EARLY CLARK COUNTY PEOPLE

AMOS MEADE and ESTHER CLARK SHORT

To give the history of the Amos Short family is to give much of the very earliest history of the city of Vancouver. The city of Vancouver City - also known as Columbia City for a short period - was platted and recorded several times. Because Clark County Pioneers: A Centennial Salute contains an excellent biography of the Short pioneers, this report concentrates less on family details and includes more pioneer names than a usual biography. At the right is a photocopy of Esther Clark Short.

Arriving in Oregon Territory at Fort Vancouver on Christmas Day 1845, Amos and Esther Short had traveled by wagon train from St. Joseph, MO. On 1 Sep 1845, Grant Hall Short was born just three miles west of Fort Hall, ID, the tenth child of this family. Jerusha (then age 15 years) carried him on a pillow riding on horse back as the mountain trails were too rough for the baby to be bouncing around in the wagons.

When they reached the Cascades (rapids), part of the family came down the Columbia on barges that the Hudson's Bay Company (HBC) had sent up to help immigrants. HBC also gave immigrants many supplies at no charge, including giving a pint of flour per family member per day while staying at the fort. (At least during the time the Short family was at there.) Seven-year old Maxey rode horseback with the men driving the cattle to the end of the journey in the Columbia valley.

That winter the Shorts spent at Linnton (OR) - on Williamette near the present St. John's bridge - and in the spring Amos leased a place on Tualatin plains, raising a crop of wheat. In the fall of 1846, the US & Great Britain agreed on the northern boundary of the US and by 13 August the following year, Amos had made a provisional land claim in Vancouver, WA. The donation land claim was settled 8 Mar 1848 and shows the arrival date as 31 Dec 1845. It is probable that the family arrived at the fort on Christmas Day and the others on the 31st.

Both Amos and Esther had been born in Tioga Co., PA; Amos on 13 Apr 1810 and Esther on Christmas Eve 1806. Esther supposedly was one quarter Cherokee, one quarter Algonquin and may have been from the Six New England Nation. They were married there on 22 Nov 1829 and their first two children (Jerusha and Curtis) were born there before they moved on to Washtenaw Co., MI, where Drusilla and Amos Clark were born. They lived next in Whiteside Co., IL, where Samantha (Cymantha), Maxy B. "Maxie" (sometimes listed as Mary), Ira, Alfred D., and Elizabeth were born. Grant was born on the trip west and Esther M. was born in Linnton, OR, and Hannah Emeline was born in Vancouver, WA. Hannah, born 5 Sep 1850, was the first white child of American parents to be born within the city limits of Vancouver.

In 1849 there were few Americans in Clark District or Vancouver County of which part later became known as Clark County. Thus as an American citizen, Amos Short was out of necessity involved politically in the county's early government.

The court house was at Amos Short's and in the first term of Judge William Strong (who lived in Cathlamet) indictments were drawn against the following: Francois Pressie for manslaughter; Amos Short (when justice of the peace) and Marie Haggy were charged with selling liquor to Indians; Michael Burke for alleged murder; R. Shaughnessy, breaking open a house at night and assault, and David Parker (Washougal's founder) for assault with intent to kill. The first citizens of the county were rugged pioneers.

The original county records show this first entry: "Journal of county commissioners, Territory of Oregon, Clark County, Monday, July 1, 1850. Be it remembered that on this first day of July being the first Monday of said month in the year of our Lord 1850, Amos M. Short, John C. Allman, William Goodwin, and Richard H. Landsdale met at the house of R.H. Landsdale in said county, situated on the claim of Amos M. Short, one half mile below the place known as Fort Vancouver, in said county, whereupon the said Amos M. Short produced his commission as probate judge in for said county with his oath of office endorsed thereon as follows: 'The United States of America, territory of Oregon: To all to whom these presents came, greeting: Know ye, that Amos M. Short, having been duly elected judge of probate in and for the county of Clarke, in the territory of Oregon, to serve during the term provided by law, I Joseph Land, governor of the territory of Oregon, do hereby the said Amos M. Short, and fully authorize him to act as such judge of probate in all things according to law. Given under my hand this eleventh day of June, A.D. 1850, Joseph Lane.' (Also:) 'I, Amos M. Short, do swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and the organic laws of Oregon Territory, and of Clarke County, Oregon Territory. Amos M. Short. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22nd day of June, 1850. William M. King, Notary Public."

John C. Allman and William Goodwin produced commissions as probate judges, and R.H. Landsdale showed a commission and bond for clerk of probate. Amos was chosen presiding judge. A.G. Bolan was appointed bailiff for the session of court. (Andrew Jackson Bolon was Amos' son-in-law.)

Among the business of this first meeting, Forbes Barclay was granted a license for a ferry across the Columbia River at the upper landing at the Indian Village and fees and operating hours were set. Allman, Bolan, and David Parker were appointed to locate a public road from the North Bank of the Columbia River near the mouth of the Willamette to the house of Joseph Gibbons, one of the few American settlers in the county at that time. And the Dr. Richard H. Landsdale was appointed agent to lay out the town of Columbia City - later named Vancouver. (It is not clear if this is the second or third platting, Williamson and Fellows' plat being the first.)

