw and Tuscola Counties. He is buried in Tuscola County but I can't find any death information on her. Don't know who her parents were.

I would appreciate any help or suggestions.

Marcia Bourdeau

In The Northland

*Oh the sun shines bright and the world is white
And the wind blows cold from the north.
It is time to go where the ice and snow
Hold a thrill if we will go forth.
Where the ax swings free, and the proud old tree
Comes to earth with a mighty roar.
Where a hearty song speeds the work along,
And a man is a man once more.*

*Oh the north wind blows, and the drifting snow
Brings a thrill and a zest to the game.
There is work to do, there is danger too,
But to fear puts a man to shame;
For the sun shines bright and the world is white,
And the forest is calling me;
It is time to go to the land of snow,
Where the Heart of man is free, is free;
Where the heart of a man is free.*

Excerpts from the "Saginaw Cook Book" published in 1908.

Helpful Hints

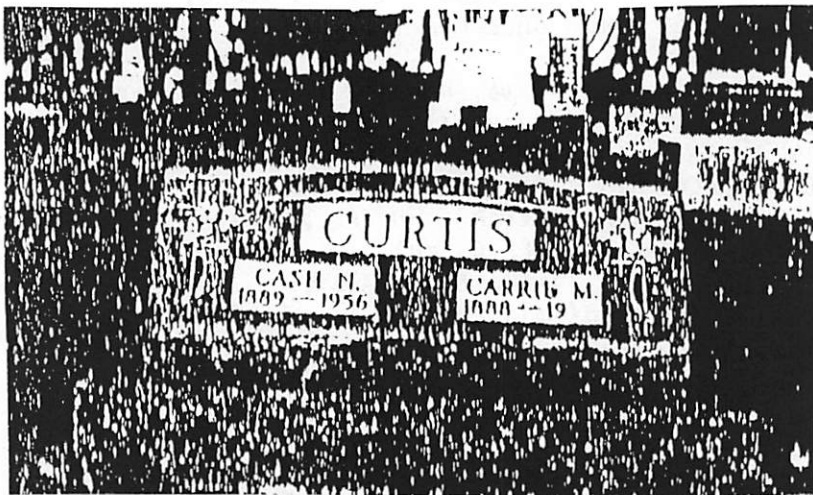

Hair Tonic & Restorative: Two ounces Jamaica Rum, 6 oz. bay rum, 1/2 oz. Glycerine, 40 grains Quinine. Mix and apply to the roots of the hair once a day.

To Remove Iron Rust: Mix fine salt and cream of tarter; moisten with water, lay on stain and expose to the sun. Repleat application if necessary

Gretchen Solesby and Lorna Rahn while doing some research in Virginia and North Carolina found this in the "Early Virginia Wills".

Son John, 440 acres in his possession, also "throw to my son" the land situated for cultivation up the hollow from his shuga camp. (April 1819 James Overton)