The court also set salaries of various officials and found taxable property in Clark County to be $415,756 - most owned by Hudson's Bay Company. Amos was allotted $20 a month rental for the use of his house for the three days the county court met in it.

It was his American heritage that created problems for Amos. The Shorts had built a log cabin on the western portion of their claim near the Columbia because the timber was not so thick there and the land was easier to clear. However, the British crown were still contending for the land north of the Columbia and the Short family was caught by the politics of the time. At times the field of potatoes would be planted and HBC men would harrow the ground and plant wheat. They also tore down fences that the Shorts erected.

Then the British came when Amos was absent and gathered up Esther and the ten children and ferried them across to the Yankee side of the Columbia in a bateau manned by six men at the oars - some French, some Kanakas (Hawaiians). The family was rowed across the river to Switzler's (Hayden) Island or to Linnton and warned not to return. Samantha remembers it was night time and she was bare-legged, bare-footed and cold. The British apparently burned or tore down the cabin because Amos built a shack which he took by boat to Vancouver and but on the bank. Shelton, Kellogg, and Dr. Gardner (a minister) progressively occupied the shack, holding the claim for Williamson.

Amos C. Short did make a provisional land claim of 640 acres in Tuality Co., on the Willamette River, adjacent North of claim on which Lynton (Linnton) is situated; he stated that he intended personal occupancy 3 May 1847 but abandoned claim in favor of E.R. Scott on 4 Oct 1847 by request of Amos M. Short. (Amos C. would have been age 12 and unmarried, so this claim must have been Amos senior's.) It would be interesting to know why Amos had such a tenacity to hold onto the land near Ft. Vancouver.

For the Shorts did return. And the British caught the whole family unprepared one day and loaded them into a scow and they were set adrift on the Columbia without oars! When they returned in the spring of 1847, a log cabin was built and some newly arrived emigrants were hired to do slashing. One of the men was A.J. Bolon who married Jerusha. They met with further harassments. Once a man came to the cabin door and struck Esther with a heavy club.

Another time the British came again to evict the them, and Amos, warned by Reese Anderson, went with some men who were working for him met the men and ordered them to keep off his land. According to one report, the British continued on and they were again warned and did not stop so battle followed and Amos shot down two men: one a Kanaka and one a white man (Dr. Gardner), who according to one report exonerated him before he died.

The British arrested Amos, but Esther went to Major Hathaway and told him the British had arrested an American. Feeling that he would be convicted of murder if tried in the Vancouver area, Amos went to Hillsboro for an American trial. He took with him some of the men who had been working with him to testify upon his behalf and the jury acquitted him. The judge was reported to have remarked "The only trouble I find with you, Short, is that you didn't shoot more of them."

In still another British try to evict the Shorts when Amos was away, Esther met the leader, knocking him to the ground, convincing him that she was too brave to be evicted.

It should be noted that the original white settler of the land had been a long-time employee of Hudson's Bay Company, Francis Ermatinger, a Swiss emigrant to Canada. He had married Catherine Sinclair, niece of Mrs. John McLoughlin. In 1845 Joe McNamee attempted to jump claim and build a saloon on the land, however the British who opposed sale of liquor to Indians successfully evict him as a trespasser. (It is interesting to note that the first building on the Main Street of Vancouver was a saloon opened by Pete Ferguson.)

Later in 1845, Henry Williamson of Indiana claimed the site, recording it at the land office at Oregon. He built a cabin and had a man named Alderman live on the claim while he went back to marry. When he returned, he found Amos Short had jumped the claim and Williamson refused to relinquish the claim and with William Fellows built a cabin on the river (or overtook the one Amos claimed to have built). They employed P.W. Crawford to survey a townsite, platting 500 lots 50 X 100 feet on blocks 200 feet square.

This plat was recorded at Oregon City and named Vancouver City. But Williamson followed many that went to California in search of gold and left Fellows to hold the claim. The next spring Fellows went to California and hired a man named Kellogg to stay on the claim and Kellogg in turn went to California leaving the claim in the responsibility of Dr. Gardner who was hired to live on the claim. Either HBC men and Gardner went to evict Amos or Amos went to evict Gardner and in the dispute killed Gardner, reportedly in self defense.

At any rate, Amos ended up with the land and hired Israel Mitchell to survey over the same stakes still standing from the Crawford survey for Henry Williamson. The city name, however, was changed to Columbia City.

But Amos did not file this map. The donation land act provisions had just recently been passed by congress, so he took out the land as a DLC. The town site was then re-surveyed by the county commissioners. And Esther platted again (perhaps another section) after Amos died.

All of the Short family could talk Chinook -- a necessity for early days settlers when there were more Indians than whites. (Hannah) Emaline was injured around 1858 when she about 8 years old and confined to a wheel chair. The Craig's son at the fort was also crippled and Emaline was often invited up to play with him.

In the early 1850's the Short farm had produced bountiful potatoes and Amos took them to California where there was a gold rush going on to sell his produce for high value and purchase a stock of goods, intending to start a store in Vancouver. Returning from his second trip south, the ship Vandalia carrying him home sank on the treacherous Columbia River bar in Jan 1853. The law at that time decreed that the eastern half went to the widow and the western half to the surviving children and was thus divided into ten strips parallel north-and-south.

Esther rented segments of her land at first and then in 1855 platted the city of Vancouver up to Eighth street, giving the city an area now known as Esther Short Park and a long strip of waterfront for the city's perpetual use as a levee. The park may be the first dedicated park west of the Mississippi. The second building to be erected on Main Street was the Pacific House owned by Ester and was opened on July 4, 1854, with a big ball even though not yet finished. She built the Columbia Hotel (not clear if this is another building or a renaming of the Pacific House) at Second and Main. Esther had registered a brand: "E S" mark with crop off right ear and underbit out of left ear.

Esther Clark Short died on 28 Jun 1862. She indeed was a woman of courage, a quality much needed in settling down in early Clark County. She also needed that courage to continue raising her family when Amos left her widowed with so many children. She was first buried in the cemetery on the Military Reservation and now rests in the Old City Cemetery.

Family tradition indicates that Esther Clark Short was related to William Clark or Lewis and Clark fame. No proof has shown this yet, but two of her grandsons and a nephew were named William Clark, supposedly for this relative.

The land which the Shorts claimed had already gone through many trials of ownership. Even after Esther's death, the controversies continued for nearly two decades. Hannah Emaline Short was only eleven when she inherited her mother's property and through the various court battles lost most of the land. She even at one time sought to reclaim the land Esther had platted out for the park and levee, and the validity of this dedicated land met with various suits which were decided, appealed and reversed.

Because the other siblings were not named in Esther's will, several suits were presented to the courts. It was said that the name of Amos Short was mentioned daily in the county's court for twenty five years. This is probably not much of an exaggeration as the legalities of the claim was a long-drawn out process. The Catholic Mission claimed a part of the site, as well as Mrs. Thomas F. Biers and H.C. Morse who had even issued a warrenty deed to Judge George H. Williams. And scores or additional claims and conflicting claims were made by those who had purchased lots from alleged owners of the townsite.

It was not until October 30, 1877, that a patent was issued to the heirs of Esther Short. While it disposed of the conflicting interests, it renewed the fight among the heirs. The court house burned so the volumes that this conflict created have been lost. The uncertainty of land titles in the Vancouver area gave Portland the advantage of early growth for both areas were favorable metropolitan sites.

Many pioneer names connect with the Short family though marriage. Among them are: Andrew J. Bolan, J. Shockley, William Powers and James P. Sparks who married Jerusha; Silas Henry Burlingame who married Drusilla; Ann E. Smith and Josie L. Hardinger who married Amos Clark, Henry C. Morse who married Samantha; Alice M. Johnson what married Maxie; Loretta J. Lumison who married Alfred De Los; Elizabeth Jane Turner, Susan Durgan and Anne Elizabeth Delaney who married Grant; and Judge Andrew J. Lawrence who married Esther Matilda.

Esther Short Conway has shared a bit of the Short ancestry. She indicated that the Short and the Meades (Amos's middle name) were from New York state and many of the went to Pennsylvania and married girls of German descendant. "One brother, Ira," settled in Missouri where his five sons became pilots and captains on the Mississippi. Ira was presumed murdered for his team and wagon outfit when he went to the gold fields at Pike's Peak. Captain Allen Short indicated that many of the early kin were in the Revolutionary war.

Clark County Pioneers: A Centennial Salute contains more informtion about the descendants of Amos and Esther Short. Major sources for this article were Lockley's History of the Columbia River Valley from The Dalles to the Sea, Wojcik's The Brazen Overlanders of 1845, Emmeline Short's interview recorded in Told by the Pioneers, and various news clippings, family sheets, correspondence, land records, and other sources in the Short file. As with many histories, there are varying facts and conflicting information which adds interest to the report. At least four dates for the sinking of the Vandalia were given and, depending upon viewpoints, stories of the ownership of the land varied.

Tavern gone and so is Proebstel City

"Hier ist dein heim," John Proebstel told his wife, Angelina. "Here is your home."

Proebstel, who recently had immigrated from Germany with his widowed mother and two brothers and had crossed the nation by covered wagon, waved his arm over a grassy plain, toward a tree-covered mountain.

The year was 1852, and Proebstel was showing his bride where he intended to carve a home from the wilderness.

Now, 127 years later, the Proebstels are gone, but the name lingers on in the community which lies along Northeast Fourth Plain Road, about four miles east of Orchards.

"Don't say we're from Vancouver and don't say we're from Orchards," warned Fred Reeder, a longtime resident. "We're residents of Proebstel, and we're proud of it."

Proebstel can't even be called a wide spot in the road. Fourth Plain Road, a narrow and heavily traveled thoroughfare, doesn't widen one inch as it splits Proebstel.

"We tried to get a sign telling people they are passing through Proebstel," said Reeder, whose farm is located on the original John Proebstel donation land claim. "They told us we aren't big enough to rate a sign."

"There used to be a tavern down the street that had a big sign, Proebstel City. But, the tavern is gone now and so is the sign."

The name Proebstel is perpetuated in the community's lone church, the Proebstel Evangelical Free Church. The minister is the Rev. Clifford Emery, who is just beginning his second "tour of duty" at the church at 18702 N.E. Fourth Plain Road.

Reprinted with permission of Bob Beck

The first church on the site, Emery said, was a Methodist Episcopal denomination, the Lackamas ME Church, dedicated on Jan. 22, 1905.

This church disbanded after about 15 years. In 1920, the end of the sanctuary was torn out and the building filled with hay.

In 1943, a new church was organized. Under the direction of the Rev. Simon Anderson, the old sanctuary was purchased and the building remodeled. The present building was completed in 1957.

Another landmark of Proebstel is the Lackamas Valley Milling Co., a firm that processes and distributes feed for farm animals. It is Proebstel's only industry.

"There are really no big farms left in Proebstel," explained Howard Schmid, partner with his father, Andy Schmid. "Our feed is shipped throughout the Northwest, but we sell very little of it here."

Proebstel once had another major industry. This was a big cheese factory located on the east bank of Lacamas Creek, on the site where Historic school was moved several miles and now is a church.

EARLY CLARK COUNTY PLACES

Proebstel's first school had been built in about 1868.

The cheese factory, constructed in 1914 by the Lacamas Valley Cooperative Dairy Association, burned to the ground in 1932. At that time, The Columbian reported the cheese factory had processed 2,600,000 pounds of milk into 295,658 pounds of cheese during 1931.

Part of the old cheese factory is incorporated into Proebstel's lone retail store. This is Craig's Country Market, owned and operated by Ferrell Craig.

"This is a fine community, and the people here are really great," said Craig, who said he has lived in Proebstel for six years. Craig said there has been steady residential growth. However, the commercial explosion creeping east along Fourth Plain Road from Orchards has not yet reached Proebstel.

Among the greatest boosters of Proebstel are J.E. and Blanche Sturgeon, both of whom have lived in the community since near the turn of the century. Mrs. Sturgeon is an expert on the history of her neighborhood and knew the members of the pioneer Proebstel family.

Mrs. Sturgeon preserves records dating back to the 1850s about the donation land claims taken out by John, Jacob and Valentine Proebstel.

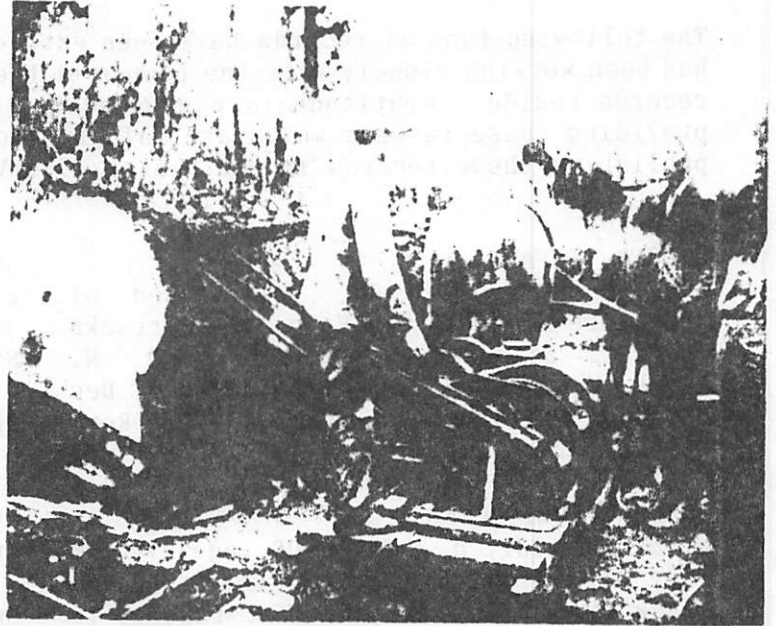

Part of the Sturgeon home at 19117 N.E. 58th St. was built in 1872. From the kitchen window, the Sturgeons can look out over the original John Proebstel homestead where a stone creamery stood next to the huge barn, which had stalls for 100 cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturgeon like to tell about Proebstel's baseball teams, winners of many championships. One of the lads who played ball on the local field was Ray Orteig, who went on to win fame as a professional catcher.

They credit much of the love of baseball to a woman teacher, the late Betty McKenna, who showed her pupils at the tiny school how to bat and throw and slide into the bases.

"I remember her driving to games with kids hanging all over her car like ants," Sturgeon said.

Mrs. Sturgeon has school records of 1868 that show 11 of 24 pupils had Proebstel surnames.

"Now there is not a single Proebstel left in this area," Mrs. Sturgeon said. "They have all died or moved away."

However, the community holds a Proebstel Day celebration each August, she said, and a few Proebstels show up from California or elsewhere.

Proebstel School District 5 faded from existence in 1945 when seven school districts voted to consolidate into one Evergreen School District. The districts were East Mill Plain, West Mill Plain, Burton, Fisher, Harmony, Orchards and Proebstel.

It is interesting to note that the people of Proebstel voted against this consolidation, 14 to 13.

Reeder sees this vote as a symbol of Proebstel's pride.

"We always seem to vote against everything," he said.

The big, wooden school building, constructed in 1919 at a cost of $6,500, became an American Legion hall after the war. In more recent years, it was sold, sawn in two pieces and moved several miles southeast to the Fern Prairie area of Camas where it has become the Lacamas Bible Church.

The Proebstel post office, formed on July 20, 1886, with Francis M. Proebstel as postmaster, lasted just 21 years. It was abandoned in 1907 when mail service was transferred to Orchards.

One symbol of Proebstel's decline is the community hall. Now tumbled down and decaying the hall was built in 1914 with community donations and labor. A women's organization was formed to sponsor parties, dances and movies at the hall.

The biggest geographical landmark of Proebstel is Green Mountain, a pyramid-shaped mound that overlooks the Lacamas Creek floodplain. This mountain was logged off during World War I, according to Sturgeon.

KNAPP GUNDERSON FUNERAL RECORDS

The following funeral records have been extracted by CCGS member Geraldine Gilman who has been working closely with the people at the Hamilton-Mylan Funeral Home where these records reside. Gratitude is expressed to the funeral home for their generosity in providing these records which are valuable to researchers. STABBING ARRAY. -- On Saturday evening last as affray took place on Main street, wherein Mr. N. BATEMAN received a serious if not dangerous wound. It seems that JOHN COMPO, a Portugese, went into Mr. KEEGAN's Saloon and called for a drink, which was given him. He refused to pay for the same and commenced abusing the bar keeper who thereupon had him ejected from the house. He continued his abusive language upon the sidewalk when Mr. BATEMAN told him to dry up. He then called Mr. B. very hard names, which so incensed him that he went for a club and gave him a sever beating in the street. After they had been parted, COMPO sat down for a few minutes, at the time bleeding profusely from wounds that he had received. He was told to go to the Doctor and get his wounds dressed, which he started to do. While on his way he noticed Mr. BATEMAN standing in front to Mr. O'KEANE's place to business and immediately stabbed his with a small knife which it seems, he had held in his hands from the commencement of the affray. The wound penetrated the abdoman about two inches to the left of the navel. As it is difficult to probe woulnds of this character, the extent of the injury cannot now he ascertained. The patient is easy now however, and the symthoms now are favorable to his recovery. COMPO after examination before JUDGE SMITH was discharged upon his recognizance to appear before the next District Court to answer a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. [2/2]

MOUNT HOOD. -- A part consisting of Col. WILLIAMSON, Lieut. HUER, U.S. Eng., Dr. GHISLIM, Medical Director, Col. SMITH, late of Illinois, Messrs. GEO. T. HODGES and Wm. TURNBULL of this place, Mr. BEST, Mr. ATKINSON acting as guide, together with packers, cook and other attendants left Portland at 12 o'clock m. on the 20th for the purpose ascending Mount Hood. We are permitted to make some extracts from the diary of one of the party. The first day the party arrived in camp on Johnson's Creek about 12 miles from Portland, having been considerably delayed by taking wrong roads and the stubbornness of the pack mules, that wouldn't go. After supper and a few songs with banjo accompaniment the party retired to bed. Some in the open air and others in tents. But sleep did not visit their eyelids. Fleas as large as a woodchuck, savage as a bear and swift as a race horse tormented them continually and little was heard during the night, except gentle anathemas upon the heads of these interesting insects. On Wednesday nothing occurred to interrupt the progress of the party. They traveled all day over a good road and arrived at about 5 P.M. at MOORS' Ranch where they camped for the night. On Thursday they started at 7 1/2 A.M. and arrived at Stumpville, 4 miles form Laurel Hill at 10:45 A.M. Here they met a Mr. KERNS and a little boy 10 years old who had made the ascent of Mount Hood the Monday previous. The ascent was represented by them not to be at all difficult and the little boy had gone up without any covering to his face. At Government Camp, where they arrived at 3 P.M., they left the main road and traveled on until they reached the edge of the timber and near the snow line, where they arrived late in the evening and camped for the night. Bright and early the next morning the party made final preparations for ascent. Armed and equipped with pikes, veils, canteen, rope &c. they started on horseback and traveled about 5 1/2 miles, when the animals were sent back. Here the ascent commenced in good earnest and is described as very hazardous. Here and there a narrow ridge to travel upon with yawning chasms on either side, it required much fortitude and self possession, especially the distance of about 1000 feet just below the summit which sloped at an angle of about 60 degrees. One of the party became ill and dropped back, but the prospective excitement of reaching the Summit nerved the balance and after a toilsome journey at 1 1/2 P.M. Messrs. HUER, HODGES, ATKINSON, BEST, TURNBULL and Col. SMITH reached the summit. -- the atmosphere at the distance was very smoky, which precluded a very extensive view of the surrounding scenery. But even at it was, it is represented to be indescribably grand. Mount St. Helens, Adams, Ranier, Jefferson, the Olympic range loomed up in silent and gloomy grandeur. The Columbia river and here and there visible like a thin silvery thread winding through the valleys; three or four lakes, which as supposed, have never been visited by man, repose silently to the northward; they counted fourteen distinct ranges of hills and mountains; in the immediate vicinity they beheld with awe and wonder fearful and terrible chasms, crags and precipices which spoke of stupendous revolutions of nature. But oh! for the glory of Mount Hood! Barometrical observations taken by Lieut. HUER established the fact that old Mont Hood is only about 11,000 feet high -- not 17,610 as reported last year by Professor Wood. The exact height cannot be fully ascertained, until the observations taken at San Francisco, Astoria, Dalles and Vancouver are fully reported. The party remained upon the summit about 1 1/2 hour, enjoying the glorious view, when they commenced the descent, which is described as being swifter than locomotive speed and very damaging to the seats of their unmentionables. Col SMITH and others lingered back, bent upon a closer examination of the crater which is about 1000 feet below the summit. Col. SMITH was let down the crater by aid of a rope held by Mr. ATKINSON about 150 feet. After reaching that distance he climbed down about 150 feet more. He found the stones very hot and snow dropping down continually which erected a vapor, that has been often mistaken for smoke. In different portions of the crater he found large roomy caverns with icicles suspended in phantastic shapes from the ceiling. After exploring the crates as long and as far as was safe, he was safely hauled up by Mr. ATKINSON and they joined the rest of the party who had reached camp. The whole party returned safely to Portland a few days after well pleased with their tour, although some of them pronounce Mount Hood on account of its reduced altitude a hike and something like, as old JOE MEEK used to see it in former day, "a hole in the ground." [2/3]

FIRE. -- Vigilance Hook & Ladder Company No. 1, will hold their regular meeting this Saturday evening, Aug. 31, 1867, at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is requested. By order of the FOREMAN. PETER H. FOX, Secretary. [2/3]

A great deal of sickenss especially among children is prevalent in this neighborhood ad present. Several deaths have occured and it is feared that unless a speedy change of the weather takes place, the result in some cases will prove fatal. The cholera morbas seems to be most common. [2/5]

The Levee is being considerably improved by COL. HODGES. Piles have been driven along the river bank on the military reserve and they are now being planked and capped. This work when completed, will form a substantial bulwark and prevent any frhter washing away of the banks. [2/5]

Two mammoth turnips have been brought to the office, which were raised by Mr. JACOB WINTLER upon his brother's farm at Washoubal. They are larger than any we saw at the last Oregon State Fair. [2/5]

LOCAL MATTERS. (About half the column contains a message regarding why Mayor A.G. TRIPP vetoed the Main street ordinance. DAVID WALL, Bateman street, Batman street, TURNBULL store, DURGAN market are mentioned.) [3/1]

SOUTHERN RELIEF FUND. -- Mr. A.A. SHAE BEN the efficient Secretary of the Branch Commission at this place has been energetically engaged during the past week in aid of the philanthropic project of assisting the poor and needy of the South. He himself has commenced a writing school, the proceeds of which are to be donated to the General fund of the Society. He has already engaged some thirty pupils to whom he will give lessons in the evening. He also proposes that at an early day a Fair be given, the proceeds of which are to be applied in the same direction. [3/1]

The ball of the Occidentals on Friday was a great success and is spoken of as one of the most pleasant parties ever given in Vancouver. It was given at Mr. BROWNS's new Oro Fino Hall, which has just been finished and is one of the finest in the Territory. The supper was furnished by Mrs. FIELDS, landlady of the Alta House and was highly commended by those who partook of the same. [3/1]

FIREMAN'S PARADE. -- On Monday next the annual parade of the Portland Fire Department will take place. An invitation has been extended to the different Companies of this City to participate. General ALLEN No. 3 will turn out in a body taking with them their apparatus while Vancouver No. 1 and Vigilance II. & L. Co.No. 1 will send a delegation each. [3/1]

We are requested by Mr. ANTON YOUNG to return his sincere thanks to the citizens of Vancouver generally for their kind sympathies manifested on the occasion of the funeral obsequies of his doomed wife and also to the Sisters of Charity and other kind friends for their unremitting attention, aid and sympathies extended during the last illness of his wife. [3/1]

Mr. W.M. SIMMONS is the fruit king of Clarke county. He brought into our office this week twelve plums of immense size, grown together in a close cluster, weighing in the aggregate two pounds and twelve ounces. Who can beat that? [3/1]

BILL BARKER has followed our advice. He has gone and done it. He has left the murky precincts of bachelorhood. He has plunged recklessly into the state of matrimony. A multitude of young BARKERS will doubtlessly be barking in the house of the old BARKERS in due course of muchly to the discomfort of Mr. WILLIAM BARKER and Mrs. Barker. But that's all in a life time. We hope the young married couple may smoothly glide down the stream of time and experience all the joys of matrimonial felicity. [3/1]

Capt. TURNBULL makes the statement that a number of young men and boys, in an entirely nude condition, have been in the habit of outraging all decency the their offensive movements on the bank, when the steamer Fannie Troup was passing in coming from Portland, much to the annoyance of passengers. This is the reason he took the clothes of the boys away the other day in order that a well remembered lesson might be taught them. [3/1]

DEAD. -- The soldier whom we mentioned last week as having fallen from the upper story of one other buildings in the Garrison died last Saturday form injuries sustained by the fall. [3/1]

CHALLENGE. --The First Nine of the Sherman Club and the First nine of the Occidental Base Ball Club will play their first match game of the season in this place on next Wednesday, Sept. 4th at 9 1/2 o'clock a.m. --The Sherman Club, which is principally composed of soldiers stationed at this post have undergone a thorough course of practice and seen to the confident of success. "The smiling summers, that come and go; Can never never heal; The bleeding bosoms which feel to-day; Somewhat that's sharper than steel." At Washougal, Clarke County, on the 29th inst. Mrs. CATHERINE ROCKETT, wife of ROBERT ROCKETT. Deceased leaves a loving husband and four small children to mourn the untimely death.

1897 Description of a Columbia River Trip

L-R: Charles N. Collins family in 1888: Charles, Anna Eliza, Charles Edgar, Joseph Eugene, Mabel Agnes, Minerva Alice, Mary Ellen, Bessie May

Charles Nichols Collins wrote the following letter while visiting his son Eugene in The Dalles, OR, in 1897. He describes several trips, including one to Portland. Charles was born 18 Aug 1831 in Burton, Geauga Co, OH, the son of Edward and Thalia Beard Collins who later moved to Beardstown, IL, a town that Thalia's brother had founded. (Charles Collins was the great grandfather of James W. Gilman of Vancouver, WA -- Jim's wife Gerry is a CCGS member and is extracting funeral records which are being published currently in the Trail Breakers.)

Charles was accompanied on this visit with his wife Mary Ellen (Corrie), and children Mable and Charles Jr. Eugene's (Gene) wife was Iva Brooks Collins, the daughter of Edgar Selden Brooks and granddaughter of Linus and Eliza Brooks who were also from Burton, OH, and later Beardstown, IL. The Brooks Family (Linus, Eliza, Samuel, Maria, Selden and Henry) had crossed the Plains on the Oregon Trail in 1850 and had settled at what is now known as Brooks, OR. About 1890 the Collins family and Minerva (Mrs. Nelson Gray) moved to Pasadena, CA.

The eldest son, Samuel Brooks settled at The Dalles, OR, where he had an interest in several enterprises including the town water works. He married Anna Pentland whose father had come across the plains in 1845 and returned to England bringing the family via ship in 1850. Anna and Samuel had no children, but raised their niece, Iva, when her mother died at the birth of Iva's sister. Samuel was inclined to be a snob and was most anxious to show his long time friend the glories of Oregon versa California. In later years though, he and Anna spent their winters in Pasadena where Anna died in 1911 on one such trip.

Dear Ones in Cal:
Hello, Hello.

I have to talk at a great distance and you will have to listen to hear my still small voice. My mind is and has been wandering back to you about all the time since we got here. And to tell the truth I think Mother is a little homesick and me too. But we must make the best of it for Gene's sake. They are all doing their best to make it pleasant for us, but it is not California here. The streets are very rough and dust deep in places. We have Chatsworth breezes about every other day and OH THE DUST - as the soil is very dry and light and very little sprinkling streets.

The rocks loom up all through the town. It is mostly Basalt rock or volcanic formation and lava, which by the way has all got cold. It is all over this country as far as I have been. Nearly all the rock in formed in perpendicular columns, and stands up dark and gloomy.

Two weeks ago Mr. Brooks (Samuel) took me out to Sherman County, 35 miles east. Was gone two days and all the hair lifting rides that I ever had - that beat all of them.

We travelled down Rattle Snake Canyon - the grade was about like the one over to Simi (CA). A part of the way I was watching the rocks on the upper side. When we went out of the canyon we had a 3 mile grad and so steep we had to zigzag nearly all the way up. When at the top, which seemed to me very near the moon, we could see 5 snow capped mountains, namely Adams, Hood, Jefferson, Rainier and one other that I can't remember. They were all white with snow to the base. We crossed the DeChutes River twice which was a roaring and rushing torrent all in a white foam. The river is about 6 rods wide. There are a great many streams in this part with trout in them, but I have not had time to fish any yet. When we got to the top we came out on a beautiful and very rolling prairie and as far as I could see was one great wheat field and nothing else! Hardly a tree to be seen. There were some timber claims - only in name as there was nothing but brush. It is too dry for timber and they can't get water up there - only by boring from 100 to 150 feet. The water all over this part is very good and cold yet.

The houses in Sherman County were mostly shacks and looked as Chameign (IL) did in an early day. The County has only been settled 15 years.

What orchards there are out there all lean to the east as the prevailing winds are from the west. This is a good country for cherries and apples and some places prunes, and a great place for vegetables. We stayed at a little place out there by the name of Wasco. In coming back we came along the bank of the Columbia and through a canyon that the mountains on either side was 2000 feet - nearly perpendicular. There is a great deal of country here on end.

Now then for a trip down the Columbia (River) on the steamship "Regulation." Mr. Brooks came for me last thursday saying he wanted me to go to Portland with him Friday morning and as he insisted on paying all expenses, I could not refuse to go.

Well, we left here at 7 AM and after we got about 10 miles down we began to see the most wonderful sights with great mountains on either side and some with snow on and most cover with Fir trees and Pines, And great waterfalls - one of them, the Multnomah 850 feet - nearly perpendicular and when the water got near the bottom was all in a spray. The boat ran very close to the falls and you may be sure I had both eyes open.

When we got to the locks at 11 AM and stopped there long enough for me to get a good view of it and how it worked. It is a wonderful sight as we went out of the lock into the rapids below. Such as angry looking water I never got into before! It roard so that we had to talk very loud to be heard. The Captain invited me into the Tiller House which I of course was glad to accept and such a wild ride as we had and nearly flew on. We went 6 miles in 8 minutes according to one of the passenger's timers. We landed in Portland at 3 PM. Took a look about the City; went to the very tip top of the Oregonian Building which is 15 stories high. Nine stories by elevator and the rest of the way by stairs and ladder. We could see all over the City.

Then went out to the east part to Maria Brainard nee Brooks who I had not seen for 47 years, but I think I should have known her for she looks as she used to when a girl. We stayed there to tea, then back to the boat and from there to the theater to hear the noted Mr. Davenport. I supposed the play was very good, but I do not appreciate such things. The tickets cost $1.51 each which Mr. Brooks insisted on paying - 25 c(ents) would be all I would be willing to pay for that show. We stayed on board all night and at 6:30 AM started back for The Dalles.

We took another view of the sights as we went along. When we got back within 6 miles of the Lock we ran into the rapids again and it was a different thing going up. The did not seem possible to get up such a strong current for there were waves 4 and 5 feet high and whirlpools all in a foam, but we got through alright and back home safe.

Sunday Gene (Collins) got a three seated hack and we took our diner and went to a deep cut in the R.R. where there is a buried forest of petrified pines and fir trees. The top of the cut is Basalt rock and about 15 feet from the top is a layer of petrified wood. We saw one log of pine 2 feet in diameter and 3 feet long. It has a white appearance; under the wood is nearly all lava.

Well enough for this time as Mother is going to write some. I have not room enough here to keep me busy. When we get to catching fish here lively I will write again.

Remember me to Mr. & Mrs. Pearce and all the friends. I want Mother and Iva to go to Portland soon. It is a grand ride.

Charlie is very busy delivering goods. He has learned the route pretty well. Mable and Iva are helping Gene on books.

Mr garden is looking fine. When you write don't say a word about my likes and dislikes as the people here are all very jealous of California. They don't like to have me talk about it.

Gene and Iva send love to all.

Children don't forget us.

I had to tell the people here what I say in California and they don't like it.

A resident of Battle Ground, Washington, Loretta "Lorie" Joyce Okel, has been an active member since joining Clark County Genealogical Society in 1980. She is currently our head Librarian. Always willing to lend a helping hand, Lorie has worked at most C.C.G.S. activities. She teaches a class on using libraries and archives to our best advantage at the Community Education classes through Clark College, and she organized our surname file for several years.

Lorie was born in Stockton, California, 26 December 1937 to Chester Arthur Hector and Marjorie Marie West. When she was two years old the family moved to the small town of Patterson and then into the countryside near there. When she graduated from the eighth grade at Rising Sun School, the class consisted of Lorie and two boys! After finishing high school, she attended college in Modesto and at Costa Mesa, California, receiving a degree in Dental Technology and Gnashology. Later she interned and worked at the Veteran's Hospital in Long Beach and worked at a private laboratory in Corona Del Mar.

The paternal side of her family were early settlers on the West Coast, with the Turley's at San Bernadino, California in 1850, the Hector's in Tulare Co., California in 1854, the Knebel's in Eugene, Oregon in 1869 and the Anlauf's at Anlauf, Oregon in 1870. They have been moving about in these two states ever since.

On 23 May 1959, at Las Vegas, Nevada, Lorie was married to James David Okel, the son of William Robert Okel and Margaret B. Hebert. Jim was born 3 December 1936 at Los Angeles, California. They are the parents of Mark Christopher who was born on 11 July 1960 and Pamela Marie Okel who was born 20 March 1963, both at Lynwood, California. Neither are married.

Besides her membership in several genealogical societies, Lorie is a member of the Daugh-

Genealogical research has taken her to Salt Lake City, Tennessee, Ohio, California and Oregon and she has plans to publish material on several of the families that she is working on.
